BYRNES BLASTS HOPES OF MORE OIL AND GAS

Promises Effort to Improve System.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 21.—There will be no relaxation of the nation-wide restrictions on consumption of gasoline and fuel oil, James F. Byrnes, director of economic stabilization, announced today after a White House conference of high administration officials dealing with the petroleum muddle.

Byrnes said that the agencies involved will take steps to increase supplies of oil and gasoline, and to improve rationing methods, which have been subjected to a barrage of criticism.

Military Demands Rise.

He warned, however, that "in view of increased military demands and the delays in securing critical materials to expand terminal facilities and complete pipe lines and barge construction, the agencies involved hold out no hope for any lessening of the restrictions upon the use of gasoline and fuel oil."

Byrnes stepped into the petroleum situation after it became so bungled that all "A," "B," and "C" gasoline ration books were suspended in the east over the week-end, and called today's conference with Petroleum Administrator Harold L. Ickes, Price Administrator Leon Henderson, Joseph B. Eastman, director of the office of defense transportation, and Ralph Davies, deputy petroleum administrator.

No Change at Present.

In his statement after the conference, Byrnes said that they discussed available supplies, anticipated demands, and methods of rationing supplies available for civilians. For the present, he asserted, there will be no material change in the procedure adopted by the agencies involved.

Gasoline sales to private motorists were resumed in the 17 eastern states and the District of Columbia at 12:01 a. m. today after a 60 hour ban on gasoline sales which hit approximately 7,500,000 motorists along the eastern seaboard. Commercial transportation facilities were swamped as millions of private cars were taken off the streets.

When gas stations resumed sales today the value of the "B" and "C" coupons in the east had been cut from four to three gallons per coupon. The "A" coupons remain at three gallons, having been reduced from four last month. A wave of bitter cold weather sweeping over the east increased the magnitude of the problem on fuel oil shortages.

No Rush to Fill Up.

Oddly enough, there was no rush to the filling stations today when gasoline sales resumed. Drivers apparently had filled their tanks before the ban became effective Friday noon, having had advance notice on the suspension. Rationing authorities first planned to make the ban effective at midnight Thursday, but it was delayed due to a disagreement between the OPA and Ickes' office over the wording of the press release announcing the suspension. Meanwhile word of the impending suspension had leaked out.

Administration officials were trying desperately to end the chaos and have some workable rationing program to offer before the new congress convenes on Jan. 6, fearing extension of the congressional vendetta which severed Henderson from his OPA job last week.

Ickes meanwhile issued an order restricting the amounts of gasoline and fuel oil which oil companies may make available to wholesale and retail outlets in the 17 eastern states and District of Columbia, now under the tightest restrictions. The companies must limit their deliveries to the amounts which Ickes estimates can be brought into the area with present transportation facilities.

GERMAN TROOPS 'DEMORALIZED,' MOSCOW CLAIMS

Abandon Supplies on Battlefield.

MOSCOW, Dec. 22 [Tuesday]—(AP).—Russian troops driving with gathering momentum southwestward from the middle Don river gained another 15 miles yesterday on the heels of demoralized Nazi troops, the soviets announced today. The Germans are fleeing in disorder and "leaving equipment and military supplies on the battlefield," the midnight communique said.

120

The swift Russian advance was pointed directly at the key city of Rostov at the mouth of the Don. The capture of Rostov would trap 1,000,000 Germans in the Caucasus and before Stalingrad. The Russians were believed to be only about 130 miles short of Rostov.

Beat Back Counter-Drives.

"In some sectors the Germans attempted to counter-attack but were beaten back and wiped out," the communique said.

The Russians were threatening Millerovo on the Moscow-Rostov railway after capturing Degteva and Sheptukhovka, the latter on that railway only 20 miles north of Millerovo.

A juncture of these Russian troops with other Red army drives inside the Don river bend and southwest of Stalingrad would firmly inclose a noose around the 22 Nazi divisions before Stalingrad, which entered its 120th day of siege.

Believe Armies Joined.

The scene of severest battle on the Don front was in the great valleys between four rivers which eventually flow into the Don, the Kalitva, Tikhaya, Chir, and Olkhova. The offensive had started with one army sweeping down from the direction of Voronezh, which is 260 miles northwest of Stalingrad, and another driving directly west. It appeared that these armies had joined near Millerovo and had enveloped a huge triangle inside the Don elbow.

Several more large populated places as well as big stocks of German war material and an undisclosed number of prisoners were taken yesterday, the Russian communique said. One soviet unit alone was credited with killing 1,300 Germans and taking 540 prisoners as well as 11 tanks, 43 guns, 170 trucks and 2,000 horses.

More than 45,000 Germans have fallen in the snow or have surrendered in this single six day old offensive, which is only one of three great forward movements initiated by the Russians. The other big Red army drives are on the central front west of Moscow and on extended wings above and below Stalingrad.

Germans Counter-Attack.

The Germans were counter-attacking heavily on both these other fronts, but the tone of the Russian communique indicated that the Red armies in those sectors still held the initiative.

Southwest of Stalingrad the Russians acknowledged their troops were

AT LEAST 800 KILLED, THOUSANDS HURT BY QUAKE IN ANATOLIA

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

BERNE, Switzerland, Dec. 22 [Tuesday].—At least 800 persons are known to have been killed and thousands have been injured in one of the worst earthquakes in years in Anatolia, according to reports received here this morning.

Preliminary reports from Turkey indicate the epicenter of the quake to be in Herek region which was razed three years ago with a death toll of 40,000.

Whole villages have been flattened for miles around. Terrific fires are blazing and uncontroled as the inhabitants take to the fields despite the intense cold. Aid is being rushed from Ankara and neighboring cities, many of which also were reported damaged.

Tribune Prize Goes to a Man with 200 Ideas

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

A man who put 200 ideas to work to help win the war won the Chicago Tribune's War Workers Award for November. He is Nicholas E. Whitney, an employé of the Elwood Ordnance plant near Joliet. The plant was constructed and is operated by Sanderson & Porter.

Nicholas E. Whitney.

Presentation of the award—a gold pin studded with three diamonds—will be made on a radio program at 7:45 o'clock tonight on W-G-N by Lt. Col. George V. Rountree, chief fiscal officer for the Chicago Ordnance district.

Whitney, who is "Nick" to his fellow workers, is a graduate of Joliet High School. He never went to a technical school. He says a good engineer probably would find a lot of things wrong with his drawings. But his boss, T. M. Burns, a general superintendent at the big plant, said Whitney is a genius when it comes to thinking up things of a mechanical nature.

Invention of One Machine.

Altho Whitney's 200 ideas have helped to smooth many operations at Elwood, his award was based on his invention of one machine used in making shell fuses. The machine crimps the delay plunger on the fuse assembly.

The fuse is a highly important item. It ignites the tetryl—a high explosive—in a booster which in turn detonates the shell.

Burns said Whitney's machine has accomplished the following:

Simplified operation so much that 32 men have been replaced by women, releasing the men for use on other more technical jobs.

Saved at least $6,000 a month for taxpayers. This saving will be increased as production mounts. Further saving is achieved thru release of 16 drill presses and arbor presses for use in other departments.

Increase in Production.

Increased safety by eliminating 16 hazards in the old method.

Increased fuse production by 300 per cent.

Whitney was born May 26, 1907, in Joliet where he now lives at 918 Kelly avenue with his wife, Mary, and son, Nicholas Jr. Whitney's hobby is tinkering with mechanical gadgets. He worked 11 years for a Rockford machinery company.

His job in the Elwood plant is machinist foreman, where he is responsible for keeping 100 machines working. Whitney said that the plant has had trouble getting certain types of machines so they have built their own.

When he helps build a machine, Whitney explained, he first talks to the man who is going to make it and then to the man who will use it. Then he makes his drawing.

Selection of Whitney was made by the award committee headed by Henry T. Heald, president of Illinois Institute of Technology, and including Charles M. Thompson, dean of the school of commerce, University of Illinois, and James L. Donnelly, executive vice president of the Illinois Manufacturers association.

THIS IS FIRST DAY OF WINTER AND ALSO THE YEAR'S SHORTEST

If you think we've already had lots of winter so far, you're wrong—according to the almanac and the weather man—because winter does not officially arrive until 6:40 o'clock this morning. Today marks the winter solstice; also it is the shortest day of the year.

The almanac notwithstanding, Chicagoans already have had a severe dose of winter. The first 20 days of December have entered the records as the coldest of that period in Chicago history. The average temperature has been 16.8 degrees. Yesterday it was one above. The mercury later shot up to 28, and today is expected to be warmer, but with snow, drizzle, and maybe sleet.

Chicago's one above was mild compared with readings in the east. Readings released by the government for publication but not for radio broadcasting showed that most of New York state shivered under intense cold.

BELL THAT RANG IN LINCOLN'S DAY GOES TO SCRAP

A bronze church bell that tolled the news of President Lincoln's death on April 14, 1865, and sounded an alarm during the Chicago fire of 1871 will soon be silent, it was announced yesterday. It will be placed on the scrap heap.

The bell hangs 75 feet above ground in the original Providence Baptist church at Leavitt and Walnut streets, oldest Negro church in the city. It weighs more than a ton.

M'Arthur Puts New Wedge in Jap Buna Line

ALLIED HDQ. IN AUSTRALIA, Dec. 22 [Tuesday]—(AP).—A general attack supported by tanks, artillery and aviation has driven a wedge into the main defense system of the remaining Japanese positions in the Buna area of New Guinea, while heavy bombers have pounded the harbor at Finschhafen more than 150 miles to the northwest, an allied communique said today.

Gen. MacArthur's offensive overran a zone of heavy bunker type strong points with supporting and interconnecting emplacements of concrete and steel, Gen. MacArthur's noon communique added. One of the main airdrome strips was captured.

At Finschhafen, on a peninsula jutting out just north of Lae and Salamaua, which the Japanese hold, two medium sized Japanese cargo vessels were destroyed, the stern of one being blown off and the other left in flames.

The building area there was strafed from low altitude and fires were started.

Japs Use Flamethrowers.

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, Dec. 21 (AP).—With Australian-manned tanks slashing the way thru jungles and pillboxes, American infantry launched a general attack upon the remaining Japanese positions of the Buna area today after advancing 2,000 yards west of Cape Endaiadere.

The American-made Gen. Stuart light tanks, with their machine guns and 37 millimeter cannon barking, tore thru entrenchments and smashed log and concrete strong points one after the other despite the use of flamethrowers by Japanese fighting to the last man.

Strong Points Wiped Out.

The American infantry, with some Australian infantry in support, swung into action after chalking up these gains yesterday:

1. An advance of 2,000 yards along the coast from Cape Endaiadere westward.

2. Reached the creek separating the new and old Buna landing strips.

3. Blasted away the Japanese bridge over the creek with artillery fire, thus destroying a connecting link between the two strips.

4. Cleaned out strong points along the north side of the new strip as well as those on the west bank of the creek.

Price Ceilings on Food to Be Standardized

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 21.—Price Administrator Leon Henderson announced today that the present retail price control system for foods and other grocery store items is being completely overhauled.

Under a new program, which will start about Jan. 15, the present individual ceilings for grocery items based on March, 1942, levels will be replaced by flat dollar and cent price ceilings. These maximums will be the same for each class of retailers in a particular locality.

The new system will be applied first to meats and soaps and will be extended to nearly all grocery lines, Henderson said. Wholesalers' individual maximums also will be replaced by uniform flat price ceilings.

Uniformity Is Aim.

One effect of this changeover will be that a housewife will find the same ceiling prices for a particular item in each store of the same class in her community. Retail stores will be divided into three types, independents, chain stores, and super-markets. Price ceilings for a given food will be highest for the independent, less for the chain store, and lowest for the super-market.

OPA officials conceded that ceilings based on individual March levels, which have been in effect for more than seven months, have been unsatisfactory in many instances. One defect, which has brought many complaints, is that grocers with relatively low individual ceilings have been forced to discontinue some lines altogether or to continue handling them only at a loss.

Too Many Reports.

Furthermore, OPA officials said, dozens of amendments to the general regulations have been issued in an effort to iron out inequities, with the result that individual grocers are trying to operate under a variety of controls. They also have been required to file voluminous reports showing ceiling prices for each item in their stores.

Under the revised system the work of figuring ceilings will be transferred to the OPA field offices, which will add certain permitted percentage markups to cost prices of wholesalers and retailers to arrive at the permitted ceiling prices.

How the new plan will work may be explained by taking soap as an example, an official said. Using hypothetical prices, assume the manufacturer's ceiling price for a dozen cakes of one kind of soap is 50 cents. The wholesaler buying the soap will be permitted to add, say, 10 per cent, to this figure, making the price to the retailer 55 cents. The retailer will then be permitted to add, say, 20 per cent to this cost, making a retail price of 66 cents a dozen.

May Differ by Zones.

This price would apply to a particular zone. In other zones the price level might be either higher or lower depending on differences in freight rates.

Actual ceiling prices will be established officially in this way and published by the OPA, community by community, in key cities thruout the country, officials said. The new system, when applied to a particular item, will be established first in large cities and then will be extended to smaller communities.

Henderson said the decision to re-

MEAL IN WARSAW NOW COSTS $125 BUT IT'S ILLEGAL TO SERVE IT

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Dec. 21.—Warsaw is still a city of ruins, reports a Swedish business man to the Stockholm Dagens Nyheter on his return from there. Square meals are available only in illegal restaurants and cost $125. In street cars, public waiting rooms and elsewhere there are special sections for the Poles, who are untouchables and must not come near Germans.

Most of the big Warsaw streets and public squares have been given German names. Pilsudski square is now Adolf Hitler platz, Ujazdowskie avenue has become Siegesstrasse [Victory street], and so on.

The Jewish population, which has been reduced from 400,000 to 10,000, is roped into a ghetto of 800 acres, surrounded by a wall nine feet high with four gates guarded by German and Polish police. Berlin dispatches reveal that the Germans are now about to introduce better treatment of the Poles because they are desperately needed for war production.

G. O. P. CHOOSES ATTORNEY FOR APRIL BATTLE

Candidate Says He 'Welcomes Fight.'

BY ORVILLE DWYER.

Roger M. Faherty, well known lawyer and World war veteran, was chosen last night by the Republicans to run for mayor next April 6 against Edward J. Kelly, who they believe is certain to be the Democratic candidate to succeed himself for a fourth term.

Faherty must, of course, first run for the nomination in the primaries on Feb. 23. But since he is the G. O. P. organization choice, the Republican leaders believe his nomination is a foregone conclusion.

Promises A Fight.

The 53 year old lawyer's selection was announced by John T. Dempsey, chairman of the county and city Republican central committees and a committee on candidates consisting of 11 members of the city group. After Faherty was informed that he had been chosen, he held his first press conference at 10:15 p. m. in Dempsey's La Salle hotel headquarters. He said he had never had occasion to hold a press conference before.

"Was this a big surprise to you?" he was asked. He parried with "I welcome the fight!" He said it emphatically as tho he were lacing on the boxing gloves.

"What about the issues in the campaign," he was asked.

"The issues will develop as the campaign gets going," he replied. "As for going into national issues—well, I hope to keep them confined to the city of Chicago. It is going to be an exhilarating, hard, clean campaign. It will be as clean as I can possibly make it. No bricks nor personalities, no mud slinging if I can avoid it."

The Republican candidate said he has known Mayor Kelly for many years.

A Real Battle.

"We are still friends," he said, "but that's no reason I shouldn't give him a real battle. I intend to do it, too. You can bet it's going to be a forceful campaign. However, that's no reason the campaign should detract in any way from Chicago. I want to build up Chicago—not tear it down."

When interviewers mentioned the candidate's father, Michael J. Faherty, who as president of the board of local improvements built the Michigan avenue bridge and Wacker drive, the candidate said with pride, "yes, he was some builder." The elder Faherty now resides in Boynton, Fla.

Faherty was asked whether he expects to follow Gov. Dwight H. Green's campaign to smash the Kelly-Nash machine. He said he was not ready to go into campaign details; that he wants to talk such matters over with the committee and with Gov. Green and Sen. Wayland Brooks.

"What do you suppose," asked a veteran political reporter, "induced the party leaders to pick you out of the galaxy of candidates?"

The reply was, "I think they were looking for a candidate who can win."

Faherty was being photographed as he was interviewed. He sat straight and veteran like as the camera men popped their flashlight bulbs, but when one urged him to "make gestures," Faherty refused saying, "Do the best you can, boys. I don't gesture much when I talk."

Long Committee Meeting.

The G. O. P. committee on candidates had been in session thruout the afternoon on the question of announcing a choice for mayor. Late in the day it became known they had unanimously agreed on Faherty, but the group went to dinner without making any announcement. After dinner they again went into session in Dempsey's office. After a time Faherty was sent for. Before he arrived, Dempsey announced he had been selected.

On his arrival at the hotel, Faherty was accompanied by James Dick, government worker and close friend of Sen. Brooks; Attorney General George F. Barrett, who himself had been strongly considered for the mayoralty race; Edward F. Moore, ward committeeman of the 30th ward and former chairman of the county central committee; and others. There were so many present that the choice of Faherty appeared on the face of things to have been unanimous and Dempsey declared that it had. He all 10 members of the nominating committee were present and that the one absentee had given his proxy to one of those present.

Dempsey said the full city and county central committees of 50—one from each ward—will meet soon—probably Wednesday—with Faherty and ratify the choice of the committee on candidates. Today, Dempsey said, the smaller committee will meet with Faherty to get his advice on men to run with him for the nominations for city clerk and city treasurer.

Faherty has no partners in the law business. He lives at 1434 Astor street with his wife, the former Eliza Kilman, whom he married on Armistice day, 1920, soon after his discharge from the army in the World war.

Couple Have Two Daughters.

The Fahertys have two daughters. One is Mrs. Daniel C. Kennedy Jr., 21 years old, of Crockett, Tex. Her husband's mother was a granddaughter of the famous Texan, Davy Crockett. The youthful husband is an ensign in the armed guard service of the navy. Faherty's other daughter is Anne, 18, who is a medical technician in the Bassett hospital at Cooperstown, N. Y.

Faherty was born in Chicago April 21, 1889. He received his bachelor's degree from De Paul university in 1909.

The next year he entered law school at Yale university, where he met Robert A. Taft. Taft, son of the former president and now a Republican senator from Ohio, was a senior then. Faherty and Taft formed an association that has grown with the years.

Graduated from Yale.

Faherty was graduated from Yale in 1912, passed the Illinois bar examinations that year, and at once entered practice here.

His law career was interrupted by the war, in which Faherty served overseas as a first lieutenant in the 314th field artillery of the 80th division.

Faherty first rose to professional eminence in 1928 when his father, then at the head of the board of local improvements, appointed Roger to prosecute the appeal from a huge judgment against the elder Faherty and several co-defendants in the so called expert fees case.

Last Aug. 6 Faherty, in one of his rare public utterances, won resounding applause at a Republican state organization meeting with a two sentence speech on his state platform suggestions.

"First," Faherty said, "the Republican party pledges to preserve the independence of the United States.

"Second, the Republican party indorses the record of Sen. Brooks in every particular, including the crossing of every 't' and the dotting of every 'i'."

CITY PAY RAISES INCREASE COUNTY BUDGET WORRIES

Chicago's action in granting 1943 salary increases to many city employés created adiditional problems for the Cook county board, which is broke and must shave its expenditures down to the size of its revenues unless it chooses to risk payless paydays.

The county appropriated 20½ million dollars for 1942 and spent all but about $200,000 of this. The revenues were only about 18 millions and it is estimated they will be about the same in 1943. As a result of overspending in recent years the county now has piled up bills of $5,144,000.

In the light of what the city's budget makers are doing, county officials feel that they cannot cut any salaries. Expert opinion indicates that personnel reductions cannot be expected to reduce the pay roll total by more than 10 per cent and that a maximum of only 5 per cent can be slashed from the cost of running the county institutions, such as the hospital and Oak Forest infirmary. That is being set, in fact, as a goal, rather than the 20 per cent suggested by the Cook county budget survey.

Second Child in Stricken Family Dies of Coal Gas

Anton Fair, 7 years old, died yesterday of the effects of coal gas which escaped Sunday from the stove in his home at the rear of 2913 West 25th place. His sister, Shirley, 7 months old, died Sunday. The parents, Aldrich, 34, and his wife, Alice, 30, are still in critical condition in St. Anthony's hospital. The family was found unconscious by the landlord, John Szafran, who lives in the same building.

REP. DEWEY APPROVES FAHERTY CHOICE FOR G. O. P. MAYORAL RACE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 21 [Special].—Congressman Charles S. Dewey, asked to comment on the designation of Roger M. Faherty as Republican candidate for mayor of Chicago, said here tonight:

"I think it's a splendid thing to have an old, stout Republican of a fine line of Republicans running for the office of mayor of Chicago. I congratulate the chairman of the county central committee and the governor of the state on the choice made. As a life long Republican and a member of congress, Mr. Faherty can count on my full support and coöperation.

"Under a Democratic administration the city of Chicago has lost population and has lost business and the city's finances are in a deplorable condition. Under the sound and patriotic leadership that a Republican mayor will give it, and the old 'I will' spirt, it will come back. Chicago nearly has lost the chance of becoming the nation's great air center and I personally will be glad to help our next mayor, Faherty, that Chicago may become the great air center, as it has always been the great railroad center."

BEAUTICIANS TOP LIST IN ILLINOIS TRADE REGISTRY

For the year up to Dec. 15, the Illinois department of registration and education issued 9,780 certificates and renewed 125,707 more in the 22 trades and professions under its supervision, according to an annual report made public yesterday by Frank G. Thompson, director.

Beauty operators led the list, with 3,460 new certificates and 36,145 renewals. Nurses were second, with 2,959 new certificates and 28,554 renewals. There were 467 new certificates and 17,285 renewals issued to barbers.

During the year, 59,126 inspections were made. There were 1,005 investigations resulting in 60 criminal prosecutions and 65 actions to revoke licenses. Convictions were won against 29 violators of the medical practice act, 11 plumbers, 7 barbers, 4 beauty culturists, 2 dentists, 2 phamacists, a nurse, a chiropodist and 1 correspondence school.

INDICT 3 IN BOYS' SCHOOL ESCAPE SLUGGING CASE

David Strong and Sherman Ingram, each 17 years old, and Andrew Brooks, 18, of East St. Louis, all colored, were indicted by the Kane county grand jury in Geneva yesterday on charges of larceny and assault with intent to kill.

Last Wednesday the three, prisoners in the Illinois State Training School for Boys near St. Charles, slugged a house father, James F. Boyce, robbed him of his watch and bill fold, and escaped. They were recaptured next day near Geneva.

An indictment was also returned charging Allen Stewart with larceny, forgery and operating a confidence game. Stewart is accused of selling grain belonging to his employer, Forrest Harret, a Kaneville farmer to whom Stewart was paroled from Joliet penitentiary last summer. The indictments were returned before Circuit Judge Charles A. O'Connor.

DEWEY APPOINTS NEWSPAPERMAN HEAD OF BANKS

New York, Dec. 21 [Special].—Gov. Elect Thomas E. Dewey today appointed as his state superintendent of banks Elliott V. Bell, a 40 year old former financial writer who has been a member of the New York Times editorial board specializing on economic subjects since 1941.

Bell, a resident of Forest Hills, Queens, will assume his $12,000 job on Jan. 1 succeeding Jackson S. Hutto, the acting superintendent who handed his resignation to Gov. Charles Poletti today. Bell is a born New Yorker who has been in newspaper work since his graduation from Columbia university in 1925.

The appointment of Bell, a Republican and friend of the governor elect for the last 15 years, was announced at the Dewey law office here.

NEVADA DIVORCES UPHELD; RUSH BY CHICAGOANS SEEN

Six Week Law Held Valid in All States.

Illinois divorce seekers who can afford it are expected to flock to Nevada for a speedy parting of their martial ties because of a United States Supreme court decision handed down yesterday. The decision held that Nevada's six week divorces are valid and that all other states must recognize them.

Chicago judges who were informed last night of the ruling, said an exodus is likely, altho most of them said they would like to have further time to study the legal wording before agreeing flatly that Illinois courts hereafter must reverse their almost unanimous stand against the validity of Reno divorces.

Judge Lynch Gives Opinion.

"Nevada and the other states where quick divorces are granted have laws," Circuit Court Judge Thomas J. Lynch said. "They have legislatures and the laws are passed by these legislatures. The people who have qualified under those laws and conformed with the portion of the statute governing residence apparently can assume that their acts are legal, under this decision, and have the right to expect that the decree issued to them will be recognized with full force and effect in all states."

This opinion was concurred in by Superior Court Judge Oscar Nelson, who said that the decision means persons desiring divorces will not need to wait for a year as required by Illinois law if they can afford to go to Reno.

The Supreme court's decision reversed the conviction for "bigamous cohabitation" of two North Carolina residents who went to Nevada in 1940, lived six weeks in an auto court near Las Vegas, obtained divorces from their respective spouses on the ground of cruelty, and then married and returned to North Carolina.

Man Wed for 24 Years.

The husband, O. B. Williams, had been married to his previous wife for 24 years and had four children. His present wife, Lillie Shaver Hendri Williams, had been married to her former husband for 20 years.

The Supreme court opinion, citing the provision of Nevada's divorce law that "plaintiff shall have resided six weeks in the state before suit be brought," said it was clear Nevada thereby required a divorce seeker "to have a domicile as distinguished from a mere residence in the state;" that each state can alter "the marriage status of the spouse domiciled there, even tho the other spouse is absent," and that North Carolina and all other states were required by the Constitution to give "full faith and credit" to Nevada's decrees.

The North Carolina court which convicted the couple held they acquired no actual domicile in Nevada, but the Supreme court said this question was not before it and "we must assume that the petitioners had a bona fide domicile in Nevada, not that the Nevada domicile was a sham."

"Demoralizing," Says Dissenter.

The decision was 6 to 2 with Justices Frank Murphy and Robert H. Jackson dissenting. Justice Jackson, in an 11 page dissent, attacked the finding as "a demoralizing decision" which "repeals the divorce laws of all the states and substitutes the law of Nevada" in cases of marriages where husband or wife "can afford a short trip there."

"While a state no doubt can set up its own standards of domicile as to its internal concerns," Jackson wrote, "I do not think it can require us to accept and in the name of the Constitution impose them on other states. If Nevada may prescribe six weeks of indefinite permanent abode in a motor court as constituting domicile, she may as readily prescribe six days.

"Indeed, if the opinion is carried to its logical conclusion, a state could grant a domicile for divorce purposes upon the filing of some sort of declaration of intention. Then we would be required to accept it as sufficient and to force all states to recognize mail order divorces as well as tourist divorces."

Justices Murphy and Jackson dissented on the ground that the majority was applying the "full faith and credit clause" of the Constitution with "undesirable rigidity" and that "the question of public policy" should be considered.

Christmas Carols in Chicago's Loop

CHRISTMAS HERE ALREADY FOR 11 IN ALIMONY ROW

Eleven members of alimony row plunged their hands into the Christmas grab bag in Judge Oscar F. Nelson's court yesterday and drew out their freedom. A 12th man, Odis R. Doyle, 36 years old, was missing because of illness. But his former wife, Daisy, was on hand to tell the court her Christmas wish for him.

"Other boys are trying to make a good home, Judge," Mrs. Doyle said. "But not Odis. He doesn't help take care of our child or his other children by previous marriages. Don't let him out. Make him an example for somebody else."

Altho Doyle already has served almost six months in alimony row and Judge Nelson warned that "If he's not impressed now he never will be," the case will be heard again later.

The 11 men released were quietly jubilant and full of promises of fine things for the future. All agreed to start hunting work just as soon as they stepped out of court. They also said they intended to make their alimony payments. The ex-wife of one of the men released—she had come to court to try to persuade Judge Nelson to keep him in alimony row a little longer—suddenly got the Yuletide spirit and invited him to Christmas dinner.

Because so many of the men released have children to support, Judge Nelson gave them a pep talk on the rights, privileges, and duties of being a father.

"All of you boys ought to go away from here with the resolution to take care of your children," he said. "You should and must. Merry Christmas!"

Axis Diplomats in Chile Ask Passports Prepared

SANTIAGO, Chile, Dec. 21 (AP).—The pro-democratic newspaper Defensa reported today that axis diplomats have asked for passport visas in order to be able to leave the country quickly if Chile breaks relations. The paper added it understood that if the break were made Argentina would assume representation of Chilean interests in axis countries. The senate plans to debate relations with the axis privately on Wednesday.

Voices Amplified

Half a million persons paused for almost 25 minutes in the loop last night to join 15 members of the Salvation army chorus in a program of Christmas carols sponsored by the State Street council. The chorus, in full uniform, sang from a platform at State and Adams streets and their voices were amplified by the "Voice of State Street" studios, 209 South State street. Men at almost every corner urged the crowds to join in the singing. Altho all carols were sung a cappella, chimes and an organ were heard from the studios. Capt. Howard Chesham is director of the chorus.

ZILLER ATTACKS JOB SALE CASE; CHARGES SMEAR

Monticello, Ill., Dec. 21 [Special].—George W. Ziller and his co-defendants, Russell Brandt and John Weintz, appeared today before Circuit Judge W. S. Bodman at a hearing on a motion to quash indictments charging them with conspiracy to "sell" ordnance plant jobs.

Ziller, whose 538 pound weight has complicated the case because he must be tried in a courthouse with elevators, had his hearing on a special first floor room instead of the regular second floor courtroom.

Ziller's attorney argued that the indictment against his client should be quashed because Ziller had been subjected to a "smear" campaign in the press in advance of the indictment. The state countered that indictments cannot be quashed because of newspaper publicity. Judge Bodman said he would rule on the quash motion by Jan. 6, "if possible."

TEST VALIDITY OF COUNTY'S CITY COURT DIVORCES

Affects Chicago Heights and Calumet City.

The first legal test of the validity of nonresident divorces granted in the city courts of Calumet City and Chicago Heights was set in motion yesterday with the filing of a suit for annulment in the Circuit court. The ruling will be awaited with anxiety by scores of outsiders who obtained divorces there in the last few years, attorneys said.

The suit, filed by Atty. Elmer J. Schnackenberg, who is speaker of the Illinois house of representatives, demanded the marriage of John F. Cullen Jr., be set aside on the ground the Calumet City divorce of his bride, obtained a few days before, was illegal. Cullen, 28 years old, resides at 10635 Avenue G.

A defense plant policeman, he was married last Aug. 13 to Mrs. Harriet Stevens, 19 years old, who now lives at 8818 Indiana avenue. On Aug. 1 Mrs. Stevens was granted a default divorce on grounds of desertion from Paul Stevens, now in the army, by Judge Robert A. Meier Jr. of Chicago Heights, acting city judge in Calumet City. These two cities are the only ones in Cook county with city courts.

Schnackenberg's suit contends the Aug. 1 divorce is invalid because neither Stevens nor Mrs. Stevens was a resident of Calumet City. It sets forth that the nonresident divorce jurisdiction of city courts in Calumet City and Chicago Heights is limited to acts of cruelty occuring within the territorial boundaries of the city each serves. He asks, therefore, that the Stevens divorce be set aside and the Cullen marriage be declared void.

A similar case involving a divorce obtained in the Aurora City court in 1932 by Rufus Riddlesbarger, head of Lanteen Laboratories, Inc., was continued by Circuit Judge Thomas J. Lynch yesterday until Jan. 4, when he is expected to rule.

Riddlesbarger's former wife, Fay, recently filed suit for divorce here, charging that the 1932 divorce is invalid because neither she nor her husband was a resident of Aurora at the time, and the cause of action did not arise there. In January, 1941, she accepted a lump settlement of $23,500, but now she asks support money for the last 10 years.

HULL HOUSE YULE FESTIVAL WILL BE HELD DOWNTOWN

The Hull House Christmas festival, a tradition for more than 30 years at the west side settlement, will be given for the first time in the downtown district at 3:30 o'clock next Monday afternoon. It will be held in Goodman theater in the Art Institute. A chorus of 50 voices will sing carols and tableaux reflecting the spirit of paintings of Italian masters will be presented. Children and adults of the Hull House community participate.

The Public School Art society, affiliated with the Art Institute, is presenting the festival as a benefit for the institute's educational department.

Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, president of the Public School Art society, and other officers and directors are directing the program.

CHARGE CIO REDS RAID UMW UNIONS IN WAR INDUSTRY

Officials Assert Tactics Slow Down Output.

Officials of the United Mine workers, district 50, part of the old John L. Lewis union which broke away last fall from the CIO, charged yesterday that Communist elements in the CIO are agitating raids on well established UMW locals here.

They charged that the Red agitators of the CIO are attempting to influence workers to break away from UMW locals which have held contracts with employers for as long as three years and where the union-employer relationships are harmonious, and also are interfering with the war production of the union members.

They named six plants in and near Chicago where they charged raiding tactics are in progress. In one of these, they said, the CIO group won a victory over an old-established UMW local in a National Labor Relations board election.

Car Company Involved.

Frank Barnhart, regional director of the United Construction workers, affiliated with the UMW, named four of the plants, including the Pressed Steel Car company, Inc., war factory at 136th street and Brandon avenue, where he said his union represents 2,400 of 3,200 eligible workers and has held contracts for two years.

Lieut. Make Mills, head of the industrial division of Chicago police, said he has recognized the Communist element in the internecine union fights.

"It is a fight between the CIO and the UMW," he said, "and as is true in other agitations of this kind, the leaders are the communists of the CIO."

The current struggle goes back to the break between the mine workers and the CIO after Lewis bolted the New Deal party to indorse Wendell Willkie in the 1940 Presidential election.

When the UMW voted to withdraw from the CIO in Cincinnati last Oct. 7, Lewis declared that the CIO "has been out to destroy district 50, trying to get local unions to join that pure organization, the CIO."

Charges Slow Down.

The UMW policy committee in Washington last June passed resolutions declaring that Philip Murray, CIO president, "has seen fit to cast his lot with the Communist element of the CIO and has rushed to their defense under the guise, cloak, and pretense of national unity."

Barnhart charged that CIO local union 166, "backed by the CIO Ford local 551," has attempted to raid the United Construction workers, local 237, at the Pressed Steel Car plant. He said that CIO agitators influenced piece workers on one shift to slow down, thus providing less work for the later shifts to complete and slowing war production.

The CIO local also has petitioned for a NLRB election, he said, in spite of the fact that the UAW local has had a record of harmonious relations at the plant and has a contract that does not expire until next March.

Cites Three Year Contract.

He said the same raiding tactics are in progress among the 300 eligible workers represented by his union at the Aerocoach company, also at 136th street and Brandon avenue. The UMW contract has been in force there three years.

At the Harbison Walker Refractories, 4343 Kennedy street, East Chicago, Barnhart said the CIO local of the Gas, Coke and Chemical Workers union, organized last July by Martin Wagner, won an NLRB election among 400 eligible workers who had been represented for three years by his union. Another CIO group also tried to organize UMW workers at the Victor Chemical Works, 1100 Arnold street, Chicago Heights, he said, but was temporarily defeated.

A spokesman of the gas, coke and chemical division of the UMW added to the list the names of two more war plants where the CIO was attempting organization. These are the Wilson Laboratories at 4221 South Western avenue, where 80 workers are involved, and the Chicago Copper and Chemical company, 127th and Division street, Blue Island, he said.

Says Communist Expelled.

Barnhart told of a worker at the Harbison Walker Refractories who was discharged while the UMW union was in control. He was a union member. After his dismissal the union received reports that he had attended Communist meetings.

"The UMW has never tolerated the presence of Communists in its ranks, and when they are found out they are expelled," Barnhart declared.

The man was tried by a union board and resigned during its deliberations, he said. Three months ago, Barnhart said, this same man began to agitate for the CIO group trying to gain a foothold at the plant.

BRITISH COMMUNIST PARTY RENEWS PLEA TO TIE UP WITH LABOR

LONDON, Dec. 21 (AP).—The Communist party in Britain renewed today its 1939 application for affiliation with the second strongest group in parliament, the British Labor party. The request was made in a letter asking the Laborites to consider the application at their next annual conference in 1943.

Harry Pollitt, Communist party chairman, gave assurances that his followers would "loyally carry out all decisions" reached at annual Labor party conferences. He said that war time experiences had shown that a united working class could play a "tremendous part" in winning the war and in reconstruction afterward.

Some observers interpreted the move as paralleling on the British scene the efforts on an international scale to obtain unity in the war and postwar planning among Russia and her allies. The application followed the full reinstatement of the Communist party in British political life that was signalized by removal of the ban on its newspaper, the Daily Worker.

ALDERMEN WON'T SAY QUITS YET ON RIVER TAXI FLEET

Ald. Walter J. Orlikoski [35th], chairman of the city council committee on harbors, wharves, and bridges, said yesterday that the city will not let the river taxi proposal die because of coast guard objections voiced last week.

Ald. Orlikoski.

"We are going to keep on trying to get this river service in operation," Ald. Orlikoski said. "We will try to get the coast guard to waive some of its regulations, and we have great hopes of working out some plan with them.

Additional Service Needed.

"Surely the coast guard could permit its regulations to be relaxed sufficiently for operation of the river service to some point in the loop area. The additional transportation is badly needed, and this 'highway' should be used."

Ald. Orlikoski said his committee hopes to obtain a decision from the coast guard before the next council meeting Dec. 29. The matter has been referred to a special subcommittee headed by Ald. William T. Murphy [17th] for further investigation and discussion with the coast guard.

John Keeshin, head of the Keeshin Freight lines, who had offered to put 60 river passenger boats into service, said yesterday that "I can't fight the navy." He said he hoped that the council committee can obtain a relaxation of regulations from the coast guard.

Petition Signed by 117.

Leo Heller, executive secretary of the North Central association representing near north side property owners, presented a petition to Ald. Orlikoski signed by 117 persons who promised to use the service if it is installed.

The coast guard objections to the river bus proposal were: 1. Passengers would have to have identification tags to conform to present regulations. 2. All packages carried would have to be inspected. 3. No enemy aliens would be permitted on the river boats. 4. Boats could not travel faster than 6 miles an hour. 5. At two areas boats would have to stop for inspection. 6. Boats would have to tie up and wait when larger boats go thru.

BRITISH PACIFIST AND FORMER CLERIC HELD AS PUBLIC DANGER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 21.—Stuart Morris, general secretary of the Peace Pledge union and formerly honorary canon of Birmingham [England] cathedral, has been detained by the police under regulation 18-B, which gives the home secretary power to arrest any one whom he considers dangerous.

Morris at a meeting at Manchester in 1939 announced he was renouncing holy orders and resigning his canonry "as a protest against the official attitude of the Church of England toward the war."

He resigned the chairmanship of the union but accepted the appointment as general secretary. In the three-cornered King's Norton [an election district] by election he ran as an independent pacifist but was defeated by a "bomb Berlin," candidate, Capt. Basil A. J. Peto, a Conservative, in 1941. He only polled 1,552 votes against 21,000 for Peto.

BRITISH 8TH ARMY PRESSES ROMMEL NEARER TRIPOLI

Believe Axis Chief Intends Retreat Into Tunisia.

LONDON, Dec. 21 (AP).—Britain's 8th army, advancing along the rim of the Mediterranean, was reported within 250 miles of Tripoli tonight amid increasing signs that Marshal Erwin Rommel's fleeing axis troops intend to cross into Tunisia for a final stand in the battle of Africa.

Gen. Bernard L. Montgomery's 8th army was reported five miles west of Sultan, about 140 miles west of El Agheila.

The allied controled Morocco radio, however, said that Rommel's troops had reached Misurata, only 100 miles from Tripoli.

Moving Men from Tripoli.

The axis was reported moving men from Tripoli, last big Libyan base available to Rommel, into Tunisia, and even withdrawing men and material from its imperiled Russian front in an effort to hold the French protectorate opposite Sicily and the toe of Italy.

Thus far the axis is believed to have approximately 25,000 men in Tunisia, reënforcing that total by air transport at a rate of 8,000 troops weekly.

A Daily Mail dispatch also said that a convoy of 150 French ships was massed in southern French ports for an attempt to swell the Tunisian forces.

A Reuters [British] news agency dispatch from North Africa said allied patrols had captured Italians from Tripoli who were trying to join Gen. Walther Nehring's Tunisian forces.

Bomb Bizerte Docks Again.

ALLIED HDQ., North Africa, Dec. 21 (AP).—Allied bombers again attacked enemy-held docks at Bizerte in Tunisia last night, and large scale air activity has been resumed in all sectors, a French communique said tonight.

An allied headquarters communique covering yesterday's action reported only the repulse of an enemy raid on an allied ground detachment in northern Tunisia, and the destruction by allied planes of a German Junkers 88 bomber and a Messerschmitt 109 fighter plane.

But the French headquarters communique announced widespread air activity, and said British RAF fighters lent strong support to French troops who "occupied a locality west of Kairouan" in southern Tunisia. The French troops were still holding the locality, "in spite of a powerful counterattack by enemy tanks."

Battle West of Sousse.

The French apparently referred to Pichon, 60 miles west of the eastern Tunisian port of Sousse, capture of which was announced yesterday.

"Many other engagements took place during the day in this region," the French communique said. "The enemy suffered important losses, prisoners were taken."

[Reuters (British) news agency heard the Morocco radio broadcast what it termed a French headquarters communique saying also that French troops captured positions south and southeast of Pont-du-Fahs and took a number of prisoners. Pont-du-Fahs is 31 miles southwest of Tunis.]

While almost constant contact with axis troops was reported in the southern sector, an allied spokesman said there was only routine patrol activity in the north where American and British troops are centered on a line near Mejez-el-Bab.

United States bombers dropped more than 1,000,000 pounds of high explosives on axis held Tunisia during the week ended Dec. 12, a spokesman said. Most of this weight was concentrated on communications, including docks, shipping, rail yards, and trains at Tunis, Bizerte, Sousse and Sfax.

Hit Allied Supply Ports.

ROME, Dec. 21 [from Italian broadcasts]—(AP).—Advanced axis elements are being kept "very active in Tunisia repulsing enemy units," the Italian high command reported today.

The allied supply ports and shipping at Philippeville and Bone, in eastern Algeria, were bombed and direct hits were scored despite heavy anti-aircraft fire, the announcement added. It said five allied fighters were shot down by German fighters which escorted Italian bombers on the raids.

The Italians said six allied planes were shot down in the Sirte region of Libya in the course of attacks on axis columns. "Nuisance action" by British motorized forces along the line of the axis retreat in Libya was repulsed, the communique said.

BUS CATCHES FIRE.

Several passengers were driven from a bus of the Chicago Motor Coach company when it caught fire at Sheridan road and Foster avenue just after the morning rush hour yesterday.

NEWS BROADCASTS ON MOROCCO STATION AT RABAT GIVEN BY OWI

Washington, D. C., Dec. 21 [Special].—The radio station at Rabat, Morocco, is now being used by the office of war information and the news it broadcasts can henceforth be trusted, according to information reaching the OWI here today. Milton Eisenhower, associate director of the OWI and brother of Lt. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, commander of the allied forces in North Africa, is now in Morocco, where he went to arrange for OWI use of the radio at Rabat.

This probably means, it was said here, that he has arranged for OWI news programs in French, and in English for American troops.

It apparently does not mean, it was added, that the OWI has acquired full use of either station for broadcasting propaganda to the French or Italians.

YANKS SEE SIGHTS OF MOROCCO—AT 15 MILES A DAY

Chant: 'Off Our Dogs by Christmas.'

WITH THE U. S. ARMY IN FRENCH MOROCCO, Dec. 20 [Delayed]—(AP).—Thousands of American soldiers who have been lugging packs and rifles 15 miles a day for the last 10 days and are still 100 miles from their destination are chanting:

"Off our dogs and on our backs before Christmas."

This combat team of the western task force started the long trek after fighting its way across a North African beach and then spending a few weeks in the new surroundings. Most of the men are glad to return to the picturesque country rather than live in a pup tent camp.

Place to See Sights.

"The sights we see," said Pvt. Sammy Ganz of New York's Bronx, who immediately admitted that he didn't like walking. "What, with camels and all, it's like being in Central park with the whole zoo turned loose."

The happiest member of the force is a brown and white dog, variously named, which headed the marching men on the longest hike since the North African campaign started.

Arabs on donkeys, camels, and even bicycles followed the column for days at a time, selling oranges, dates, almonds, and tangerines thru the day and rushing off at night to replenish their stock. Others peddled Moroccan leather goods and native jewelry. American cigarets were very popular as a medium of exchange.

Health of Men Excellent.

Lt. H. B. Copleman of New Brunswick, N. J., medical officer of the unit, said the health of the men was "remarkable."

"There has been practically no sickness so far," he said. "There have been a few cases of colds and sore feet, but, all told, only 30 men have fallen off the march and none for more than two days. The men are far healthier than is usual in a permanent camp."

One company, commanded by Capt. C. W. Minton of Maysville, Okla., didn't have a man drop out. "These boys could go 30 miles a day," Capt. Minton said. "I wouldn't trade my outfit for a division."

One of the soldiers in this company is Charles E. Peed of Effingham, Ill. "If my dogs didn't bark occasionally, I would think I was on a Cook's tour," Peed said.

F. D. R. HAILS CANADA AIR TRAINING PLAN AS GREAT ACHIEVEMENT

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 21 (AP).—President Roosevelt described the British commonwealth air training plan as "one of the grand conceptions of this war, grand both in design and execution," in a letter to Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King on the third anniversary of the signing of the British commonwealth air training agreement.

The President's letter, dated Dec. 16 and made public today by the prime minister's office, said in part:

"It is a privilege for me to pay tribute to Canada on such an occasion, for the [air training] plan has been to a great extent Canada's responsibility and Canada's achievement. May it continue to send into the skies thousands of eager and courageous young flyers, until the enemy is swept from the air and lies crushed on earth beneath the ruins of his own temple of tyranny."

REVEAL U. S. CHIEF WAS IN COMMAND OVER GIBRALTAR

Eisenhower First Foreign Master in 200 Years.

ALLIED HDQ., NORTH AFRICA, Dec. 5 [delayed]—(AP).—Lt. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower commanded the British fortress of Gibraltar during the first days of the North African operations, thus being the first foreigner in two centuries to control that rock of British empire.

Lt. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Security reasons restricted the announcement until today. [Censorship further delayed publication of the dispatch even after it was written.]

In the world's safest air raid shelter under 1,400 feet of solid rock in offices carved from limestone, the allied staff worked 24 hours a day under the United States commander.

"Never in my wildest dreams in my West Point days did I ever think that I—an American general—would ever command the British fortress of Gibraltar," Eisenhower said one day at a press conference at his office in the rock.

Over British Chief.

Gibraltar, of course, actually was under his command only because he was allied commander in chief and Gen. Mason MacFarlane, who actually is in charge, was responsible to his orders.

Weeks before the zero hour, American and British advance groups were working secretly at Gibraltar and keeping out of the way of a daily influx of 5,000 Spanish workers. They installed signal apparatus and put 40 offices in the heart of the rock in shape for allied operations.

To reach headquarters one had to pass navy guards and then guards at the mouth of the tunnel, which was about three quarters of a mile long.

Generals, air marshals, admirals, and privates all had to walk thru the dripping tunnel to headquarters, where concrete casements kept out the water.

Workout for the General.

The privates used to be treated to the unusual sight of their commander-in-chief clad in a field jacket and sprinting the entire length of the tunnel with his staff trailing behind him like the tail of a comet. It was about the only chance "Ike" had for exercise.

Precedent also was broken on the womanless rock by the presence of a large number of WRENS [woman's royal navy service], who helped cipher signals at the office. They were the only women at war in the North African campaign at that time.

The harbor bustled with ships for Gibraltar which was the bottleneck for the entire allied expedition. British fortress gunners manned their batteries 24 hours a day. With each passing convoy clearly seen from Spain, it was "like money in the bank" [here a passage was deleted by the censor].

CHICAGOAN FLIES WITH ADVANCED U.S. FIGHTER SQUADRON IN TUNISIA

AN ADVANCED U. S. FIGHTER PLANE BASE IN TUNISIA, Dec. 18 [Delayed]—(AP).—American flyers at this most advanced United States fighter field are operating against the axis on a working day that starts at 5 a. m. and ends at 6:30 p. m.

Capt. George V. Williams.

Almost overnight the flyers, among them Capt. George V. Williams, 4700 Kenwood avenue, Chicago, sped from the comfortable barracks and well equipped fields of England to this muddy, crowded strip harassed by enemy planes. Before dawn the flyers are brought out to the field from their hotel. American ground crews warm up the Spitfires and the first patrols are off.

The briefing for the day's work is done in a camp tent, with wooden ration boxes for tables, by Maj. F. W. Schaub, who in peacetime is a newspaper business manager at Decatur, Ill.

BRITISH BOMBERS BLAST BIG NAZI INDUSTRIAL PORT

LONDON, Dec. 21 (AP).—British bombers in strong force assaulted the inland German port of Duisburg overnight, setting the city alight with great fires in the 52d attack upon it since the beginning of the war. This raid cost the R. A. F. 11 bombers. "Considerable damage" was officially acknowledged by the German high command.

[A Berlin broadcast reported that "foreign" planes flew over Switzerland last night, saying that air raid alarms were sounded in Zurich and other Swiss cities. This would indicate allied raid raids were in progress against Italy.]

The attack on Duisburg, an industrial center, was accompanied by wide allied sweeps over France and the Low Countries by intruder planes, twin engined Whirlwind fighters which also are used as bombers. Nazi transportation facilities were their principal targets. At least eight enemy trains were shot up.

The American raid on the big German airpark at Romilly-sur-Seine, 80 miles southeast of Paris, on Sunday cost the Americans six big bombers, but the Germans were declared officially to have lost 44 fighter planes, a United States 8th air force headquarters communique said.

Milan Makes 15 Pct. Cut in Power for Industry

AT THE ITALIAN FRONTIER, Dec. 21 (AP).—Effective today the city of Milan cut the amount of electric current for industries by 15 per cent compared to a year ago, mirroring the effect of British air raids over Italy and the difficulty of bringing coal from Germany.

TRIBUNE WRITER GIVES PICTURE OF TOUR IN TUNISIA

Finds Portions Much Like New England.

Here are excerpts of a broadcast to the Mutual network by the The Chicago Tribune's correspondent with the United States army in North Africa:

"This is Jack Thompson speaking from allied force headquarters in North Africa. We have just returned from deep down in Tunisia where Col. Edson B. Raff and his conglomerate task force are holding the allied right flank and giving the axis the jitters.

"Unlike my other two trips back to headquarters, when we 'spelled out' the journey, as soldiers say, in transport planes, this time we made the junket by automobile.

Place for Long Underwear.

"Few in America realize what it's like down where the Raff force operates. It's a region of mountains and valleys. At this time of year at least, the nights are cold enough for long handled underwear, several blankets and overcoats.

"The days often are chilly and the sky overcast. But on some days there isn't a fleece in the sky and it's as blue as a baby's eyes and the sun comes slanting down on the white and brown sand and the date and olive plantations. Then there is the ever present Arab, and his cud chewing camel.

"It has been rather rugged for the American doughboys down there, and their colleagues, the French and the British. Flyers have brought them bedding rolls and pup tents and still are bringing them rations, ammunition, replacements and reënforcements. The time when every one lived in a foxhole is passing, altho the boys still like to quip that it's only so many more foxholes until Christmas.

An Eye Cocked for Planes.

"Before we left, we visited all the foxholes and pup tents we could to say good-by for a few days. Then we started off in our tiny French car, driven by our French chauffeur.

"We drove for hours over flat, sandy plains studded by bunch grass, the lonely road occasionally broken by small villages. Sometimes the land changed to a rolling plain, then dived up into a mountain.

"All the time we who have been strafed before by enemy planes keep a sharp look up. Once I spotted three planes coming in low against the hills. We couldn't tell if they were our transports or German JU 88s. We all bailed out quickly, found cover, and later cheered as the flat, black wing struts of the planes turned into the familiar army C-47 [transport].

Reach Fertile Ground.

"Late in the afternoon the countryside changed completely. If it had not been for the ever-present Arab we could easily have imagined ourselves in upper New England on a late fall day, or possibly parts of Minnesota or Iowa. There were trees along the road, trees that were shedding leaves, and other trees that were green, or coming to russet and yellow.

"Beyond the trees the sand and dun-colored foliage of the lowlands had changed to lush green meadows where cattle grazed. Rich looking farm land was being turned by oxen and crude plows, except for one great farm on the horizon. There we saw many teams of horses pulling somewhat more modern farm implements.

"This was the approach to Constantine, ancient Algerian city which was once capital of Rome's African empire.

French Style Houses.

"Getting nearer we saw, tucked back among the trees, red tiled, white walled houses which might have been lifted bodily from France.

"Then we saw in all its glory Constantine, towering above the foothills and higher peaks, cut out of the side of the mountains, an ancient and shining Shangri-La, now bustling with the alien confusion of our modern military machine.

"We drove in past squatted native houses, up tilted streets, and past strange doorways and stranger wares. Always behind this foreground, looming higher and higher, were row on row of six story houses and apartments, red tiles on their roofs, their white walls often interspersed with the Tunisian blue of the more imaginative householders.

City Linked by Bridges.

"Reaching the city proper, we discovered it was divided into sections, each clinging to the other by spidery suspension bridges, or massive arched affairs more in keeping with the rugged background. From the battlements of the military compound where we spent the night, we looked out over the distant valleys and mountains as the sun went down. It was a sight of great beauty.

"Next day we headed west and north to the main chain of the Atlas mountains. That journey is almost a nightmare. Countless army vehicles we passed heading the other way seemed to have no difficulty, but it was always a task for our little car and its five occupants.

Rocks and Deep Gorges.

"The scenery was incredibly beautiful; often our winding road came to the side of a lofty mountain while stretched out below we could see it coiling about lower and lower, entwined in trees and rocks and deep gorges. Or whenever a tire gave out, as it frequently did, we would perch beside the car, marveling at the grandeur of these mountains.

"That was an unforgettable trip—a trip I'll be retracing in a few days to spend Christmas with the air transport. I have been informed that because of my fancy black beard I am to play Santa Claus."

War Casualties

Mr. and Mrs. James R. Ozanne Sr., 2510 Lincoln street, Evanston, yesterday were notified by cable from Australia that their son, 2d Lt. James R. Ozanne Jr., navigator in a B-17 bomber crew, has been missing in the South Pacific area since Nov. 29. Lt. Ozanne, who is 24 years old, was graduated from Evanston High school and Amherst college. He was commissioned at Mather field, California, last June.

Mrs. Winifred Webb Cleary, 7050 East End avenue, was notified yesterday by the war department that her husband, 1st Lt. Michael D. Cleary, had been killed in action Nov. 20 in the African area. Lt. Cleary was last heard from in October when he wrote that he was sailing on a mission which when completed would bring him home.

Lt. Cleary, who was 28 years old, entered the army in June, 1941, and was graduated a year later from the officer training school at Fort Benning, Georgia. He was a graduate of Mt. Carmel High school and of St. Mary's college, Winona, Minn. His mother, Mrs. Catherine Cleary, lives at 6436 Ellis avenue.

Word of the death in action of Guy Chase, 15 years old, a seaman who formerly lived in Aurora, was received there yesterday by his aunt, Mrs. R. A. Hillock, 509 Palma street. The youth was buried at sea, according to a navy announcement to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Chase of Casper, Wyo., who moved there from Aurora five years ago.

Mrs. Hillock said Guy, who was 5 feet 10½ inches tall and large for his age, had obtained his parents' consent to enlist in the navy.

First Lt. James Rushti, 22, a navigator on a United States bomber, was killed in action in Africa Dec. 5, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Graham Rushti of 245 Chase street, Gary, were notified yesterday.

British Open Railway Link from Palestine to Turkey

CAIRO, Egypt, Dec. 21 (AP).—Gen. Harold Alexander, British commander in chief in the middle east, rode the locomotive at the opening ceremony yesterday of the Haifa-Beirut-Tripoli [Lebanon] railway. The railway is a new line directly connecting Turkey with British forces in Palestine and the middle east.

ISLAM BANDSMEN PLAY 'OVER THERE' AT MOROCCO RITE

U. S. Army Chiefs Guests of Arab Sultan.

WITH THE U. S. ARMY, French Morocco, Dec. 21 (AP).—In a colorful ceremony older than Christendom and in surroundings that were old when the United States was born, American officers were honored guests yesterday at the climax of the year's most important religious festival in the palace grounds of the sultan of all Morocco.

Behind mounted mountain tribesmen dressed and armed as they had been for centuries stood trim young United States soldiers beside the light and medium tanks of the western task force.

Maj. Gen. George S. Patton Jr., commander of the force, Gen. Auguste Nogues, resident French general, and members of their staffs were welcomed by Sultan Sidi Mohammed, head of the Sherifian empire and sultan of both Spanish and French Morocco.

Words Translated Twice.

The words of Gen. Patton and Gen. Nogues were translated from English to French for the sultan's chief of protocol, as one doesn't talk to the sultan directly.

Then the words were translated into Arabic, for the sultan is addressed only in Arabic, even tho he can speak French and English fluently.

After the palace ceremony in a throne room, the guests left and walked slowly thru the panoply of the Moorish world to tents in a great grass field outside the palace. There the sultan on a white horse received gifts from every one of his tribes, rich or poor.

Retires to Palace.

This done, the sultan retired to the palace, leaving his two elder sons with Gen. Patton and his party for the show put on by the tribesmen.

In a quadrangle marked off by black Moroccan guards with needle pointed bayonets on old but well kept rifles, each group of tribal leaders galloped full tilt and fired their silver encrusted weapons.

Between the rushes, the guards' band, each man in a red tunic, red pantaloons with white leather cross breast belts and white leggings and wearing a blue and white turban, played "Over There," "Johnny Get Your Gun," and "You Can't Get 'Em Up."

U. S. Troops Parade.

The day's ceremony broke up like a circus crowd, with the chiefs riding every kind of vehicle from palatial sedans to bicycles and their followers on everything from handsome chargers to donkeys.

On the last day of the festival the sultan's guards, the Spahis, and Zouaves, and United States soldiers and sailors paraded.

Thus was ended the three day festival of Islam that stems from the sacrifice of Abraham.

ANN RUTHERFORD.

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 21 [Special].—Planning to be married "the near future," but professing to have made no definite arrangements, Ann Rutherford, 23, screen actress, and David May II., 30, today filed an application for a marriage license at the county clerk's office. Miss Rutherford, who is most widely known for her portrayal of Andy Hardy's sweetheart in the Hardy cycle of photoplays, declared that she and May first met in a social gathering about 18 months ago. He is the son of Tom May, department store magnate.

CHICAGO TOURIST RETURNS TO PARIS IN A FLYING FORT

This Time He Mans Gun in American Raid.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

A FLYING FORTRESS BASE, Somewhere in England, Dec. 21.—First Lt. Charles Patten, 3240 Lake Shore drive, Chicago, had not seen Paris and the Eiffel tower for 18 years until yesterday. This time he wasn't a tourist.

He was manning the navigator's gun on his first trip in a Flying Fortress. He was one of those who today vouched that bombs dropped on Romilly-sur-Seine in the big American raid yesterday hit the targets "sur le schnozzle," which means "on the nose."

Patten, who is 27 years old, visited Paris with his parents in 1924. He is adjutant and commander of the ground echelon of a bomber squadron at this base, and had been pleading for a chance to take part in a raid.

Picks Out Eiffel Tower.

"When I heard the Fortresses were going over Paris I was particularly anxious to go," Patten said. "Finally I got permission. Coming over Paris I easily picked out the Eiffel tower but it only made me homesick for the sight of the Wrigley building."

[Romilly-sur-Seine is 80 miles beyond Paris, and the route of the bombers apparently crossed over Paris.]

"From then on," Patten said, "I had no time for homesickness, for Focke-Wulf 190s were coming at us. They were close enough for me to see the iron cross on their wings as I pulled the trigger. The gun jammed twice but I got it working and gave the enemy some lead. I don't know if I got any.

Bombs Hit Hangars.

"We dropped bombs on the hangars at Romilly. Coming back three more Focke-Wulf 190 formations swung toward us. We scared them off. As we reached the French coast the turret gunner yelled 'More FW-190s.' I had my gun ready but then he shouted, 'Hold fire. They're Spitfires.' I was glad of that."

Sergt. Robert Stevenson of Kirklin, Ind., destroyed a German Focke-Wulf 190 in the raid. He fired at the plane as it came into his sights at the radio operator's gun. 2d Lt. Gerald Rotter, Phoenix, Ariz., also knocked down an enemy fighter. Both were in the Fortress piloted by Flight Lt. Robert Riordan, of Houston, Tex. Riordan's co-pilot was 1st Lt. Edward Maliszewski of Grosse Point, Mich.

Fortresses co-piloted by 2d Lieutenants Max Judas, 245 Villa street, Elgin, Ill., and William J. McKearn, Beloit, Wis., also accounted for one FW-190 each.

EVER SIP A $2,000,000 OLD FASHIONED?

● Here's the recipe below! We call it a $2,000,000 "dream of a drink"—because that's what Fleischmann invested in grains, skill and research before we released one golden bottle of this rich, luxurious, straight bourbon whiskey. We make it in limited amounts. We have to—it's so delicious!

FIRST, GET FLEISCHMANN'S BOND THEN DO THIS!

1

Place ½ level teaspoon of granulated sugar in Old Fashioned glass! Add 2 or 3 dashes of Angostura bitters, and just enough water to dissolve the sugar!

2

Muddle thoroughly. Add ice cubes, and 1½ oz. of smooth, delicious Fleischmann's BOND! Then stir!

3

Twist a strip of lemon peel over top and drop rind in drink! Garnish to suit with Maraschino cherry, a slice of orange, or a strip of pineapple!

100 PROOF

FLEISCHMANN'S BOND

Bottled in Bond Kentucky Straight Bourbon Whiskey—100 Proof. This whiskey is five years old. The Fleischmann Distilling Corporation, Owensboro, Kentucky Copyright, 1942.

NAZIS IN FLIGHT AS REDS PUSH ON TOWARD ROSTOV

Russians Gain 15 Miles; Foe Abandons Supplies.

pressed back slightly after an all-day fight for a collective farm area which cost the Germans 700 killed and 17 tanks. More than 500 Nazis were killed and 7 tanks, 44 trucks, 19 guns, and 32 blockhouses were destroyed in the same area where the Germans were dislodged from a populated place.

On the central front near Veliki Luki, only 90 miles from the Latvian frontier, the Russians said their troops "continued offensive engagements against encircled enemy garrisons." The Russians were aiming for Smolensk, about 250 miles west of Moscow. They were advancing slowly.

In another sector on this front where the Russians are trying to knock out the German held Veliki Luki-Rzhev-Vyazma triangle, the communique said the Germans "threw large forces of infantry and 50 tanks into a counter-attack," but lost "hundreds of men and 20 tanks and retreated to their initial positions."

Germans Counter-Attack.

The Germans also were counter-attacking northwest of Stalingrad in the Don-Volga river pocket, where the Red army has driven sharp wedges across the rear communication lines. In one sector the Russians said they killed 300 Germans and destroyed 5 German tanks, 4 guns, 26 machine guns, and a variety of other war equipment.

Thirty-nine big Nazi transport planes—vital to ferry supplies and reenforcements to enemy troops caught in this pocket—also were shot down Sunday.

Sporadic fighting between small assault forces and artillery units continued inside Stalingrad's northern factory district.

Upwards of 65,000 square miles in southwest Russia already have been seized in a month and now the coal, iron and hydroelectric riches of the lower Don basin are near the charging Russian vanguards.

Nazis Admit Reverse.

BERLIN, Dec. 21 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—"The Russians succeeded in breaking into the German defensive front on the middle Don at the expense of immense bolshevik losses," the German high command said today.

Military quarters reported that in the Don river loop 16 more soviet tanks were destroyed, while along the middle Don 55 were accounted for. This was said to have brought to 1,318 the number of Russian tanks destroyed or captured from Dec. 11 to Dec. 20.

Heavy fighting on the Volga-Don front before Stalingrad is continuing with "savage tank and infantry battles," but the Russians again suffered "extremely heavy losses" both in men and material, the communique said.

Russian troops cracked axis positions in the Terek sector of the mid-Caucasus temporarily, but were thrown back by counter-attacks and numerous Russian prisoners were taken, the high command said.

RED PRISONERS OF NAZIS STARVED, FORCED TO WORK

MOSCOW, Dec. 21 (AP).—The soviet information bureau charged today that documented evidence obtained in the Stalingrad offensive showed the Germans were forcing Russian prisoners to build defenses and perform other military work, contrary to international law and under starvation conditions.

Eighty-seven bodies of Red army men were found about the Nazi prison camp at the newly reoccupied hamlet of Vertyach, 10 of them mutilated, the bureau said.

It said the captives had been forced to work 14 hours a day on a diet of from three to four spoonfuls of rye gruel, a piece of horse meat, and water.

BELIEVE HITLER SEEKS A PLAN TO HELP OUT IL DUCE

Assume Axis Talked Over Defense.

BERNE, Switzerland, Dec. 21 (AP).—Diplomatic quarters today said they believed Adolf Hitler's conference at his headquarters Friday and Saturday with the Italian foreign minister, Count Ciano, and their advisers was to discuss how much help Germany could give Italy in the Mediterranean.

The heavy requirements of the Russian front and the fact that Italian troops are in the center of the present Red army offensive and can hardly be withdrawn were believed to have been the major problems of the conferees.

Official German and Italian comment on the meeting emphasized that no spectacular results were to be expected and foreign observers assumed that this meant the talk revolved about defensive strategy.

Cites Criticism of Turks.

The Swiss newspaper Neue Zuercher Zeitunng said it was "in no way accidental" that reports of troops moving to the Spanish border were being circulated just at this time. However, it said such reports were frequently misleading and that the real intentions of the axis might be turned in an entirely different direction.

The paper referred to recent criticisms in Hitler's Voelkischer Beobachter against Turkey as one of the small states which should watch her step.

The Voelkischer Beobachter said military events were the most important subjects discussed at the conference.

Suggest Three Positions.

Diplomatic quarters said that the position as a result of the conference seemed to be this:

1. German anti-aircraft batteries for defense of Italian cities have been assigned. [A British broadcast said German anti-aircraft units had arrived at Turin, oft-bombed Italian arsenal city.]

2. Italy and Germany will make a joint effort to strengthen their position in Tunisia for a finish fight there, but with due regard for the demands of other fronts.

3. The situation on the Russian front makes it impossible to withdraw Italian troops from there.

Meanwhile, over the week-end, Premier Mussolini named a new Fascist party directorate which included party leaders of such bombed cities as Turin, Genoa, and Milan in an evident effort to strengthen a demoralized home front.

BLAMES FEDERAL SOCIALIZATION IN SCHOOL BRAWLS

New York, Dec. 21 [Special].—Dr. Milo F. McDonald, director of the American Executive association, today blamed Communists and proponents of "the so-called activity program in the public schools" for the recent outbreak of rowdyism in the New York school system.

Dr. McDonald, for 22 years principal of a Brooklyn high school, declared his group would prepare recommendations to be submitted either to the state commissioner of education of the district attorney's offices to correct the situation. He warned:

"There are three great dangers confronting New York City schools and all of our American education. One is an attempt to 'federalize' education under the guise of meeting war needs. Another is an attempt to prepare children for a new social order based upon the principle of atheistic Communism. The third is an attempt to rid the schools of older conservative teachers."

LOSS OF DARLAN UPSETS HITLER, GERMAN ASSERTS

Former Reichsbank Aid Sees Allied Gain.

Dr. Melchior Palyi.

Enlisting Adm. Jean Darlan on the allied side was a diplomatic victory that may eventually overshadow the military victory of winning French North Africa, Dr. Melchior Palyi, former economic adviser to the Reischbank of Berlin, told members of the City club yesterday in the La Salle hotel.

"Darlan's swing to the allies was the first major moral defeat suffered by Hitler, and one that will have far reaching effects on the diplomatic front thruout Europe," Palyi said. "In selling his 'new order' to Europe, Hitler needed more than military victories. He used Darlan as one of his major exhibits, pointing out that the foremost military man of France had accepted the Fascist order. When Darlan joined the allies it was like the state's star witness suddenly testifying for the defense."

Cites Stalin's Former Position.

Answering critics of Lt. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's recognition of Darlan, the speaker said that "if you are going to be ethical about Darlan, who once worked with Hitler, what about Joseph Stalin, who was Hitler's ally for two years, who supplied him with war material and made possible the invasion of Poland and who earlier had attacked Finland?"

The value of Darlan to the allied cause is apparent, Palyi averred, in the fact he was able to deliver all of French North Africa, with its economic resources and its military man power, whereas Gen. Charles de Gaulle had never been able to do this.

The fact that Darlan had 24 hours in which to escape from North Africa after the allied invasion began and did not, the speaker said, is convincing proof to Hitler that Darlan purposely double-crossed him; Hitler recognizes the American acceptance of Darlan as an invitation to every Quisling in Europe to desert the Nazi "new order" and join in the fight for democracy.

"The problem of those under Hitler's thumb is how to survive, how to get along," Palyi explained. "They must take the best of several bad choices, and I have no doubt that if Petain were free to make his own decisions he would join the British tomorrow. Every Frenchman, almost without exception, hates the Germans."

Palyi said that an invasion of Spain and Portugal at this time by Hitler was out of the question.

The position of Turkey will remain in doubt until Turkey is convinced as to which side will win. "You can't propagandize the Turks," Palyi warned.

Canadian Flyer Rescued by Chinese Guerrillas

AN AMERICAN AIR BASE IN CHINA, Dec. 21 (AP).—Forced by engine trouble to land his Hurricane in Japanese held territory during an attempt to reach free China from Burma, a young R. A. F. flight sergeant, R. W. Bates of Hamilton, Ont., was rescued by Chinese guerillas and brought here today. Bates said the R. A. F. had been hitting the Japanese heavily over Burma and was encountering little fighter opposition.

REPORT HITLER'S AGENT SPOKE OF 'ALLIED VICTORY'

LONDON, Dec. 21 (AP).—Adolf Hitler's personal representative in Norway, Joseph Terboven, discussed the possibility of an allied victory in a speech on Dec. 8, Norwegian government circles reported here today. The speech was said to have been delivered to a dozen leading Norwegian manufacturers and then published officially 10 days later. Terboven was quoted as having said that "in the event of an allied victory nothing can save Norway from Russian political and economic expansion. Not even Sweden will be able to resist the bolsheviks."

SEES SIX MONTHS FIGHT TO EXPEL FOE FROM GUINEA

Japs Shift Base 260 Miles Up Coast.

BY E. R. NODERER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA, Dec. 21.—The key to the New Guinea war front has shifted from Cape Sanananda and Buna to two points 260 and 340 miles northwest, up the coast, in the opinion of military men here. They are Finschhafen and Madang, on the New Guinea side of the strategic Vitiaz strait between New Guinea and New Britain. Near Finschhafen are Lae and Salamaua, Jap occupied bases.

With the position around the Buna Mission and air strip rapidly deteriorating, the Japs probably have landed some reënforcements far up the coast from two transports escorted by four destroyers and one cruiser. The cruiser was sunk by American air attack, but two transports and the destroyers put into Finschhafen and Madang.

To understand the New Guinea position it is important to realize that if the Buna area and Cape Sanananda fall the enemy still has strong forces at Lae, Salamaua, Finschhafen and Madang, all of which must be wiped out before a successful attack may be made from this front on New Britain.

May Take Six Months.

Driving the Japs entirely out of New Guinea may take months; an officer today estimated it will be six months before the last Jap is liquidated. Meanwhile there is the possibility that New Britain may be attacked from another direction.

Jap reënforcements leaving Rabaul, the big New Britain base, have been going north thru the St. George channel between New Britain and New Ireland [which is east of New Britain], and thence north of New Britain and thru the Vitiaz strait to Lae, Salamaua, Cape Sanananda and Buna.

In anticipation of an eventual allied attack on New Britain the Japs are building up a force at Madang and Finschhaven as well as at Lae and Salamaua.

From the New Guinea side of the Vitiaz strait to New Britain it is only 70 miles. If the allies seize the New Guinea side of the strait they can cut off Jap reënforcements to their bases in New Guinea and themselves hold strong points for an attack on New Britain.

Buna of No Use.

Altho there is still bitter fighting ahead around the Buna air strip and in the Cape Sanananda area, Friday's landings by the enemy seem to indicate he is going to dig in around the Vitiaz strait and perhaps has given up trying to save points farther down the coast.

Buna is of no use to the Japs except to deny it to the allies. Jap planes haven't used its air field since Aug. 30, but if the allies get this area fighter planes will be able to escort allied bombers to Rabaul.

Friday was the first time for a long while the Japs have used transports in attempting to reënforce New Guinea. Allied air strength has forced them to use faster moving destroyers.

The tanks being used in New Guinea, having swept around the right flank in the capture of Cape Endaiadere, will push along against machine gun posts behind the air field in the Buna area.

KENNEY AWARDS SILVER STARS TO SIX U. S. FLYERS

HEADQUARTERS SOUTHWEST PACIFIC AREA, Dec. 21 (AP).—Six officers of the United States army air forces have been awarded the silver star for gallantry in actions against the Japanese over the Dutch East Indies, the Solomon Islands, and New Guinea.

The decorations, issued by Lt. Gen. George C. Kenney, commander of allied air forces in the southwest Pacific, went to Capt. Hubert I. Egenes, Story City, Ia.; Lts. Ralph K. Watts, Compton, Cal.; Harold C. McAuliff, San Diego, Cal.; Roger H. Williams, Sterling City, Tex.; Horace E. Perry, Beverly Hills, Cal., and Albert J. Hobday, Cincinnati, O.

The purple heart was awarded Lt. Dave H. Hoyer, Beaver Dam, Wis.

NEGRO IN LIBERIA WITH AEF RUNS AMUCK, SLAYS 2

Killer Is Shot After He Wounds Three Others.

U. S. ARMY HDQ., Liberia, Dec. 16 [Delayed] — (AP). — Apparently crazed by a trivial row with military police, Pvt. John W. Williams, 29 years old, Negro of Baltimore, Md., obtained a submachine gun, two pistols, and a rifle Tuesday night, killed two other Negro soldiers, and wounded two more and a white officer before he was shot to death, possibly by his own hand, military authorities said today.

Staff Sergt. Thomas F. Pittman, 32, of Portsmouth, Va., and Pvt. John E. McMichael, 23, of Raleigh, N. C., were slain.

[The names of the wounded were withheld.]

Story of Shootings.

Officers told this story of the incident:

Williams started shooting up the camp early in the evening after being taken to the base hospital following an altercation with military police.

He obtained weapons at a tent near by and forced an officer to drive him to M. P. headquarters, where McMichael was shot as he walked along the road. Two other soldiers were wounded, apparently by stray bullets.

Invades Hospital Ward.

Williams then commandeered a military truck and retracted his route to the hospital, where he invaded a ward. Pittman, a patient, was killed there and a white captain, who was in the hospital on another mission, was wounded.

Williams was found a few minutes later with a bullet thru his head. His fatal wound was apparently self-inflicted, but it may have been the result of the efforts of more than a score of officers and soldiers to stop him.

Remember 'Snow White?' It's New Movie in Africa

ALLIED HDQ., NORTH AFRICA, Dec. 20 [Delayed] — (AP).—Previously prohibited by the Vichy government, Hollywood films are now exhibited again in French North Africa, but United States troops seeking entertainment are finding the movies one to eight years old. One of the chief current attractions is "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs."

Toll of Hotel Blaze Rises to Five as Two More Die

Two deaths yesterday increased to five the toll of dead resulting from a fire which swept the five story West hotel at 802 Madison street Saturday. The victims, Rosario [Jerry] Li Vigni, 31 years old, a bartender, and Sidney Green, 40 years old, a news dealer, died of burns in the County hospital.

JAP ASKS YANK FOR WATER, THEN SHOOTS HIM THRU THE HEAD

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, Dec. 20 [Delayed] — (AP). — Evidence that the Jap soldier remains a tricky fighter who can't be trusted even when he pleads for sympathy continues to trickle in.

The latest account was brought in by Lt. Theodore Florey of Beloit, Wis., an infantryman whose unit was engaged along the track leading to the Buna government station. An anonymous sergeant led a squad in the destruction of several Japanese pillboxes. After they had cleaned out the strong points, the sergeant heard a moaning sound coming out of a Japanese tunnel.

He crawled close and called out: "Whaddya want?"

"Wounded," a weak voice replied. "Water."

The sergeant hauled out his canteen and handed it into the hole. A second later the sergeant was dead —shot thru the head. "His mates," Florey said, "made short work of that Jap."

'POOR SHOW' PUT ON BY JAPS IN CALCUTTA RAID

First Bombing of Indian City Called Fiasco.

BULLETIN.

NEW DELHI, India, Dec. 22 (Tuesday)—(AP). — Japanese planes raided Calcutta again early this morning, a joint British-American communiqué announced today. Preliminary reports, the announcement said, indicated that only a few bombs were dropped and that they caused few casualties and light damage.

NEW DELHI, India, Dec. 21 (AP).—Japan's first raid on Calcutta last night, obviously in reprisal for the thrust of Gen. Archibald P. Wavell's troops less than 60 miles from Akyab, Burma, was a fiasco, British authorities said today.

The British troops had not yet faced Japanese opposition since advancing 40 miles along the coastal plains. The lack of roads and quick communications facilities shrouded their progress.

Reports from Calcutta to the capital said the aerial enemy put on "a very poor show."

Fail to Panic People.

"I would have thought the Japs would have made an effort to do better in their initial attack," one official said. He reported that the raid failed to panic the people and that casualties were very light. The raiders kept very high and stayed only about half an hour.

A few bombs were dropped also at Chittagong on the east shore of the Bay of Bengal, midway between Calcutta and Akyab.

Blenheim bombers escorted by fighters attacked Magwe, 150 miles east of Akyab and second only to that Bay of Bengal port in importance as a west Burma air base. Many bombs burst on the airport runways and the British said the results were "good."

Clash on Chinese Border.

CHUNGKING, China, Dec. 21 (AP).—Continued clashes along the border of Burmese Shan states and Yunnan province, where the Japanese are driving northward toward the Burma road, were reported by the Chinese high command today.

The communique said Chinese forces were holding the Japanese in check along the banks of the Namlwi river, where the Japanese crossed into Yunnan from the south for the first time at Mengma, about 190 miles south of the Burma road.

Cable Greeting to Japs' Prisoners Costs $10

Washington, D. C., Dec. 21 (AP).—A spokesman for the American Red Cross said today it costs approximately $10 to send a Christmas greeting by cablegram to American soldiers held prisoners by the Japanese in the Philippines. The cablegrams, not more than 11 words, must be checked by censor then sent to Tokio via Geneva and finally on to the prison camps. Similar messages to American prisoners in Europe cost about $3.50.

Steal Yule Gifts from Car of Pat Nash's 2 Nieces

Two nieces of Pat Nash, Democratic political leader, reported to police yesterday that thieves broke into their automobile while it was parked in front of 645 St. Clair street, and stole a number of Christmas presents. The two women are Miss Marie G. Nash, and her sister, Mrs. Bess Mosher, both of Glenoak Acres, Glenview.

YULE BUSINESS AT POSTOFFICE TOPS 1941 LOAD

In all phases but one, volume of Christmas business at the Chicago postoffice took a decided jump this year over that of the comparable period last year, Postmaster Ernest J. Kruetgen announced yesterday. Only in the number of outgoing parcel post packages was the volume smaller than last year.

Incoming first class mail totaled 100,158,999 pieces, compared with 83,204,043 last year, an increase of 20.4 per cent. Incoming parcel post packages were up 9.8 per cent with 393,531 handled this year, against 358,481 in 1941.

Postal receipts handled this year were $4,822,131 against $4,692,717 last Christmas season.

Outgoing first class mail this year totaled 101,119,391 pieces for the first 19 days of December, compared with 78,023,488 pieces last year. This increase, approximately 30.31 per cent, Postmaster Kruetgen attributed to the many cards and letters mailed to Chicago men in the army, navy, and marine corps.

Outgoing parcel post packages were 1,898,487 this year against 2,038,881 in 1941, a decrease of about 7 per cent.

This Is Day of Remorse (or Fines) for Speedsters

Young men who appear in speeders' court today will have the alternative of visiting the County hospital fracture ward and making contributions to the patients or paying fines, Municipal Judge John Gutknecht said yesterday. It will be the eighth annual visit of traffic offenders to the hospital, he said.

TWO CITY PUPILS AND 2 DOWNSTATE WIN SCRAP DRIVE

Two Chicago and two downstate students will receive free trips to New Orleans for their outstanding work in the school salvage drive. Their schools will get silver plaques.

The students who will make the New Orleans trip for winning the war production board's contest are Rose Marie Frank, 6614 South Honore street, Harper High school; James Powers, 417 North Clark street, Holy Name cathedral; William Hopkins Cunningham school, Vermillion county, and Jo Anne Bloh, Pleasant Unity school, Mason county.

They will join with other scrap drive winners, three from each of the states, in the New Orleans visit. One of the Illinois girls will be chosen by lot to christen the Victory cargo ship, Blackhawk, in the Delta Shipbuilding company yards at New Orleans.

$750 STOLEN FROM HOME.

Burglars yesterday broke into the home of Stanley Kobus, 1535 Pearson street, a salesman, and stole $750, including 310 silver dollars.

FIND TUGWELL'S RULE LIFTS COST OF GOVERNMENT

Puerto Rican Budget Up 4½ Million Dollars.

[This is the third articles of a series describing the experiments in social and economic planning being conducted in Puerto Rico by Gov. Rexford Guy Tugwell, pioneer New Deal brain truster.]

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAN JUAN, P. R., Dec. 21.—Young Sen. José A. Balseiro of Puerto Rico's Union Republican party stood before a microphone here recently and recited the catastrophes that have befallen the island since it was discovered by Columbus on Nov. 19, 1493.

Balseiro listed seven devastating hurricanes, murderous raids by the Carib Indians, the Dutch, and Sir Francis Drake, two scourges of smallpox and yellow fever, and the high handed rule of the Spanish governor, Melendez, early in the 19th century.

"History has a way of repeating itself," the senator continued. "Melendez pretended to have omnipotent powers. Now we have another governor who thinks his powers are omnipotent."

Government Costs Soar.

Balseiro referred to Dr. Rexford Guy Tugwell under whose 15 month administration Puerto Rican government costs have soared and governmental structure has been revamped. The first budget to reflect Tugwell's policies is the current one, 4½ million dollars higher than last year's.

Under Former Gov. Blanton Winship, budgets were: 1936-'37, $11,647,666.15; 1937-'38, $12,420,399.43; 1938-'39, $14,118,385.14; 1939-'40, $13,843,091.58. Under Adm. William D. Leahy in 1940-'41 the budget was $14,188,419.89. Under Guy J. Swope, 1941-'42, Puerto Rico spent $15,661,980. Tugwell's first budget, now being expended, calls for $20,296,520.16.

The governor's critics were quick to charge that the more than 30 new authorities, offices, and bureaus created since September, 1941, were responsible for the rise. In replying to these charges, Tugwell disclosed that few of the new agencies appear in the budget at all, having been financed from "surplus" funds. Their actual cost, therefore, is not yet known to the people of Puerto Rico.

Salaries Are Boosted.

Tugwell said that much of the budget's increase was accounted for by increases in salaries which never again should be reduced "except in extremity" and by increased appropriations from the interior, health, education, and police departments.

Examination of salary figures of the insular government shows that directors and heads of the Tugwell authorities and bureaus are faring better as a whole than many key executives, some of them appointed by the President of the United States. Comparison with budgets of several states having many times Puerto Rico's 1,900,000 population shows expenditures and salaries here are in many instances much higher.

Illinois, for example, has almost three times as many people as Puerto Rico. Illinois' revenues for 1940 amounted to $312,722,000 and its ordinary government expenses were $259,445,000, according to federal statistics. Puerto Rico's revenues for 1942, according to the same source, were $38,000,000 and its ordinary expenditures $23,000,000.

Increase Benefit's Tugwell.

For its budget bureau, Illinois appropriated $18,000 and Puerto Rico $35,000. Illinois pays its director $5,500 a year, while Puerto Rico's budget director gets $5,000 and in addition, the island maintains a second budget bureau which operates out of the governor's office and for which $10,000 has been appropriated.

The highest salary paid any official of the University of Illinois, excepting the president, is $10,000. The salary of the chancellor of the University of Puerto Rico for a time was $15,000 a year plus a residence, automobile, and other allowances.

The salary was raised from $7,500 a year in 1941 when Tugwell was appointed to the post. At that time it was intended he should serve both as university chancellor and governor of the island, the governor's salary being $10,000 a year. Protests by students and citizens alike caused abandonment of the plan. The salary now is $7,500 plus.

Illinois, with vastly more agriculture than mountainous Puerto Rico [it is 35 miles wide by 100 miles long], pays its director of agriculture $6,000 a year. Puerto Rico pays its director $8,000.

Draws $8,000 a Year.

The chairman of Tugwell's planning, urbanizing and zoning board [PUZB] draws $8,000, and has two assistants at $6,000 each. Illinois' state planning board director is paid $4,000 a year.

Operation of the governor's office in Illinois for 1942 cost $113,000. In Puerto Rico the cost was $143,000, according to budget figures. Actually the amount comes to $171,930 because of the salaries of seven experts who serve the governor's office. This includes a coördinator of information [press agent] at $6,000.

Upkeep of the governor's mansion at Springfield cost Illinois $29,000 for 1942. Expenses here at the palace La Fortaleza totaled $31,000. This includes food, supplies, liquors, food for the governor's family, and food for servants. Toward defraying this expense, the governor pays $1 a day each for his wife and himself, and 50 cents a day for each of his two children.

[A subsequent article will analyze Puerto Rico's food crisis.]

NEW BEACH HEAD RAIDERS TRY OUT LANDING TACTICS

Trained to Seize and Hold Shore.

Camp Carrabelle, Fla., Dec. 21 (AP).—The army's new surf raiders—schooled to strike from shore to shore and stick—moved thousands of heavily armed men with full equipment 35 miles over water to occupy a peninsula in the first big test of the seagoing troop training program here.

Troops of the engineer amphibian command, six months old branch of the army which boasts "our business is beach-heads," ran a 48 hour fast ferry service for troops and equipment ranging from foot soldiers to tank and bulldozers.

Landing craft were loaded in total darkness, moved silently thru the night by navigation only, then struck at dawn Friday on three different beaches in the face of shore fire from defenders and simulated strafing attacks by army pursuit planes.

Unload Trucks and Guns.

Big lighters manned by navy crews attached to the engineers dropped their bow ramps on the beach to unload heavy trucks, artillery, antiaircraft weapons, communications equipment, and road building machinery with which shore engineers and ground forces seized positions and quickly infiltrated inland against opposing troops.

Smoke screens were laid to conceal the landing forces. Light charges of explosives in mines on the beaches and in the surf, sent geysers of sand and water up around the offensive troops.

Reporters and photographers joined Lt. Gen. Lesley J. McNair, chief of the army ground forces, and American and British army and naval officers for the first time to witness operations of the new amphibious training program.

Bring in Reënforcements.

For 36 hours after the first troops hit the sands during the maneuver, several hundred boats shuttled back and forth between the new beach heads and the embarkation point up the coast, bringing more men and supplies to consolidate and hold the ground gained.

Soft sand, shoals, shallow beach waters and the confusion of operating boats in complete radio silence at night were the most serious obstacles to attacking forces. Some soldiers waded ashore thru chilly waters up to their armpits when their landing craft went aground several hundred feet from dry land.

There were errors in the operations, officers in charge said, but it was the first large-scale maneuver of its kind by the United States army and one prime object was to uncover faults in training and tactics.

ARGENTINA SEEKS TO PUT NAZI NAVY ATTACHE ON TRIAL

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Dec. 21 (AP).—The Argentine Supreme court today asked that Capt. Dietrich Niebuhr, naval attaché to the German embassy, be delivered into its jurisdiction for trial on charges growing out of a spy ring investigation.

The court asked the foreign ministry to seek a waiver of Niebuhr's diplomatic immunity from the German embassy. If Germany refuses, it was considered likely that the Argentine government would find it necessary to declare the attaché unwelcome in this country.

The spy investigation was prompted by a United States memorandum on axis activity in Argentina.

POINT TO HISTORY AS 'PROOF' WAR WILL END IN 1943

ALLIED HDQ., North Africa, Dec. 21 (AP).—Some Frenchmen who believe in the periodic recurrence of historic events advance this chain of circumstances to support their belief that the war will end in 1943:

The French revolution took place in 1789. The German revolution took place in 1918, or 129 years alter.

Napoleon became emperor of France in 1804. Hitler came into power in 1933, 129 years later.

Napoleon started his campaign against Russia in 1812. Hitler made the same mistake in 1941, 129 years later.

Napoleon abdicated in 1814. In 1943, 129 years later, Hitler——

U. S. PLANES SHOWER BOMBS ON LASHIO; WAREHOUSES BLASTED

WITH AMERICAN FORCES IN CHINA, Dec. 20 [Delayed]—(AP).—Brig. Gen. Claire L. Chennault's bombers and fighters dealt devastating blows at the Japanese air base and military warehouses at Lashio in eastern Burma today.

More than seven tons of bombs rained down on the big airdrome and on large warehouses in Lashio, starting point of the Burma road to China.

A medium bomber flight headed by Lt. Col. William Basye of Independence, Mo., with Lt. George Stout of Emporia, Kas., the leading bombardier, raided the airdrome several miles from the city. Five or six heavy bombs crashed down on half the length of the runway and tore huge craters. Others hit among airport buildings, starting a fire.

The second element, headed by Capt. John Ruse of La Grange, Ill., deputy flight leader, took the city as a target.

No planes were seen on the airdrome and there was no fighter interception, leading to belief the Japanese may have pulled out their forces for Akyab. All American planes returned safely.

PORTUGAL LINES UP WITH SPAIN TO STAY OUT OF WAR

MADRID, Spain, Dec. 21 (AP).—Gen. Count Francisco Gomez Jordana, foreign minister of Spain, and Antonio de Oliveira Salazar, premier of Portugal, have constituted an Iberian peninsula bloc to keep the two countries out of war, said an official note published today in Hoja del Lunes, Madrid's only Monday morning paper.

The two officials concluded a festive meeting yesterday at Lisbon, the Portuguese capital, where Jordana paid an official visit. The text of the note, as published in the newspaper, said:

"The transcendental importance of the speeches made yesterday afternoon at Cintra palace cannot easily escape readers. The affirmation made by both illustrious personalities, the chief of the Portuguese government and the minister of foreign affairs of Spain, is decisive. There exists a firm, determined Iberian bloc. This bloc is determined to keep away from the terrible struggle which devastates the entire world."

TEXANS LAUNCH 8 SHIPS, LEND U. S. 70 MILLIONS

Houston, Tex., Dec. 21 [Special].—Texas had a banner day today, launching eight ships and turning over to the government a check for $70,000,000 raised in a war bond drive.

In a day long pageant of patriotism attended by admirals, generals, and Washington burocrats, shipyards launched the Liberty ship James Madison, two destroyer escort vessels, and five menacing looking little combat craft.

The $70,000,000 was raised in a drive for funds to replace the cruiser Houston, sunk in the South Pacific months ago when the Japanese moved into the Netherlands East Indies. The drive originally aimed at $36,100,000 but enough was raised for almost two cruisers.

Smuts Absolves South Africans in Tobruk Fall

PRETORIA, Union of South Africa, Dec. 21 (AP).—Premier Jan Christiaan Smuts said today that a thoro inquiry had been made into the fall of Tobruk last summer and "you can take it from me that no blame rests on South Africa or on any of the troops who surrendered there." South Africans were a large part of the 25,000-man garrison when Tobruk surrendered.

YANKS IN BRITAIN READY FOR GALA FIRST CHRISTMAS

Keep Customs of Home in Strange Land.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 21.—United States service men in Britain celebrating their first Christmas overseas are being denied nothing which will make the event as happy as possible under the strain of war and separation from their homeland.

In the service hospitals, amusements including movies, parties, and musical entertainment have been arranged. Even those troops on lonely details at remote airfields and gun positions will not be forgotten.

Most service men will be on duty, of course, on ships, and at posts, camps, and airfields. They must entertain themselves for the most part, but they have saved cards and packages to open on Christmas day, and they will share their gifts with those less fortunate.

Many on furlough—only the routine furlough schedule will be followed—will celebrate Christmas with British families. But there are more than five times the number of invitations from these families than service men will be able to accept.

Yanks to Bring Rations.

Every service man who spends Christmas with a British or Northern Ireland family will bring his rations, particularly meat, fats, butter, chocolates, and fruit juice, so as not to cause too great an inroad in his hosts' supplies.

Since the American Red Cross took over responsibility for social recreation and the welfare of American forces, as well as tending the sick and wounded, it has opened 41 clubs in Britain. In nearly all there will be children's parties with Christmas trees, gifts, and caroling.

London's newest and biggest club, the Rainbow Corner, near Piccadilly, will have 36 Christmas trees. Here, as well as at all the other clubs, the problem of decorating the trees was solved by the soldiers. They are not only doing the tree trimming, but have invented suitable decorations from such things as burned out light bulbs, photographers' discarded flash bulbs, and shiny tin cans.

For the children's parties, Miss Virginia Stanley of Washington, D. C., program director for an American Red Cross club in the southwest, reports she has more Yankee Santas than children.

Colored Troops to Sing.

Colored troops at Bristol are planning to sing carols at local institutions such as the old people's home and the orphanage.

Miss Mary Rice Anderson, Nashville, Tenn., program director at Belfast, Northern Ireland, is acting as "Mother Christmas" and will distribute gifts and cigarets to each soldier on Christmas morning. Hot coffee, fresh doughnuts, small gifts, cigarets, candy, etc., will be brought to soldiers at lonely outposts by special Red Cross club automobiles which will be touring the back roads of England all day Christmas.

Turkey holds first place on most menus and cranberry sauce is also reported available.

TWO CHICAGOANS APPOINTED TO AID STATE ALIENIST

The appointment of two Chicago psychiatrists as assistants to State Alienist Dr. Harry R. Hoffman was announced by Gov. Dwight H. Green yesterday in Springfield.

They are Dr. Ralph C. Hamill of 666 Spruce street, Winnetka, associate professor of psychiatry at the Illinois Neuropsychiatric institute and consultant at the Edward Hines Memorial hospital, and Dr. Irene Sherman of 5749 Woodlawn avenue, assistant professor of psychiatry at the University of Illinois college of medicine here for the last 10 years.

They will fill vacancies caused when two former assistants, Dr. M. F. Blaurock and Dr. Samuel H. Kraines, entered military service.

CANADIANS WILL HAVE TO SAUCER THEIR TEA NOW

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 21 (AP).—Canada's coördinator of sundry items issued a wartime order today requiring that cups be made without handles.

To the problems arising therefrom the prices board suggested two solutions:

"Presumably," a spokesman remarked, "etiquette might be waived in favor of the saucer." And besides, if a cup was too hot to hold without a handle, the beverage it contained probably would be too hot to drink.

TRUCK DRIVER ROBBED.

A gunman held up Dominick De Julio, a driver for the Willett company of 700 South Desplaines street, at 1445 Lexington avenue yesterday and robbed him of $33, he reported to police.

Report Hitler Recalls German Envoy to Paris

BERNE, Switzerland, Dec. 21 (AP).—French quarters reported today that Otto Abetz, German ambassador to Paris and a personal appointee of Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop, has been recalled to Berlin and will not be replaced. His functions will be assumed by Nazi military authorities, the French informants said. They predicted that Krug von Nidda, German consul general at Vichy, also would be recalled.

MONARCH BREWING COMPANY

5 INDICTED BY U. S. ON FRAUD CHARGE IN WAR CONTRACT

Use of Device to Thwart Test of Wire Alleged.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 21 (AP).—Attorney General Francis Biddle announced today the indictment of Anaconda Wire and Cable company and five officers in what he called "one of the most reprehensible cases of defrauding the government and endangering the lives of American soldiers and sailors."

The justice department said the Marion [Ind.] company was charged with turning out defective wire in meeting government orders of 6 million dollars. It said some of the wire went to Russia, where it caused a soviet complaint, and that the United States army had ordered that communications wire from the company be used only for maneuvers and not for combat. The indictment contained eight counts.

Biddle said that in addition the indictments, returned in Fort Wayne, Ind., charged conspiracy to present "false claims in the production and sale of wire and cable used by the armed forces for combat communication purposes."

Called "Vicious and Treacherous."

"I can conceive of nothing more vicious or treacherous than deliberately supplying our armed forces with defective war material," Biddle said in a statement.

Individuals indicted are Thor S. Johnson, general manager of all Anaconda mills; Frank E. Hart, manager of the Marion division; Don R. Carpenter, superintendent of the Marion plant; Chalmer Bishop, chief company inspector at Marion, and Frank Kunkle, assistant inspector.

In Marion Hart said he had no comment to make on the indictment. He said Carpenter and Kunkle terminated connection with the company Dec. 1.

At Fort Wayne, Ind., tonight United States Commissioner William D. Remmel announced Hart had posted $1,000 bond. Alexander Campbell, United States attorney for northern Indiana, said the defendants had been granted until midnight Wednesday to supply bond.

No Complaints, Says President.

H. D. Keresy, president of the company, issued the following statement in New York City:

"Several weeks ago it came to the knowledge of executives of the company that a charge was made that inspection specifications on a certain product produced for the army signal corp had not been fully complied with. This product represents approximately 5 per cent of the output of all mills of the company.

"None of the responsible officers or executives of the company had any knowledge of failure to comply, as instructions had been given to comply in detail with every prescribed specification for all products. Investigation was instituted at once by the company and every effort was made to correct any deviation in compliance with inspection. Employés at fault were dismissed.

"The company never has received a complaint of failure of the product in service and has no knowledge of any such occurrence."

Secret Mechanism Charged.

The justice department charged the defendants secretly installed, behind sliding panels under test tables, mechanisms which enabled the passing of inferior or defective materials.

"Without the knowledge of government inspectors, the defendants secretly installed a transformer or circuit-breaker on insulation-resistance test equipment," the department said. "It was commonly called a button box by those operating it.

"By secretly manipulating the button box during tests of wire and cable, company officials and inspectors were able to 'pass' inferior or defective material which did not actually meet rigorous government requirements of 2,200 megohms [a megohm is a million ohms] per 1,000 feet of field wire. By using this button box the galvanometer reading of the megohms of resistance could be raised as high as 10 times the actual resistance existing in the wire. Thus, wire actually having 220 megohms of resistance would, by the use of the button box, test 2,200 megohms or more."

RENT CONTROLER FLAUNTING OPA, COURT IS TOLD

Herbert M. Wetzel, attorney for 22 tenants of a south side apartment building, declared in Renters' court yesterday that the Chicago area rent control office is flaunting office of price administration precepts in permitting exorbitant rent increases.

Wetzel's clients were seeking relief from rent increases of $5 to $7.50 a month, retroactive to May 1. The increases were granted by the rent control office after James V. Oliver, the owner, had made $6,000 worth of improvements on the building, located at 8009-15 South Wood street.

Judge Jay A. Schiller indicated that the OPA should straighten out the muddle, but added that if it did not do so within 30 days he would take action in the matter. Robert Levin, chief counsel for the rent control office, who admitted the increases were "pretty stiff," promised to have the case reviewed by the control office director.

Oliver said that he would appeal to the federal court in the event of an adverse ruling.

Mexico's Budget Will Reach $125,000,000 in 1943

VERA CRUZ, Mexico, Dec. 21 (AP).—Mexico will have a record budget of $125,000,000 next year, President Manuel Avila Camacho disclosed yesterday in a press conference. The war ministry will account for $28,000,000, the president said. The ministries of communications and education will have the next largest appropriations.

FEW USE NO. 3 OIL COUPONS; EXPECT BOOST IN VALUE

May Get More When OPA Acts Tomorrow.

Fuel oil consumers in the Chicago metropolitan area yesterday ignored the suggestion of Washington officials of the office of price administration that they could obtain more oil immediately by borrowing coupons from their future reserve.

Consumers with low or virtually exhausted oil supplies waited for word from Washington as to the value of coupons for heating period 3 which become valid tomorrow. Expecting the coupon value to be raised in response to widespread complaints that the present rations are inadequate to warm their homes, fuel oil users decided to save their period 3 coupons instead of exchanging them at the current value of 10 gallons per coupon for emergency supplies.

Acceptance Date Advanced.

Michael F. Mulcahy, area OPA director, said he had received no reports from local rationing boards that consumers were taking advantage of an OPA ruling which permits the exchange of period 3 coupons for coupons which can be redeemed immediately. The OPA last Friday advanced the validity date of these coupons from Jan. 5 to Dec. 23.

Meanwhile, Frank E. Spencer, president of the Burning Oil Distributors' association, asserted that the OPA fuel oil rationing system must be abandoned quickly before it disrupts entirely the retail delivery of oil. He said truck drivers and office staffs employed by the distributors are suffering from the excessive burden of paper work and detail heaped on them since Oct. 1.

"We are making 50 per cent less deliveries in a working day as the result of the OPA program," he added.

Fuel Oil Output Gains.

Dr. Gustav Egloff, research director for the Universial Oil Products corporation, asserted that oil refineries have increased considerably the yield of fuel oil in processing petroleum.

Figures on the output of petroleum products in the first 10 months this year compared with the same period of 1941 follow:

Output of Refineries. [Thousands of barrels.]

	Jan. thru Oct. 1942.	Jan. thru Oct. 1941.
Crude oil run thru stills	1,108,050	1,162,668
Gasoline	568,193	566,142
Kerosene	56,364	59,461
Distillate fuel oil	161,079	155,805
Residual fuel oil	295,760	281,574

Dr. Egloff explained that the refineries were asked to cut their output of gasoline from each barrel of crude oil by 20 per cent to increase the yield of fuel oil.

TAX AGENTS TAKE $420,000 LIQUOR STOCKS IN RAIDS

Thirty-five liquor dealers in the Chicago area are in trouble with Uncle Sam because they failed to pay a $6 a case floor tax on all stock they had Nov. 1, E. C. Yellowley, supervisor of the alcohol tax division of the treasury department in this district, disclosed yesterday.

Thirty-five places have been raided by Thomas C. Bailey, his chief investigator, and 14,000 cases of liquor, valued at $420,000 have been seized. Twenty dealers will be charged with wilful violation of the tax act. The 15 others have paid the taxes and penalties.

According to Yellowley, all 35 involved were given until Dec. 1 to pay the new tax, but ignored it, some by mistake and others by alleged wilfulness.

Couple Killed as Train Strikes Car in Wood River

Alton, Ill., Dec. 21 (AP).—A man and a woman were killed today when their automobile was struck by a passenger train at an Alton railroad crossing in Wood River. They were Leonard E. Dugger, 31 years old, of Wood River, and Mrs. Mildred L. Sparks, 29, of Hartford, Ill.

Employment for 300

Handcraft of more than 300 handicapped persons from Illinois is on sale at 176 North Wabash avenue, under the sponsorship of the Illinois Association for the Crippled.

Dolls, small pieces of furniture, and dozens of other items fashioned by persons whose physical handicaps preclude their employment in industry line the shelves in the store. To the maker of each item will go the proceeds of its sale.

The Illinois Association for the Crippled proposes to furnish as many handicapped persons as possible with some means of support, its president, George H. Williamson, said yesterday.

ALIEN BEGS U. S. TO REPATRIATE HIM AND CHILD

Atty. Joseph F. Harrington declared yesterday before Judge Philip L. Sullivan in the federal District court that the government in denaturalizing Albert W. Krause, German born technician, automatically expatriated Krause's youngest child, Carlo, 3 years old, who was born in Germany.

The charge was made in Krause's fight to set aside the court order of last September which took away his citizenship on a charge that he was not loyal in thought and word to America. Harrington asked that a guardian be appointed for the child to protect his rights.

The lawyer also asked that Krause be brought to court from an internment camp for enemy aliens in Wisconsin, and that draft and state department papers pertaining to Krause be subpenaed. The chief argument to set aside the denaturalization is that Krause actually was a resident of Tulsa, Okla., and that only the federal courts there had jurisdiction. Judge Sullivan will rule on these points tomorrow.

TOWN IN ILLINOIS IS LEFT WITHOUT MEDICAL SERVICE

Morrisonville, Ill., Dec. 21 (AP).—War, death, and illness have robbed this community of 1,200 of direct medical services.

Dr. M. A. Reichman, last of three physicians who once served the area, is ill of pneumonia. Another doctor died and the third is in the service. Nearby villages of Harvel and Palmer also depended on Morrisonville doctors for medical care.

Members of the village board of health have asked state aid in solving their problem. Dr. Roland R. Cross, director of the state department of public health, referred the question to Dr. Harold Camp of Monmouth, state medical procurement and assignment officer, representing the Illinois Medical society.

U. S. LACKS HELP TO CUT OFF HEAT IN ITS BUILDINGS

Checkup Shows All Are Much Above 68°.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 21.—Government burocrats and pay rollers, who are getting increasing protests that bungling of fuel oil rationing and other restrictive programs are creating unnecessary discomforts for citizens, don't have to worry about their own office heat, a new survey showed today.

The federal works agency, in charge of government buildings, proudly announced several weeks ago that government office buildings should be kept at a maximum of 68 degrees to save fuel and safeguard the health of workers who are restricted to 65 degrees in their homes by fuel oil restrictions.

No Case Less Than 70 Degrees.

A checkup of 21 of the 110 buildings here that are owned and heated by the government showed, however, that in no case is the temperature less than 70 degrees.

FWA officials, asked why the 68 degree limit had not been put into effect, said a "shortage of man power" was the reason. They explained that they have not been able to get enough skilled mechanics to go thru the buildings and turn down the thermostatic controls to the 68 degree level.

In some of the older buildings, moreover, an FWA official said, there is no local thermostatic control and the heat for an entire structure is controled by a central valve regulating the inflow of steam. In such cases, the temperature varies in different rooms and it is largely up to the individual occupants to turn their radiators on and off to regulate the temperature closely, he said.

Hottest Spot in Town.

One of the hottest spots in town, it was found, is temporary building D, where the office of price administration fuel oil rationing division holds forth. Entering the building equipped with a reliably tested thermometer, a reporter found the vestibule heated to a stifling 80 degrees. The corridors and offices were tempered down to 74 to 76 degrees.

The Interior building, home of Fuel Administrator Harold Ickes, was operating at pre-war levels of 70 to 72 degrees. The thermometer showed 71 degrees at the Census building, where Price Administrator Leon Henderson is passing his waning days as a burocrat before giving way to an undesignated successor.

Open Windows to Cool Off.

The Social Security building, occupied by War Production board Chairman Donald Nelson, War Man Power Commissioner Paul McNutt and their staffs showed 76 degrees in a number of offices. On several occasions, office workers there have thrown open the windows to get relief from the heat.

One of the least warm of the buildings surveyed was the Supreme court building, where the nine justices were hearing cases in a flat 70 degree temperature.

Temperatures of other buildings surveyed were:

Railroad Retirement building, 72; House of Representatives office building, 74; House of Representatives office annex, 76; Library of Congress, 74; Library of Congress annex, 72; Senate office building, 74; Capitol, 73; Archives building, 75; Department of Justice, 73; Internal Revenue, 74; Postoffice Department, 72; Interstate Commerce Commission, 73; Department of Labor, 72; Department of Commerce, 70; Treasury Department, 72; Agriculture Department, 71.

These temperatures were similar to those revealed two weeks ago when a TRIBUNE survey recorded all buildings exceeding the prescribed 68 degrees.

TRANSIT ENGINEERS AGREE ON RESTORING FOUR BUS LINES IN CITY

The city council committee on local transportation was informed yesterday that engineers charged with formulating a new plan for surface lines bus operations had agreed to restoration of service on four routes—Austin, Fullerton, and North avenues, and 83d street.

The surface lines on Dec. 1 cut off seven routes to comply with an ODT order for a 15 per cent mileage cut. After hundreds of complaints, the city and Illinois Commerce commission requested that the routes be restored and cuts be made by taking buses off all lines. The engineers, Maj. R. F. Kelker Jr. for the council, Merrill B. Knox of the I. C. C., and Charles E. De Leuw of the ODT, were asked to collaborate in the planning.

H. B. Potter, ODT regional director, has authority to approve any plan that holds to the 15 per cent mileage slash.

Drivers Turn in 10 Million Tires Under U. S. Program

Washington, D. C., Dec. 21 (AP).—Motorists have turned in approximately 10 million tires under the government's idle tire purchase plan, the office of price administration announced today.

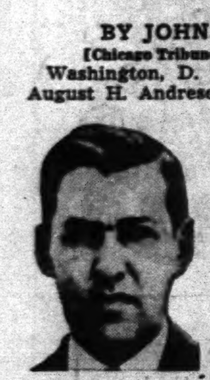
ASKS HENDERSON ABOUT WASTE OF GAS; NO ANSWER

Andresen Makes Charges Against Burocrats.

BY JOHN FISHER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]



Rep. A. H. Andresen.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 21.—Rep. August H. Andresen [R., Minn.], tonight noted that Leon Henderson failed to answer two inquiries from him concerning gasoline rationing before he resigned as OPA administrator.

In a letter to Henderson on Nov. 22 the congressman said he was passing along a few troublesome questions on gas rationing as received from constituents and to which Andresen could not supply the answers. The questions were:

1. How did Merrill C. Meigs, former deputy director of the WPB aircraft division, get gasoline for his private plane in taking Henderson and his wife from Washington to Millville, N. J. to vote on Nov. 3, inasmuch as there is passenger train service every hour to Millville?

2. How was it that Edward J. Flynn, chairman of the Democratic National committee, was motoring between Washington and New York recently when he suffered exhaustion which required hospitalization for a couple of days?

No Reply from Henderson.

Up until today Andresen said Henderson has not seen fit to reply to his letter, which cited these examples of burocratic gasoline wasting, while he was imposing severe and unfair restrictions on the civilian population.

"Events of the last 30 days, terminating with the resignation of OPA Czar Henderson, disclose discrimination and bungling in government handling of gasoline and oil," Andresen declared tonight.

"One set of unfair and stringent rules in the rationing of gasoline is causing a complete breakdown in agricultural food production and essential transportation. Another set of rules permits unlimited use of gasoline for the burocratic rulemakers, and for thousands of government owned cars, engaged in nonessential work.

"The unfairness of fuel oil rationing has now become a national scandal," Andresen continued.

Bungling Destroying Morale.

"The American people will make every sacrifice to supply our fighting forces with gasoline, oil, food, and munitions, but they will not tolerate the bungling and mistakes of burocrats, who appear to be more interested in destroying the economy on the home front than they are in winning the war. These officials are rapidly destroying the morale of the American people."

One of his enterprising constituents, said Andresen, had taken the trouble to look up train schedules between Washington and Millville and discovered that there is such passenger train service every hour.

"You will recall that on Nov. 18 you said that those who have their supply of gasoline reduced 'may be comforted in the knowledge that they are making room in some tank car for oil for our war machines in Africa or to heat his home, or his neighbor's this winter, or for gasoline needed to carry a war worker to his job, or to take farm products to the market.'

"You can readily see how such a statement by you prompts some people to wonder how Mr. Meigs received gasoline to take you and your wife to New Jersey when every hour a passenger train is at your disposal for such a trip," Andresen wrote Henderson.

He also informed Henderson, concerning Flynn's motoring habits, that "there is very excellent and luxurious passenger train service between New York and Washington, even trains every half hour during part of the day."

M. C. MEIGS EXPLAINS.

Reached at his home at 1500 Lake Shore drive, Merrill C. Meigs, former deputy director of the war production board aircraft division, had the following to say about taking Leon Henderson from Washington to Millville, N.J., to vote on Nov. 3:

"I used my private plane to get around to various factories as part of my duties. On Nov. 3 I had to go to the du Pont airport at Wilmington, Del., to inspect a new airplane being developed there. The night before I happened to see Leon Henderson, and as long as Millville was in almost a direct line between Washington and Wilmington, I asked him if he and his wife would like to go along and stop over at their home for lunch.

"Henderson said 'Yes, as long as you are going, I'd like to go along, and while there I'll take time to vote.'"

FAMOUS VIENNA MUSICIAN MADE CITIZEN OF U. S.

Marek Weber, Viennese orchestra leader who came to this country shortly before the outbreak of the European war, became a citizen yesterday in naturalization proceedings before Federal District Judge John P. Barnes.

Weber, who lives at 3270 Lake Shore drive, said he wished to become an American farmer. "I've bought two farms in Wisconsin and I think that it will be interesting to run them," he said.

The orchestra leader was among a group of 150 persons who swore allegiance to the United States.

STATE TO HOUSE THE HEATLESS IN MASSACHUSETTS

Boston, Mass., Dec. 21 (AP).—Shelter and care for Massachusetts residents unable to obtain adequate fuel for their homes was provided tonight in an executive order by Gov. Leverett Saltonstall.

The Massachusetts committee on public safety was ordered to obtain shelter and transportation for fuelless householders. Food, clothing, and medical services were authorized for needy persons quartered in shelters.

The order was issued shortly after a group of 15 women, who described themselves as mothers of small children, appealed to the governor. The women said their homes in Boston's west end had been heatless for two days and they had been unable to obtain oil.

Some of the women carried placards. One read: "Are the politicians cold? Is the state house cold? Are they worried? No."

COMET DASHING TOWARD EARTH, BUT WILL MISS IT

Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 21 (AP).—Harvard astronomers tonight were observing a new comet which its discoverer, Dr. Fred L. Whipple, described as "the brightest since the Cunningham comet of several years ago."

Roughly as large as the earth and having a tail 500,000 miles long, the fireball is hurtling toward the earth at a speed of 25 miles a second, but its closest approach to our planet will be just under 40,000,000 miles. Right now it's about 55,000,000 miles away.

It will get closest to us on Jan. 26, at which time it will be brightest, but Dr. Whipple said it would be "just below naked eye visibility altho very easy to observe with any telescope."

The comet is located in the northern sky, in the constellation Canis Minor, or Little Dog. Astronomers will have a chance to study it for several months. After that the comet probably won't show up again for several hundred years.

SUPREME COURT GRANTS REVIEW OF CULT RULING

Washington, D. C., Dec. 21 (AP).—The Supreme court agreed today to review a decision holding constitutional a Dallas, Tex., ordinance prohibiting the distribution upon the streets of handbills containing advertising matter.

Validity of the ordinance was challenged by Mrs. Ella Jamison, a member of "Jehovah's Witnesses," on the ground that it abridged her rights of freedom of speech, freedom of the press and freedom to worship God according to the dictates of her conscience.

The Dallas County Criminal court sustained the ordinance and imposed a $5 fine and costs against the woman.

The court also agreed to review a decision holding constitutional a Paris, Tex., ordinance prohibiting the solicitation without a permit from the mayor, of orders for books or merchandise within the residence district.

MOTHER RETURNS TO SAVE BABY AND BOTH DIE IN FIRE

Breaks Window to Enter Flaming Cottage.

Mrs. Elvira Wildner, 37 years old, and her 3 months old son, Gustave Jr., were burned to death yesterday in a fire that burned out the interior of their one story frame cottage at Meadowbrook drive and Channel road in Round Lake Beach. Three other occupants of the house escaped.

Mrs. Wildner had prepared breakfast for her husband, who left for work at 5:15 a. m., and returned to bed. An hour later James Bell, 70 years old, Mrs. Wildner's father, who with his wife, Emma, 64, of Hiles, Wis., was on a holiday visit to his daughter, was awakened by the smoke.

Saves 3 Year Old Boy.

Bell woke his wife and Mrs. Wildner and then carried his grandson, Dennis, 3 years old, outdoors where the thermometer registered 7 degrees below zero.

Mrs. Wildner hurried across the street to the home of Harry Clayburn and summoned firemen. Bell, unaware that his infant grandson still was in the burning house, was attempting to unlock the front door from the outside when his daughter returned. He restrained her from entering the house.

Unnoticed in the darkness, Mrs. Wildner rushed to a side window, smashed it, and climbed into the bedroom where the baby lay in a crib, it was theorized by Chief William Harrison of the Round Lake fire department. Firemen found the two bodies near the end of the Wildners' bed, over which Mrs. Wildner apparently stumbled while trying to reach the window with the baby in her arms. The charred remains of a newly trimmed Christmas tree were found in the living room.

Damage Is $3,000.

Chief Harrison estimated the damage at $3,000. He said the firemen, all volunteers, made the two mile run from Round Lake in four minutes, but found the house already enveloped in flames. He said the fire probably started from a coal heater in the kitchen.

Wildner, who works in a war industry plant near Chicago, said he moved his family here from Rhinelander, Wis., about a month ago. An inquest was set for today in Grayslake.

PAROLED LIFER IN 1910 BOMBING WINS FREEDOM

The sentence of Matthew Anthony Schmidt, 61 years old, convicted dynamiter of the Los Angeles Times office in 1910, was commuted by Gov. Olson of California in Sacramento yesterday "to the time served," Anton Johansen, business manager of the Chicago Federation of Labor News has been advised.

Johansen said Schmidt, who has been on parole since Aug. 28, 1939, has been assistant radio engineer of radio station WCFL since shortly after he was released on parole to the Chicago federation. He was paid $250 a month, Johansen said, until two months ago when he left for California to try for a commutation of his sentence.

Johansen said he has not heard from Schmidt, who may take a war industry job in California, but said his job here is awaiting him.

Schmidt was sentenced to life imprisonment in San Quentin penitentiary after the 1910 bombing of the Los Angeles Times. Twenty-one persons were killed in the blast.

FREEZES TO DEATH IN BARN.

Walter Everett Scott, 63 years old, 423 Garfield avenue, Aurora, was found frozen to death yesterday in the haymow of a barn at the Werthimer Cattle company in Montgomery, two miles south of Aurora.

STANDARDIZED FOOD CEILINGS DUE IN JANUARY

Stores to Be Classified Into 3 Groups.

vamp the food price control program was made after consultation with trade representatives who indorsed the plan. He said the revisions will eliminate differences in ceiling prices of competing stores in the same class and thus help many small retailers to keep going.

Different classes of wholesalers will be allowed varying percentage markups, officials explained. For example, the cash-and-carry wholesaler will be allowed a smaller markup than the so-called service wholesaler, who includes delivery and charge account privileges in his prices. The markups allowed for retailers and wholesalers will be based on studies made recently by the bureau of labor statistics of margins of several thousand grocery stores, the OPA said.

In fixing the new ceilings, the OPA will attempt to hold over-all prices at currrent levels, officials said. Stores with high margins on some items will have to reduce prices, while those with low margins in some lines will be permitted to make increases.

Henderson also said that revisions in price ceiling controls for retailers in other than food lines are being prepared.

CHANGE LONG SOUGHT.

Representatives of both chain and independent grocers in Chicago said yesterday that they would welcome the proposed new price ceiling program as an escape from the welter of confusion which has attended the current system.

Miss Rose Marie Kiefer, representative of the National Association of Retail Grocers, which has 60,000 members nationally, 1,200 of them in Chicago, said that the new system is one which independent grocers have been trying to induce the government to inaugurate since the present method proved impractical.

Must Sell at Loss.

"Grocers under the current setup," Miss Kiefer said, "are caught between the millstones of rising wholesale prices and established retail ceilings. The net result of this is that many items either must be discontinued or sold at a loss."

Under the proposed program, a rise in manufacturers' or wholesalers' prices may be passed on to the retailer, who may increase his prices according to a set percentage formula.

"The new program should prove a distinct benefit to the entire industry, from the manufacturer to the retailer, and it is exactly what the industry has been seeking," Miss Kiefer said. She decried the cumbersome records and detailed questionnaires that have burdened the industry under the present office of price administration regulations.

Hope for Simplifications.

"The new system," she said, "will eliminate, by the very nature of its price establishing structure, most of the complexities and confusion that have kept grocers burning midnight oil for the last seven months."

Burt J. Dickens, vice president of the National Tea company, also looked for a welcome simplification to result from the proposed program.

An official of the Atlantic and Pacific Tea company, who declined to be quoted, also predicted success for the new system, "if the markups are large enough."

RIPS NEW DEAL'S LETTING FAILURES HANDLE MILLIONS

Hopkins, Henderson and Tugwell Cited.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 21 [Special].—The New Deal's policy of giving "administrative failures" like Harry Hopkins millions of dollars to play with is dangerous to victory and destructive of morale, Sen. Hugh A. Butler [R., Neb.] charged in a statement today.

Hopkins, White House intimate and special assistant in charge of lend-lease funds, has been telling Americans of the great sacrifices they must make, especially in food, while he has been doling out millions of dollars to Europe and other foreign lands. Only last week Hopkins introduced his bride to New Deal society at one of the most lavish food gobbling parties the capital has known.

Points to Lend-Lease.

Sen. Butler declared that Hopkins' handling of lend-lease funds "is one of the things the new congress will have to explore," and continued:

"I dread to think what is happening behind the scenes of lend-lease under Harry Hopkins, whose only background for the job was such an utter failure in administering WPA that he had to be extracted from the mess and who is now given more millions to play with without any member of congress knowing what he is doing.

Not Job for Playboys.

"War demands the intensive marshaling of all the nation's resources and careful allotment to the armed forces and to civilian needs. It is not a job for economic playboys.

"The Henderson debacle in OPA illustrates in its entirety one of the basic failures of the New Deal thruout its existence. There has been a consistent policy of putting economic theorists to work doing administrative jobs for which they have no ability.

"The New Deal's program of putting Hendersons, Hopkinses and Tugwells in key war jobs when each has past records of huge administrative failures is dangerous to victory and destructive of the morale of the people."

OPA THREATENS SALESMEN WHO CHISEL ON GAS

Mulcahy Will Investigate C Applications.

It's getting more difficult every day to recognize a salesman, Michael F. Mulcahy, Chicago metropolitan area director for the office of price administration, admitted yesterday. He said many salesmen were disguising themselves as "expediters," "sales engineers," "or "technical advisers" in order to obtain C gasoline ration coupons.

Mulcahy disclosed that in one Chicago company several salesmen convinced their local rationing boards that they were entitled to C coupons despite the fact that they were not engaged in work considered essential to the war or public welfare.

Investigation to Be Made.

He said a thoro investigation would be made to determine whether the salesmen used fraud or misrepresentation to influence their boards. Fraudulent statements are punishable with a maximum penalty of $10,000 fine and 10 years' imprisonment.

"We are going to review all awards of supplemental gasoline," Mulcahy promised. "Where local rationing boards have been lax or have interpreted the gasoline rationing regulation too liberally we will take appropriate action to recover the excess coupons and to punish wilful violators."

He said letters would be sent to each local rationing board listing the names of motorists whose right to extra gasoline was questioned. The boards will summon these motorists to hearings at which the award will be reviewed.

Basis of Allotment.

Mulcahy explained that salesmen active in the distribution of goods important to war production or to public health and safety are entitled to 65 per cent of 1941 gasoline consumed, or enough gasoline for 8,600 miles of travel. He added that salesmen's applications for extra gasoline would be considered early in January.

The exact definition of what is an "essential salesman" has not been released by the Washington OPA office.

A considerable number of motorists who have obtained B and C gasoline coupons have returned them to local rationing boards after finding that the A books would suffice, Mulcahy said.

Many Sacrificing for War.

"There are many patriotic citizens in the Chicago area who want to make their sacrifice for winning the war," Mulcahy said. "They are giving up their extra rations because they can get along on less."

The following additional list of C book rations was issued:

Flying Chaplain

[AAF Photo.]
LT. E. F. M'CAHEY.

San Angelo, Tex., Dec. 21 [Special].—A flying priest from Chicago was named today as the first post chaplain of Uncle Sam's newest "war college," the San Angelo army air field bombardier school. He is 1st Lt. Eugene Francis McCahey, former senior curate of Chicago's St. Columbanus church.

Chaplain McCahey, who last week completed his course at the army chaplain's school, Harvard university, Cambridge, Mass., celebrated the first mass to be held in the new South chapel yesterday. Many Chicago service men attended.

Lt. McCahey, who has around 100 hours as a private pilot flying at Chicago airport and Harlem airport, was born in Chicago and attended Quigley seminary from 1921 to 1927 and then St. Mary's seminary at Mundelein from 1927 to 1934 when he was ordained. He did post-graduate work at Loyola university. He was assigned to St. Nicholas parish in 1934, where he remained seven years, taking up aviation as a hobby. Lt. McCahey is a cousin of James McCahey, president of the Chicago board of education.

4,500 VOLUNTEER FOR RURAL FIRE WARDEN POSTS

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 21 (AP).—Nearly 4,500 volunteer civilian fire wardens have been enlisted in the state-wide rural fire prevention program, including all field employés of the Illinois department of conservation.

Organization of the work, sponsored by the state council of defense and directed by John Craig, state fire marshal, has been completed in 44 counties and is in progress in 30 others, Craig said today.

Twenty-nine county training schools have been established to instruct rural fire wardens and 74 county fire protection committees have been formed.

GOLDEN ROD TOPS LIST OF QUICKEST RUBBER SOURCES

Yields 80-100 Lbs. Acre Yearly, Says Expert.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami, Fla., Dec. 21.—"Golden rod," said Harold F. Loomis, "offers the most promising prospects for a quick new source of natural rubber."

He is a senior agronomist of the department of agriculture, in charge of rubber research for the department's bureau of plant industry. He was interviewed in the United States plant introduction garden, 13 miles south of here, where the government has been growing a variety of rubber bearing trees, shrubs, vines, and plants since 1925. It has become a center of intensive research since the Japanese captured sources of 90 per cent of the world's rubber.

"Other plant life will produce more rubber in the long run," Loomis continued, "but for a new crop in 1943, golden rod looks the best."

Not Favored in Washington.

This is contrary to popular opinion. The golden rod has received little publicity. It is contrary to opinion of official Washington. The Baruch committee reported to President Roosevelt in September that "the two agricultural possibilities which show the most promise for the United States are guayule and cryptostegia."

The golden rod promising to supplement the tardy synthetic program is not the common variety most familiar to hay fever victims. It's a variety cultivated by the late Thomas A. Edison near his winter home at Fort Myer, Fla., in the '20s when the British-Dutch monopoly was sticking hooks in its biggest customer, the American tire industry, inflating the price to more than 25 times the production cost.

150 Acres Harvested.

Loomis related that with all of the seed available his department planted and harvested nearly 150 acres of Edison golden rod near Savannah, Ga., this fall. The cultivation was for seeds, roots, and cuttings for propagation next year. It is estimated that from each acre grown in 1942 a hundred acres can be planted in 1943.

"The plant is 6 to 7 per cent rubber," said the agronomist. "We hope to get from 80 to 100 pounds of rubber per acre."

At this rate, arithmetic would indicate a golden rod crop of 675 tons of rubber next year. That's enough, mixed with reclaimed rubber, to recap 5 million tires. It's a substantial quantity even if it is only a small fraction of total 1943 requirements of 577,000 tons of natural and synthetic for military, lend-lease, and civilian needs.

Guayule Increase Planned.

Guayule, the Mexican bush cultivated by the government in California, was listed in the Baruch report for 600 tons in 1942, increasing to 33,000 tons by the fall of 1944. Rubber Director William M. Jeffers disclosed recently that requests for priorities for harvesting materials were still undecided by the war production board.

"Guayule," said Loomis, "when four years old contains 16 to 18 per cent rubber. The yield is much smaller when we are forced to harvest it prematurely.

"Cryptostegia, the Madagascar rubber vine, takes 18 months to reach the harvest stage. No satisfactory mechanical method of harvesting has been devised. No sizable plots are in existence. There's a project to plant 100,000 acres in Haiti, which they claim will yield 50 pounds per acre when eight months old, pruned and tapped by hand by 30 cent a day labor, but there are some doubts whether this will produce in 1943.

Try Out Russian Dandelion.

"The Russian dandelion has been planted experimentally in 42 states, Canada and Alaska. Not much is known about its possibilities. The rubber director has a mission visiting Russia now.

"The milk weed will produce a little rubber. It has a second value as a substitute for kapok for life preservers.

"The Castilla elastica, a big tree growing wild and on old plantations in southern Mexico and in Central America, will produce much more than the golden rod in 1943. But it's not a new source. Fifty years ago, before the para rubber plantations were developed in the far east, the Castilla was one of the world's main sources of rubber."

Synthetic Program Lagging.

The Baruch committee estimated that 41,000 tons of natural rubber would be obtained in 1943 to bolster a dwindling stockpile. It also estimated, in its Sept. 10 report to President Roosevelt, that 532,000 tons of synthetics would be produced next year. Jeffers disclosed two weeks ago that the synthetic program is tardy, dangerously so.

For this reason, and because no heavy duty or military tire has proved satisfactory without large quantities of natural crude, government and industry are exploring and exploiting all botanical sources of rubber. They'll have to get more than is now in sight, according to Jeffers, or the breakdown in transportation will hurt America worse than a major military defeat.

Tribune Gets 100 Suggestions in Its Campaign to Save Tires

More than 100 replies have been received to THE TRIBUNE offer inviting American inventors to submit their ideas of substitutes for rubber auto tires. The offer, made in November, stipulated that the proposals would be investigated and, if feasible, be tested at TRIBUNE expense.

Charles James, TRIBUNE purchasing agent, said yesterday approximately 35 of the inventors have been interviewed and that three ideas already are near the testing stage. Many of the ideas offered, James said, involve the use of steel, which is a critical material in conjunction with small amounts of rubber for cushioning. This is not the solution sought.

Set of Wooden Tires.

One idea to be tested is a complete set of wooden tires obtained thru Winkenweder & Ladd, Inc., 1421 South Michigan avenue. A large Tribune truck will be fully equipped with six of these tires, size 8.25x20 dual.

"The truck so equipped will travel quite slowly as compared with normal speed but at least the test either will substantiate or disprove the idea that, if applied properly, wooden tires can be used," James said. "We expect to travel the routes of this truck to get first hand information on just what happens."

Two Tribune passenger vehicles will test two other suggestions, both based on a plan of utilizing wornout casings to a far greater extent than is possible with present casings and tubes.

Use Fibrous Material.

The first suggestion includes the use of a fibrous material called Tampico, which is contained within a canvas tube. The tube is placed in a casing after the inner tube has been removed. After the casing is put back on the wheel the canvas tube is ripped by a wire pulling device, which allows the fibrous material to expand to the full volume of the outer casing. It is hoped the fibrous material will take the place of air and eliminate blowouts and leaks in severely worn tubes and casings.

The other idea, submitted by Lenard Erickson, 1603 East 68th street, has been tested for 6,000 miles by the inventor. Erickson fitted his car with "overshoes" made from worn tire casings held in place with an ingenious arrangement of hooks and cable, adjusted while the tire is deflated and held in place securely and without danger of slipping when the tire is inflated.

2 New Yorkers Sentenced to Die for Slaying Soldier

New York, Dec. 21 (AP).—Two men convicted of slaying a soldier in a Harlem church areaway last October were sentenced to death today and a third was sent to prison for life. The death sentences were imposed by Judge James G. Wallace on Benitez de Jesus and William Diaz, both 18 years old and both of New York City. They were convicted Dec. 10 of the robbery murder of Pvt. Edwin Berkowitz, 22, Hackensack, N. J. Americo Romano, 19, also of New York City, who was convicted with them, was sentenced to life.

AID OF TEACHERS ON INCOME TAX STUDIED BY U. S.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 21 (AP).—Treasury officials said today that plans to enlist the aid of school teachers thruout the country in instructing citizens in handling income tax returns have been discussed with educational organizations.

Officials said proposals under consideration contemplate using teachers in an educational program to spread tax information but not to have them help taxpayers fill out returns.

The bureau of internal revenue expects to have approximately 8,000 consultants in the field between now and March 15 to help taxpayers with returns.

RANCHERS RIDE RANGES AS WAR TAKES COWBOYS

Do Double Duty to Meet Production Goal.

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 21 (AP).—Five thousand calves unbranded on a single ranch for want of cowhands. . . . Ranch executives driven by necessity back to the saddle. . . . Wartime industry luring away help thru high wages. . . . Cattlemen working long hours. . . .

It's a gloomy picture you get in talking with the men who have been called on by the government to increase by 17 per cent their 1943 marketing of beef animals to meet the food-for-production goals.

On the other hand, it's hard to keep a good cattleman down, and Sam McKelvie, former governor of Nebraska, publisher of the Nebraska Farmer, and owner of a ranch in Cherry county, Neb., believes the ranchers will come thru and give the country a big meat production.

Keep Up Production.

Lawrence Mollin, American National Live Stock association executive, holds somewhat to the opinion of McKelvie. An accurate forecast on the effect of the man power shortage on cattle production is impossible with the data now on hand, he said, because while ranchers may complain when they lose a foreman or other key men they will "still be in there pitching, producing just as many cattle as they can."

The men on ranches, according to Russell Thorp, secretary of the Wyoming Stock Growers association, are working as many as 14 hours a day and seven days a week in an attempt to carry on effectively, taking up the slack left by reduced help.

How serious the situation is was illustrated by State Sen. Charles Murphy of Spicer, Colo., president of the Colorado Stockgrowers and Feeders association and operator of a large Colorado mountain ranch, who noted that he has 7 men working for him today compared to 10 a year ago.

City Boys Not So Good.

"The number of men is not so important as the ability of these men," Murphy said. "One good man is worth three or four inexperienced men. I don't understand why, but a country boy can go to the city and make good in a reasonable time, but a boy from the city, as a rule, never succeeds on a ranch or a farm."

The army and industry, Murphy declared, have taken away too many men needed on the ranches.

The 5,000 unbranded calves were mentioned by Mollin as belonging to the Matador Land & Cattle company, one of the nation's largest range operators. They lost a range foreman of 15 years' standing who knew all there was about herds, prairies, and the country.

Headache Keeping Men.

Mollin said the cattle men hope there will be good results from the new selective service rule allowing deferment of essential ranch workers. So far it has been a headache keeping a man, he said. Even if a rancher got a deferment for a key man there was always the chance the man would enlist when people began looking at him and wondering aloud why he wasn't in the service.

The Wyoming Stock Growers association executive committee considered this problem in psychology and concluded that action of some kind was "absolutely necessary to protect the self-respect and reputation of those workers.

The committee proposed that Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard should provide some character of enlistment in the armed forces and a furlough to inactive duty of essential men of military age now employed in agriculture and livestock production.

Deferment None Too Soon.

McKelvie, writing in the Nebraska Farmer, said he had made a labor survey of 20 ranches in the vicinity of his own ranch, and had decided that the deferment of key men in ranching and other essential agricultural pursuits "came none too soon."

"Ranchmen have been able during the past season to produce their greatest meat crop in history thru working unusually long hours, and making the best of the labor and tools at hand," he wrote. "The supply of experienced help has been substantially reduced, but it is my opinion that if there is no further disturbance to the industry, ranchmen will duplicate this year's production next year and thruout the war period."

The San Angelo Standard-Times noted on Dec. 10 that in west Texas "many of the larger ranchmen who have been more or less the brains of their outfits are now back in the saddle and making good hands during the labor shortage."

Drops False Affidavit Charge Against Lawyer

A charge of making a false affidavit in a bankruptcy case placed against Atty. Jay I. Rosenberg was dismissed yesterday by United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker. Francis McGreal, asistant United States attorney, requested the dismissal on the ground that he did not wish to disclose evidence that will be used in a civil hearing before Wallace Streeter, referee in bankruptcy, next March.

Mystery Cleared

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

George Tyson, 2, with his parents in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 21 (AP).—The curly haired mystery baby who had won the affection of all Pittsburgh since he was abandoned in a hotel lobby here Dec. 1, was identified today as 2 year old George Leland Tyson of Youngstown, O.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tyson, held for court on a charge of abandoning him, wept as they told a magistrate that they brought the boy to Pittsburgh and left him in the hope that somehow he might get "a better home" than they could give him.

Tyson, 27, an unemployed iron worker, said:

"We didn't know what to do. My wife has three children now and is expecting a fourth. My work has been unsteady. We thought it was for the best."

The parents were located thru a photograph of three bears in a zoo, which the baby held when found in the Pittsburgh hotel. A nation-wide police search disclosed the picture was taken at the San Francisco zoo. There authorities directed the search to Youngstown.

SUPREME COURT HONORS MEMORY OF L. D. BRANDEIS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 21 (AP).—The Supreme court paid tribute today to the late Justice Louis D. Brandeis, whom Chief Justice Stone termed "one of the influential men of his time."

Justice Brandeis.

The courtroom ceremony, which included a tribute from Atty. Gen. Francis Biddle, followed an earlier meeting of the Supreme court bar at which Sen. George W. Norris [Ind., Neb.] said Brandeis' life "will always be a shining star in the broad firmament of American jurisprudence. His dissenting opinions have become the law of the land."

Brandeis, whose nomination to the court in 1916 by President Wilson precipitated a bitter nomination fight in the senate, died Oct. 5, 1941, at 84. He retired Feb. 13, 1939, after serving 23 years as the first Jew ever named to the tribunal.

His widow sat quietly in a large black leather chair at the rear of the conference room as the members of the bar met to hear speakers praise his judicial career and his private life. The meeting adopted a resolution, later presented to the court, which spoke of Brandeis' "enduring contributions to the enrichment of the national life."

3 TRAITORS ASK FORMAL STAY OF DEATH SENTENCE

A petition was filed yesterday in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals seeking a stay of execution for Hans Max Haupt, Otto R. Wergin and Walter O. Froehling, all under death sentence for treason in aiding the executed Nazi saboteur, Herbert Haupt.

Paul Warnholtz, attorney for the trio, said his action was a formality. The three were originally sentenced to die Jan. 22, but subsequently Warnholtz appealed for a rehearing. The Circuit Court of Appeals on Dec. 9 gave him until Jan. 31 to file certain papers, and set oral arguments for March 2.

The court's action in effect stayed the scheduled Jan. 22 executions, altho not specifically. At the time, however, Senior Judge Evan A. Evans promised that the men would not be put to death pending their appeal. In view of this, it is expected that the high court will grant the Warnholtz petition.

FREE INNOCENT MAN 7 MONTHS AFTER 3 CONFESS

'Merry Christmas,' Says Victim of Injustice.

Justice handed Pat Metegrano a Christmas present yesterday. And even tho it was a little ahead of time, he said he'd never ask for a better one.

He received his freedom—after eight months in jail and two months in Joliet penitentiary—and the restoration of an unblemished name.

It all happened before Judge Stanley Klarkowski in Criminal court. It was shown that Metegrano had been convicted of a robbery committed by someone else, and wrongfully sentenced to one year to life in prison. It was all a "terrible mistake," 1st Assistant State's Atty. Wilbert F. Crowley said.

Both Protest Innocence.

The mistake began last February when Metegrano, then 25 years old, was arrested on suspicion. Also seized was Marshall Fischer, a parolee. They were strangers. Police eventually charged both with holding up the taverns of Mrs. Elizabeth Cornellissen at 2824 North Ashland avenue and of Stanley Rezmer at 1415 North Ashland avenue. Mrs. Cornellissen and Rezmer identified both men.

At separate trials, both men, especially Metegrano, who had never even been arrested before, vainly protested their innocence. But their alibis were shattered—or so it seemed. Fischer was sentenced to life imprisonment as an habitual criminal; Metegrano to a lesser term.

To the last Metegrano pleaded he was not guilty, and he continued his pleas when taken to prison Oct. 21. His lawyer, Morton Anderson, assistant public defender, was convinced justice had erred. Fischer's lawyer, Charles Bellows, felt likewise.

Make Startling Discovery.

Together they combed every police record in the case and made a discovery. While Sheffield avenue police had listed Metegrano and Fischer as the tavern robbers, the detective bureau, as far back as last July, had similarly listed three other men, who confessed. In some manner, however, police interinformation had slipped up, and Metegrano and Fischer were convicted of crimes perpetrated by others. The three who confessed are Frank Kamik, Nick Gianos and Joe Piscopo.

The whole story was told yesterday. Metegrano, brought in from prison, was present. He was freed, and wished everybody a Merry Christmas. Then he headed straight for home at 815 South Keeler avenue to break the news to his parents and his two soldier brothers, whom he hopes now to join in uniform.

HERO'S MOTHER AND SISTER HERE FOR YULE VISIT

Mrs. Clara Wermuth and her daughter, Natalia, mother and sister of Capt. Arthur Wermuth, arrived yesterday to spend Christmas with the Chicago hero's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lorenz, 2549 Lunt avenue. Mrs. Wermuth and her daughter, a professional dancer known as Talia, said that Christmas would be a celebration of the good news that Capt. Wermuth is alive, altho a prisoner of the Japs. The captain's record on Bataan peninsula earned him the sobriquet, "the one man army of Chicago."

Mrs. Jean Wermuth, the soldier's wife, decided not to join the family celebration, feeling that she could not leave her duties as a surgical nurse in St. Clair, Mich. Natalia and her mother will depart Dec. 28 for Montreal.

"Canada has been good luck for us so far," Capt. Wermuth's mother said yesterday. "We have been there every time we've had good news of Arthur since the war began. I'm hoping that this trip will bring us more good tidings."

CAPITAL IGNORES ORDERS LIMITING HOLIDAY TRAVEL

Fur Coat Folk Leave as Soldiers Wait.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 21.—Elderly gentlemen in fur lined coats were leaving Washington for the Christmas holidays tonight. Smiling young women with half a dozen pieces of luggage were leaving. Young men of military age, but not in uniform, were leaving.

Everybody who had a train or plane reservation and a place to go was departing from the capital. Those who hadn't made their reservations days ago—and they included many soldiers and sailors hoping to get home for Christmas—were discovering that there was little chance of getting even a day coach ticket until Christmas day or later.

The holiday departures, which taxed the capacity of the Union station and the railroads, came despite the government agencies' ban on leaves for federal workers during the holiday period and the plea of Joseph B. Eastman, director of the office of defense transportation, for civilians to avoid unessential travel.

Deny Breach of Rules.

The government agencies denied that the rule against holidays for the government workers was being broken and that the tens of thousands of young men deferred from army service because of their government jobs were competing with soldiers and sailors for accommodations.

There were, nevertheless, many young men in civilian clothes among the crowds leaving on every train.

The travelers arrived at the station in an endless stream of cabs. Some came in government station wagons, and in passenger cars bearing the government license plates. A number were driven up in cars with District of Columbia licenses in the first 300 numbers—and low license numbers indicate position or influence here. Otherwise there were few private cars because of the drastic gas rationing.

Incoming Trains Packed.

Even the busy redcaps at the station paused to take note when low number cars rolled up to the doors, or bowing gentlemen with canes stepped from limousines with the license plates issued to diplomats.

Meanwhile every train coming into Washington was packed. Job holders who were unable to get leave for the holiday nevertheless found a way of cluttering up the transportation system. They brought their families in from out of town. Railroad men said the incoming trains numbered 150 and that the outbound trains left in equal volume.

Many of the trains to Washington were from four to six hours late because of the unprecedented travel. Passengers had to wait their turn to get a seat on the benches in the spacious station.

BIRD BREADLINES ARE BEGGING FOR YOUR DAILY HELP

HumaneOrganizationsAsk Crumbs Be Given.

Bird breadlines are forming on back porches and back yards thruout the Chicago area as sifting Christmas snows make it impossible for the feathered populace to scratch and forage for food. Organizations fostering the preservation of wild life urged Chicagoans yesterday to sweep a patch of snow from their yards, porches, or window sills and sprinkle food there for birds to eat.

Most birds who winter in the city and its suburbs aren't fussy about their meals. A handful of dry bread crumbs, cracked grains, or cereals will keep them warm and happy. A bowlful of leftover popcorn, with a dash of the hard shelled grains that refuse to pop or a mesh ball stuffed with suet are delicacies for the birds.

Caution to Good Samaritans.

Sparrows and starlings are the most common and perhaps the hungriest citizens of Chicago's year 'round bird population. But there are woodpeckers, chickadees, nuthatches, juncos, brown creepers, bluejays, titmice, fox sparrows, crested flycatchers, cardinals, and a few stray robins to be fed also.

Altho no birds like to wade thru snow, and their legs aren't long enough to do much shoveling or scratching, bird fanciers were advised by James S. White, assistant secretary of the Izaak Walton League of America, not to be too zealous in their feeding activities.

"Folks must be careful not to make bums out of the birds by maintaining year 'round feeding stations," White said. "Birds should work for their food, except in those absolutely barren spots where the weeds have been cut out."

Birds Enjoy Privacy.

Most birds prefer to dine in privacy, the Illinois Humane society advised and suggested that feeding places be so arranged that the clang of the dinner bell will not result in a feathered free for all.

Pure avian comfort comes with a wooden feeding floor raised slightly off the ground, said Dr. W. A. Young, managing director of the Anti-Cruelty society. He also suggested that the birds like regular meals. So city folks would do well to scatter crumbs or fill the feed pans at the same hour every day.

CHARGE WOMAN, ILL IN HOSPITAL, IS CHECK PASSER

As police took Helen Anna Young, 28 years old, of 4140 Drexel boulevard, to the County hospital yesterday for treatment of a lung infection, they received complaints that she had passed $320 in worthless checks and said she admitted escaping from an institution for the insane in Oshkosh, Wis., several years ago.

Detective Richard T. Dickson of the Hyde Park police said the woman had been sought since July, when she fled from a police matron while being taken from Louisville, Ky., to Mount Clemens, Mo., to stand trial on a bogus check charge.

Miss Young was seized on a warrant charging her with obtaining $100 on a worthless check in a north side tavern. Other complaints charged her with passing bad checks for $25 at a dress shop, $25 in a food store, $85 in a music store, $25 in a shoe store, and $85 at a used car dealer's garage.

Schlitz
THE BEER THAT MADE MILWAUKEE FAMOUS

Copr. [illegible], Jos. Schlitz
Brewing Co., Milwaukee, Wis.

It isn't just a fad

IN homes throughout the nation, as in many of America's finest hotels, restaurants and clubs, it has become the smart thing today to "SHARE A QUART" of Schlitz.

This is not just a fad that is sweeping the country. People like the friendliness of SHARING A QUART. But that isn't the only reason. Lovers of fine beer are realizing that they cannot always be sure of obtaining their favorite Schlitz unless they "SHARE A QUART" when enjoying Schlitz in pairs or groups.

The call for Schlitz in brown bottles has increased tremendously. But the supply of bottle caps is restricted. This restriction is not of our making, but is entirely beyond our control. So if we used only the familiar 12-ounce bottle, there wouldn't be enough to go around.

When you "SHARE A QUART" of Schlitz, and make one cap do the work of three, it isn't a question of patriotism. You are just helping the other fellow get HIS share of the beer that made Milwaukee famous. That's the friendly, American way.

The Schlitz Guest Bottle saves storage and refrigerator space. It is easy to wrap, easy to carry, easy to serve. And . . . Schlitz is easy to drink, because it's brewed with just the kiss of the hops and none of the bitterness.

Ask for the convenient SCHLITZ Full-Quart GUEST BOTTLE for those occasions when more than one person is served.

TO THE MAN WHO TRIED TO KILL CHRISTMAS.

Do you recall the Christmas of 1917? You were then an Austrian expatriate in the German army, a corporal, a front line fighter as you have so often called yourself. German military autocrats and their civilian coadjutors were sitting in the citadel of Brest-Litovsk—the burned town about them—making a peace with revolution wrecked Russia, a rapacious peace which picked the bones of the once formidable enemy. The German army was not stalled in Russian snow that Christmas as it is now. Russian snow was only the background for German Christmas trees decorated with trophies of victory.

The militarists who made the treaty did not know that you were alive. How astonishing that seems now. You knew the reichstag had passed a peace declaration denying a desire for conquests. The military was paying no attention to that, but you, a negligible bit of cannon fodder, probably then formed a contemptuous opinion of representative bodies. The German army was about to pour its forces against the allies in the west, to crush them with swift strokes, but do you recall that altho this surge might seem to be and almost prove to be irresistible, even then Austria, half starved, was demanding food or peace at any price? Does Austria, war distracted then, remind you of Italy now or do you refuse to think of such things of the past and present?

Do you recall that in the summer following the Christmas at Brest-Litovsk, where Hoffman and Kühlmann feasted the Russian revolutionaries, Hindenburg and Ludendorff began to lose their nerve? You have attributed weakness to the kaiser. You know that Ludendorff was the fellow who began to go to pieces and that the same qualities which later made him a fool associate with you in the Munich beer hall putsch, were the qualities which made him a gambler at Rheims in July when he had been losing 200,000 men a month. You are a gambler also, aren't you, with intuitions? Three weeks after the gamble at Rheims—win all, lose all—Ludendorff had given up hope. The allies, as you know, broke thru from Amiens to Saint-Quentin. Do you remember how all the victories of four years melted away like snow uncovering the graves of the dead? You saw the collapse. You were in the ruck of defeated troops, of sullen men returning to homes which had nothing for them. Is there nothing in that past to worry you now?

Do you recall the words of one of your own historians, proscribed because he is a Jew? "It was in June that the Germans first encountered the quasi-mythical adversaries whose coming had been expected for a year and a half with mingled mockery, doubt and dread. Even now the German people would have heard nothing of the matter had not men from the front on home leave spoken of the admirable equipment of the first American prisoners who really seemed to have come from another world."

The quasi-mythical adversaries are back again. To you they really have come from another world, a world you wouldn't understand. They believe in the things you kill. You have taught them that in killing Germans they are killing the assassins of human kindness, of compassion, generosity and justice. Do you consider it your triumph to have taught them that? You are facing them now in North Africa. Do you think they are soft because they have ideals you would not tolerate? Do you recall how their fathers first met your Germans at Cantigny and how they broke thru at Château-Thierry?

You have been asked if you recalled another war Christmas. Have you any Christmas recollections? How could you have? You are the man who tried to kill Christmas. In many lands you have been Herod. You have given the newborn to the Gestapo. Could you listen to Adeste Fideles or Heilige Nacht? Was it by fate that you chose Nuremberg, the medieval town of toys dedicated to children, for defilement by your Nazi meetings? What would you do if you came upon old Nuremberg as it was before you polluted it, came upon it of a snowy Christmas eve and heard the children singing carols? Would you flee like a devil on black wings in a frightened rage from the voices and the bells?

You have done great things without achieving greatness. You have built yourself a monument. It will be shunned as dreadful. In exalting yourself you have degraded a nation. You can say "I have supp'd full with horrors." You have the disordered mind of Macbeth. It is filled with scorpions. It will surround you with bleeding ghosts. They will clutch their wounds and cry out. There are the friends you killed. Brutes they may have been, but they trusted you who came on them in the night and sent them to perdition, their last gasp being of unbelief that it was you. They will come back in strange company, at the head of thousands massed in the mists of your delirium as far as you can see, the murdered souls of Europe, infants and aged, women and men, people who worshiped God and loved their country. Your torture camps will disgorge their dead. The victims of your firing squads will rise.

You are not the man to stand this trooping of the dead when live men armed are crowding in on you. Cruelty and rage are not the bonds of friendship. You would be betrayed by Himmler if the betrayal would save him. You cannot escape to your mountain aerie overlooking Salzburg. Even if man could not reach you in the lofty keep you have built there, "grandiose, wild, almost hallucinating," your unbalanced mind would welcome in the pursuing wraiths.

When the quasi-mythical men from another world come closer you will cry: "I 'gin to be a-weary of the sun, and wish the estate o' the world were now undone."

SOCIAL CLIMBING IN JOURNALISM.

It is no mere coincidence that two of the newspapers which have most consistently championed the aspirations of Mr. Willkie, the political parvenu, should be the property of persons who use them principally as a means to social advancement. The families that own the New York Herald Tribune and the San Francisco Chronicle have long been known for the persistence with which they endeavor to put their feet in doors that have the habit of closing against them, tho it should be said that a connection of one of these families did attain whatever distinction there is in marrying an English baronet.

Mr. Willkie himself got into Buckingham palace a while back. We doubt whether his giddiness dated from the event, but at least it showed what could be accomplished. It was quite as evident to his sponsors as to the gentleman himself that Mr. Willkie was a social success.

If Mr. Willkie could open the doors of a palace to himself he could presumably open other doors to those who took him up. The White House is about the best that we can do on this side of the water, and there seemed to be a belief that if Mr. Willkie could be got past the door with the consent of the voters others could sidle thru with him. The new American aristocracy would thus make its entrance edgewise.

The theory fits the facts about as well as any other, and it may account for a few editorial policies. A newspaper, used to promote social climbing, may have some value to its owners. It can have none to the public.

LEVELERS' HOLIDAY.

Harry [Hardship] Hopkins, the advance agent for the New Deal planned famine, had a party the other night to introduce his bride to alphabetical society. Sixty of the crème de la crème of New Deal officialdom were present, and one must admire the resolution that took them out into the night, gas rationing notwithstanding. But, as has been said, this is a people's war. If official limousines were not available, it was no doubt possible to wear a cab on either foot.

Despite a distaste for clichés, we find it impossible to avoid use of the phrase "groaning board" in describing the buffet supper. First, there was caviar, which Mr. Roosevelt has given up for the duration. That might suggest that Mr. Hopkins was successful in his mission to Moscow some months ago. There was clear turtle soup, which is difficult to come by in cans these days. You may not always be able to buy beef in your butcher shop, but Mr. Hopkins was able to produce no less than four varieties. There was a rare 1926 vintage champagne in copious quantities. Apparently the policy of appeasing Vichy paid off in the end.

No fewer than 26 delicacies were set out to tempt the palates of the guests. It is a comforting thought that the flower of the New Deal was able to set to with a will. This was a moment torn from the ever pressing concerns that burden them. For a moment only the hardships of war were thrust into the background. For a fleeting instant it was possible to escape the problems of erecting a New Deal social order closer to the heart's desire. Even the bicarbonate to come was a thought unheeded. For these 26 courses, torn from time, the burocrats permitted their souls to expand and their waistcoats to swell gently, like a sail catching the land wind.

The citizen who stood outside in the cold, his nose pressed to the frosty pane, could not but feel as he gazed upon that cheery sight, in which equally the Lord was praised and the homard en aspic passed, that the burocrats have great things in mind for him. It is true that they hide their sentimental hearts by bluster and harsh talk. They say, yes, we have no gas, no fuel oil, no tires, no beef, today. They say, as Mr. Hopkins recently said, "The well to do will not live as well as they did," "We shall be forced to do without almost everything but the necessities of life," "Most adults will not be fed as well as the men in our fighting forces," and "There will be no luxury food items." But we know better, don't we, lads?

All this talk of social leveling and hardship just conceals the ever living spirit of Santa Claus that animates Mr. Hopkins and the burocracy. The millennium is really just around the next fox hole. We are going to be hardened for war—but on pâté de foie gras, tortue claire en terrine, and crème au champignons frais. We are going to know the pinch of having to get by on truite en gelée and terrapin Baltimore. We are going to be leveled off with mousse of chicken, galantine of capon, calves head vinaigrette, cold tongue, and chicken á la king. We are going to finish off the social revolution with iced black cherries and vanilla and a demitasse, with perhaps just a smitch of socle of raspberry ice.

Allons, enfants! How long has this been going on? As our leader, Mr. Hopkins, shouts the revolutionary slogan of "Baked Oysters Bonne Femme!" we fearlessly look forward to meeting the beef à la mode and making it ours.

Editorial of the Day

ANOTHER NOVEMBER.

[The New Yorker.]

"Something uncertain and disgusting has hovered in the air for a long time," wrote Hitler. "People told each other that during the coming weeks it would 'go off' but I was not able to imagine what was to be understood by this. . . . During November the general tension increased. Then one day suddenly and without warning the disaster came upon us. Sailors arrived on trucks and called out for the revolution; a few Jew boys were the leaders in the fight that now started, the fight for 'freedom' and 'beauty' and 'dignity.' . . . My first hope was still that the high treason was nothing but a more or less local affair. I also tried to convince some of my comrades to that effect. . . . The following days came and with them the most terrible certainty of my life. The rumors became more and more depressing. What I had taken to be a local affair was now to be a general revolution. To this was added the shameful news from the front."

Hitler wrote this concerning the period immediately preceding the end of the first World war. In reading it again the other day in "Mein Kampf," we were struck by the wild, impassioned, desperate eloquence in Hitler's words and in the words he set down later in the same chapter. We quote the following passage in the solemn consciousness that another November has come, and with the conviction that Hitler now can do no better than repeat these words of his own: "Now all had been in vain. In vain all the sacrifices and deprivations, in vain the hunger and thirst of endless months, in vain the hours during which, gripped by the fear of death, we nevertheless did our duty, and in vain the death of the millions who died thereby. Would not the graves of all the hundreds of thousands open up, the graves of those who once had marched out with faith in the fatherland, never to return? Would they not open up and send the silent heroes, covered with mud and blood, home as spirits of revenge, to the country that had so mockingly cheated them of the highest sacrifice which in the world man is able to bring to his people? . . . Was it for this the German soldier had persevered in burning sun and in snowstorms, suffering hunger, thirst, and cold, tired by sleepless nights and endless marches? . . . Was the Germany of the past worthless? Was there not also an obligation toward our own history? Were we still worthy of applying the fame of the past to us also? How was this deed to be submitted to the future for justification? Wretched and miserable criminals!"

The seagull that perched on Rickenbacker's shoulder in his darkest hour and became food that saved his life recalls the seagull "miracle" that prevented famine among the Mormon pioneers. That incident is commemorated by a monument in the gardens of the great temple at Salt Lake City. Perhaps the seagull is campaigning to replace the eagle as the national bird.

The bill of fare for Mrs. Harry Hopkins' coming out party among the Washington commissars should be referred to the Wine and Food society for analysis. Was it an affair for gourmets or gourmands? Anyway, that sort of overburdened feeding match is supposed to have died out with the annual game dinners at the Grand Pacific hotel in the 1880s.

* * *

What powerful commissar, we wonder, ate the calf's head vinaigrette? That dish, esteemed by a few hardy eaters, has been known to cause fastidious appetites to vanish, if served au naturel. Once in a while American tourists in Europe would observe natives in restaurants picking away at an object that looked like a souvenir of a guillotining. But it was merely a calf's head vinaigrette.

Raoul Josset, Chicago sculptor, when a student in Rome, tried to dine like a Roman. He wanted to give himself a treat at an expensive restaurant, and ordered the item with the longest and proudest description. After a long wait, a sheep's head, just out of the pot, was placed before him. He screamed and fled. He says that it had not been completely shaved.

CHICAGO AIRENADE.

Gay thru the gray afternoons of December,
High over skyscraper, steeple, and street,
A magic that listeners will long remember
Apprises dull earth
Of the Christ Child's birth
With a sweetness by centuries made still more sweet.

Chimed in clear to voices joy-golden,
What solace these singers of Yuletide send!
How the hurrying thousands, alive to Love's olden
Story, are gladdened,
As peace to the maddened
And war-weary heavens these litanies lend!

For these are the carols and hymns that forever
To men of good will have been wine and manna—
The melodies sacred to each heart's endeavor
Whose deeds great and good
Thru sheer herohood
Renew the first pledge of the angels' "Hosannah."

And these, the old songs of the Lord's appointing,
Humanity's happiest heritage,
Each annual Christmas anew anointing
With courage and cheer
The children of fear,
Have power every anguish of life to assuage.

So sing, valiant voices, from rooftop and steeple!
Ring, gallant bells, till the earth and the sea
Sound victory's message to all of God's people,
And every dark land
Arises, to stand

AT THE ADMIRABLE BENBOW.

(The inn made famous by "Treasure Island.")

Christmas came like fog across the moor,
Silent and unexpected in the night;
It seeped its way into the Benbow Bar
And put a halo on each heathen light.
It swept into a room that angels feared
And found Black Dog, and Billy Bones, and Pew
Around a blackened spot; and as they leered,
They saw the bright beatitudes shine thru.

Blind Pew was first to lift his groggin up,
The holy glow had pierced his sightless eyes;
In quiet armistice he turned his cup
Toward murmured music from the tinseled skies.
Black Dog cursed and Bill began to roar,
As Christmas slipped away beneath the door.

HEALING AGENTS IN ULCERATIVE COLITIS.

THE sulfonamides have proved so helpful—even lifesaving, in some instances—that physicians naturally turn to these remedies in many stubborn disorders. For the last two or three years one of the derivatives has been used with marked success in dysentery.

Among our half dozen most vicious maladies, we must include ulcerative colitis. While an acute attack may be thrown off with comparative ease, a chronic state may baffle every effort.

We can well understand how difficult it is to heal the inflamed interior of the bowel. The continuous passing of contents along the intestinal tract may keep up irritation and defeat all the well known measures designed to assist repair. On the other hand, starvation will not do because the resistance of the patient may drop below the recovery level.

Recently one of our most eminent physicians, J. A. Bargen of the Mayo clinic, pointed out that certain cases of ulcerative colitis may yield to the administration of sulfaguanidine in rather large doses. It may be necessary to persist in the use of the dye for several weeks or months, altho rest periods of a week or two are allowed. Upwards of 200 grains may be employed in each 24 hours, the amount depending upon the "starter."

If streptococci are responsible for the lesions, the preparation of choice seems to be succinyl sulfathiazole. This compound is apparently well tolerated and 20 to 25 grains every four hours not infrequently will be followed by striking relief. Toxic effects are rare. Victims who have been accustomed to 10 or 15 bloody stools a day may observe practical freedom from hemorrhages within a few days.

While diverticuli [outpocketings from the bowel wall] seldom make trouble, nevertheless, when they do, the sufferer may be extremely ill. Here again, the guanidine form appears to quiet down the seizures satisfactorily, lessening the danger of abscess formation—with peritonitis in prospect. With acute, severe digestive upsets in children, this chemical remains our strongest ally.

Of course, these drugs as a class cannot be taken by every one. Some will react slightly with headache and nausea. Others, who are more sensitive, will exhibit skin rashes or blood in the urine. Should untoward symptoms result, we can stop the medicine for a few days. All this explains the reason why test doses of the specific drug should be given to every one who needs one of these chemicals.

Routine aids in the management of ulcerative colitis must not be overlooked. Roughage should be eliminated from the diet and the nutrition kept at a high level. Sedatives may be prescribed. In addition, the victim can train himself to keep his emotions under control as the manifestations may be increased in the presence of nervous strain.

SENSIBLE REDUCING.

Mrs. W. writes: I can reduce easily by dieting but I always catch cold. How can this be prevented?

REPLY.

You may be starving yourself too severely. In consequence, reserve—as well as weight—is lost. You can do the job and maintain resistance on a balanced regimen. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for a scientific reducing diet.

DILATING THE PUPILS.

G. H. writes: Why are drops used in testing the eyes during an examination?

REPLY.

The pupil is dilated to permit a clear vision of the retina [the seeing portion]. In addition, the muscles of accommodation are paralyzed temporarily. Errors of refraction are thus detected more accurately.

GOUT.

L. W. E. writes: Is gout the result of albumin in the urine?

REPLY

No. The chief offender is uric acid, which may be deposited [as sodium urate] about joints and beneath the skin. The disorder can be controled by means of a purin-free diet. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for list of such foods.

Test Your Horse Sense By Dr. George W. Crane

COURTESY TO NEW SOLDIERS.

Chicago, Dec. 11.—Yesterday afternoon my eldest son was sworn into service. He was processed thru the first floor recruiting station at 515 South Franklin street. I was present with him when he reported for his physical examination, and also during the greater part of yesterday, and had an excellent opportunity to observe the attitude of the noncommissioned officers and men of the recruiting station. I feel it my duty to say that general conduct of the staff toward these young men was admirable, the spirit of patience and understanding was very marked. Despite the necessary long hours of waiting on the part of the recruits, at no time was there any evidence of what I, as a 1917-1918 veteran, know of so-called "pushing around."

The ceremony of swearing in was conducted in a most serious and deeply impressive manner, and I am sure that those young men who left last evening for camp had a lifelong impression made on their minds.

I have also had the pleasure [as a member of a selective board] of being conducted thru the department charged with processing the selectees, and I then likewise noted the tolerant and pleasant attitude of both officer and enlisted personnel toward each selectee. The pleasant conditions under which my son, 19 years old, has commenced his service to his country will mean much to him and must result in his giving his utmost to a service in which I once had the privilege of enlistment. GEORGE F. HIME.

DAYS THE PUPILS LOST.

Chicago, Dec. 11—During the school year of 200 school days extending from February, 1942, to February, 1943, the elementary pupils will have lost 19 days, or 9½ per cent of the time. Seven of these lost days were given over to draft, sugar, and gasoline registrations. Such a loss in the business world would call for some adjustments.

A plan can be used that will obviate some of the educational loss and that will not endanger the physical well being of the teachers.

Instead of having four 12 hour days as was done in sugar rationing we could have six 8 hour days extending from 3 p. m. to 11 p. m. on school days and from 7 a. m. to 3 p. m. on Saturday. Since the teachers are at the buildings they could take a 4 hour shift from 3 to 7 and volunteer registrars, among whom could be the high school teachers, could take the four hours from 7 to 11. Thousands of men and women would respond. During the past registrations I have had more than enough volunteers at my own school.

TRAILERS.

Chicago, Dec. 7.—Transportation is scarce. Why not convert into buses all those long trailers which were used for transporting new cars? They have a very strong steel chassis and framework and would carry many people to and from their defense jobs. N. V. C.

THE CHICAGO AVENUE LINE.

Chicago, Dec. 9.—I am sure that everybody who has to take a street car on Chicago avenue going west between 7 and 7:15 a. m. feels the way I do about the service on that line. Here are the facts: There seems to be absolutely no system on this line, at least at the morning hour mentioned. This morning I, with a group of people waiting for a westbound car at the corner of Wabash and Chicago avenues, counted five cars going east—all in a line, one after another—and for nearly 15 minutes not a single car going west; and this happens on an average of four days a week, thus leaving an average of two work days a week when the service on this line seems to be normal.

This morning, besides having to wait so long for a car, after it finally came I and all the people in it had to wait again at the corner of State street and Chicago avenue while the lights turned twice, or almost three times—green, red, green, red, green—and the motorman stood on the platform with the door of the car open, visiting and exchanging jokes with a policeman on the street. When a lady complained about this second delay, stating that she had already waited 20 minutes for the car on the street corner, the motorman told her that he "must wait for the light to turn," which is true enough, only the lights had already turned twice and he had not paid any attention to them. As a result I was 10 minutes late in getting to my work. M. V. SANTOS.

HE'D LIKE TO PUT THEM TO WORK.

Chicago, Dec. 7.—Now that a man power commissioner has been appointed perhaps you will print the wail, one of many, of tired harassed roundhouse foremen, which job requires 12 hours even in normal times to keep them ready on the outbound, and no limit in these times. We do not receive overtime, just a salary regardless of the hours. We take that in our stride, but it does gripe us to have supply salesmen and servicemen, who serve no purpose, calling on us in these times of labor shortages, taking up our and mechanics' time, slapping us on the back, handing out a cigar and telling a story [usually better than good]. This all falls flat when the shop is full of work. These supply men once were better than average mechanics or executives, and perhaps have a day's work left in them if McNutt reclassifies them for productive war work instead of endeavoring to maintain "connections" and good will until after the war. RAILROADER.

NO "B" CARD.

Northlake Village, Melrose Park, Ill., Dec. 9.—My husband requested a "B" gas ration card, computing the mileage per month for work alone to be higher than that allowed by the "A" card figured at 15 miles per gallon. This application was signed by his employers, a steel company defense plant. It was refused.

We live in a new settlement where I know we certainly would not have built had we known our car would become useless because of such inadequate transportation to the factory. We know of no one with whom he could share a ride since this is a small new community and it so happens that none of my husband's fellow employés live here, and not only that but he works three different rotating shifts, an additional difficulty.

You figure it out, we can't.

ELLA FINCH.

UNNECESSARY STOP SIGNS.

Berwyn, Ill., Dec. 5.—In the interest of those who are under gasoline rationing regulations, may I suggest that stop signs be eliminated partially in the metropolitan area of Chicago, or at least outside the loop.

These signs were principally installed to decrease excessive speed limits and reduce accidents. With the larger percentage of cars off the streets and fewer cars entering intersections, these unnecessary stop signs can be eliminated. The result would be a great saving in rubber, gasoline, and time.

U. S. TO FINANCE COLLEGE WORK FOR CIVILIANS

Men and Women Students to Be Included.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 21 (AP).—Plans are being made for the government to finance the college schooling of a number of women and civilian men as well as men in the service, Man Power Commissioner Paul V. McNutt told a press conference today.

These would meet the needs of industry, government and the civilian population for an uninterrupted flow of trained scientific and professional personnel from institutions of higher learning, McNutt said, adding that trained women are as important to the country as trained men.

The number that will get an education in this way will depend on how much money congress appropriates, McNutt explained. He declined to say what appropriation the war man power commission would ask.

150,000 to Be Deferred.

These students will supplement the 150,000 that McNutt estimated would be sent to college in uniform to take specified courses preparing them for duties in the military forces.

The men among them, McNutt said, will come largely from the "more than 150,000" students covered by temporary draft deferment authorized recently for those in medical, dental, veterinary, engineering, and other special science studies.

The deferment provided for students with certain credits in those fields will last until the end of the school term in progress on next March 1 and, meanwhile, the program will be perfected and put before congress.

May Chose Own Schools.

McNutt indicated that students in the civilian program would be allowed to choose the colleges they attend at government expense. Military service students will attend colleges with which their services make contracts for instruction.

The colleges to be used in the military educational program are yet to be selected thru joint action by the services and the man power commission.

BISHOP BINZ IS CONSECRATED AT ROCKFORD

Rockford, Ill., Dec. 21 [Special].—The Most Rev. Leo William Binz, 42 year old Rockford priest, was consecrated as coadjutor bishop of Winona, Minn., at ceremonies here today at St. James procathedral. Approximately 50 members of the Catholic heirarchy in the United States and 500 members of the clergy and laity of midwest dioceses attended the rites.

The apostolic delegate to the United States, the Most Rev. Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, served as consecrator. Co-consecrators were the Most Rev. Edward F. Hoban, newly named coadjutor bishop of Cleveland, and the Most Rev. Henry P. Rohlman, bishop of Davenport, Ia. The Most Rev. Samuel A. Stritch, archbishop of Chicago, delivered the sermon.

In blessing the people following his consecration, Bishop Binz invoked his blessing on his widowed mother, Mrs. Flora Binz of Stockton, Ill., who was among the laity at the rites.

Bishop Binz will be installed as coadjustor bishop of Winona at ceremonies Jan. 6 in St. Thomas procathedral in Winona. Former chancellor of the Rockford diocese, Bishop Binz has been secretary the last several years at the papal legation in Washington. He is the first Rockford diocese priest to be elected to the episcopacy.

WOMEN PROTEST PRINCIPAL SHIFT IN NOTE TO KELLY

Club Seeks an Inquiry Before Primary.

The Woman's City club yesterday sent a letter to Mayor Kelly which said he would do Chicagoans a service if he set up a committee to investigate the recent exchange of the Lindblom and Harper High school principals and all its implications.

The club charged that merit was not the motive which prompted the board of education to transfer Butler Laughlin from the principalship of Lindblom to the principalship of Harper and to replace him with Harry F. Yates, Harper principal. Superintendent of Schools William H. Johnson has defended the transfer on the ground that Laughlin does not have the technical background necessary to head the vocational program at Lindblom.

Asks for Postponement.

The club said it would prefer to have the appointment postponed unless the committee could make its report publicly before the mayoral primary election in February.

The letter pointed out that Laughlin is nationally recognized as "one of the ablest educators in the system."

"We believe a study of what is happening to public education in Chicago would prove that Mr. Johnson and Mr. McCahey [James B. McCahey, president of the board of education] are liabilities to our public education as well as to your administration," the letter concluded.

Write McCahey Also.

In another letter, to McCahey, the club protested what it termed "the mixing of politics and education." The statement said similar disappointment in the educational system of the city was expressed by voters who defeated Irwin N. Walker [former member of the board of education] when he ran for congress in the last election.

The letter asked McCahey to rescind the transfer of Laughlin and recommended that in the future all such important changes be given careful consideration by all board members.

The letter was signed by Mrs. John Sharpless Fox, president of the club, and other officers.

HIT-RUN VICTIM FROM STICKNEY DIES OF INJURIES

Vincent Golemdieski, 61 years old, 7810 South Lawler avenue, Stickney, died early yesterday in the Holy Cross hospital of injuries suffered Dec. 16 when he was struck by a hit and run car at 76th street and Cicero avenue.

Daniel Rodriguez, 12 years old, of 1153 Rooosevelt road, was killed yesterday when his sled carried him beneath the wheels of a truck that was backing into a vacant lot at 1145 Roosevelt road. Blonde Edwards, 43 years old, of 4810 Champlain avenue, employé of a garage directly across the street, was driving the truck. He was not held by police.

Willard G. Peil Jr., 24 years old, of 232 West Brown street, West Chicago, a machine shop inspector, was killed yesterday when his car crashed into the side of an Elgin, Joliet and Eastern railroad freight train at the Washington street crossing in West Chicago.

Simon Meilner, 19 years old, of 167 South Cicero avenue, Oak Forest, was killed, and his brother, Donald, 27, and sister, Jeannette, 21, were injured when their car and one driven by Mrs. Leona Brown of Hazelcrest collided Sunday on U. S. highway 54 near Kankakee. Mrs. Brown and Pvt. Kenneth Brown, 32, stationed at Scott field, also were injured.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday, 631 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 480 died in Chicago, where 19,098 were injured during the same period.

OBITUARIES

Mrs. Nellie Sanders Bourke.

Services for Mrs. Nellie Sanders Bourke, daughter of Benjamin Sanders, one of Cook county's first commissioners, will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the chapel at 5203 South Lake Park avenue. Interment will be private. Mrs. Bourke, who died yesterday, was born on an 80 acre homestead that later became the site of Blue Island, Ill., part of the farm forming Central park. Her father was chairman of the building committee after the Chicago fire. She was the widow of the late Oliver W. Bourke, one time mayor of Blue Island, and for many years was prominent in social welfare work on the south side. Mrs. Bourke is survived by one daughter, Edwina Bourke Snell.

Dr. Franz Boas.

New York, Dec. 21 [Special].—Dr. Franz Boas, 84 years old, German born explorer and Columbia university anthropologist, died today. Dr. Boas retired from university work in 1936 but continued active in research. He was chairman of the American Committee for Democracy and Intellectual Freedom, accused of being dominated by Communists. His books were burned by the Nazis in 1933 because they were "un-German or Marxistic works."

Dr. William M. Blanchard.

Greencastle, Ind., Dec. 21 (AP).—Dr. William Martin Blanchard, 68 years old, dean emeritus of the DePauw university college of liberal arts, died today after six weeks' illness. He was a member of the American Academy of Science, American Geographic society, and American Chemical society and was the author of a chemistry textbook and manual of laboratory procedure.

COLLEGE ROLLS SHOW 9½ PCT. SLUMP IN YEAR

Champaign, Ill., Dec. 21 (AP). — A survey of the nation's universities and colleges today showed a 9½ per cent decrease in the number of full time students from that of a year ago.

The report, covering 667 approved institutions having 746,922 full time students, was made by Raymond Walters, president of the University of Cincinnati.

He said enrollment decreases are heavy and nation-wide as a result of the war and reported drops ranging from 4.2 per cent in New England to 16 per cent in the west south central division. The University of California, with 18,364 full time students, ranked highest in the nation. The University of Minnesota was second with 11,859 and the University of Illinois was third with 11,294.

FINAL CHAPTER IN TALE OF A TAG IS ANTI-CLIMAX

"The incident is closed," said Chief Roger Shanahan of the park district police yesterday after hearing Policeman John Crooks explain why he gave a parking ticket Saturday to his superior officer, Sergt. Michael Leahy.

Policeman Crooks found Sergt. Leahy's car—a park police squad car—in what he considered a restricted zone outside Mount Sinai hospital, and he hung a ticket on the door handle.

"Everything is settled," said Shanahan yesterday, "and there is no hard feeling between Crooks and the sergeant."

It was not learned whether Leahy mailed a dollar to the cafeteria court, or if he requested a bench trial in an effort to convince the judge he was not parked illegally.

Harry M. Jordan.

Services for Harry M. Jordan, veteran Chicago newspaper man, who died on Saturday at Edward Hines Memorial hospital after a brief illness, will be held in the family home in St. Louis, Mo., Thursday. The body will be at Sullivan's chapel, 6311 North Clark street, until tonight. Jordan served in various editorial capacities for the Herald and Examiner, the Herald-American, and the Times. Surviving, in addition to his widow, Gladys, are his mother, Mrs. Mary Chartrand, and five brothers, all of St. Louis.

Dr. Frank C. Perl.

Dr. Frank C. Perl, a dentist on Chicago's west side for 40 years, died in his home at 34½ North Waller avenue yesterday. He was born in Decatur, Mason county, and was graduated from the Chicago Dental college in 1902. He was a member of both the American and Chicago Dental associations. Surviving are his widow, Lulu, and a son, Frank C. Jr. Funeral services will be held at 3 p. m. Wednesday from the chapel at 5708 Madison street.

Mrs. Anna Harvey.

Services for Mrs. Anna Harvey, 86 years old, 106 East Lake street, Barrington, who died Sunday, will be held at 2:30 p. m. today in Rosehill cemetery chapel. She was born in Chicago, daughter of Gen. William Goldie, who was quartermaster general of the Army of the Potomac in the Civil war. Mrs. Harvey is survived by a daughter, a son, 12 grandchildren, and six great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Rose L. Milhoan.

Mrs. Rose L. Milhoan, wife of F. B. Milhoan, district manager of the American Rolling Mill company, died yesterday in her home at 1205 Downer place, Aurora. Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow in the chapel at 332 Downer place, Aurora. Mrs. Milhoan is survived by her husband and a daughter.

Mrs. Viola K. Farrell.

Mrs. Viola K. Farrell, president of the Illinois Federation of Womens' Clubs in 1934, died yesterday in her home in the Evanston hotel. She was the widow of the late William F. Farrell, and is survived by one son, Harry K. Farrell. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Lt. Col. John R. Bailey.

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 21 (AP).—Lt. Col. John R. Bailey, 70 years old, officer in charge of inspection of the quality control branch of the Philadelphia quartermaster depot's procurement division, died yesterday of a heart attack in the naval hospital.

SYNOPSIS.

Tessa Devlin, reared by medical missionaires in India, did not learn of her identity until Dr. Shaw, her foster father, died. He left her a diary telling how her own mother died when Tessa was born and how her father, Tom Devlin, a prospector in British Columbia, failed to return for her. Shaw advised Tessa to go to Tom now, who was a rich man in New York. Tessa takes his advice but is unhappy living with her newly found father, her stepmother, Alice, and Uncle Billy Boomer, who lives with the Devlins but is no blood relation. Against their wishes she goes to a New York hospital to complete her nursing course begun in Bombay. There she falls in love with Dr. Bart Carson, son of Phoebe Carson, who runs a fashionable dressmaking establishment with Kate McLaughlin. Uncle Billy has sold Phoebe a cottage near the Devlin home and next door to the home of Mrs. Carol Kimbark, who is trying to marry Jayson Plaice, partner of Tom Devlin. Tessa thinks Bart returns her love but suddenly one day she receives a letter from him saying he is going to work in a Denver hospital and dismisses their romance as a passing fancy. Heartbroken, she gives up nursing and decides to marry Jayson Plaice. Phoebe, who makes most of Alice's clothes, refuses to make Tessa's wedding gown and goes to her own cottage alone. She tries repeatedly to get in touch with Tom Devlin and then Tessa, but Plaice has taken the wedding party on a yachting trip and returns just a few hours before the wedding is scheduled. Tessa puts on her wedding dress and suddenly dashes out of the house and does not show up for the wedding. She is picked up at Mrs. Kimbark's door with a blood stain on her dress. She says she went to Phoebe's cottage and found Phoebe dead with her head bashed in. Police learn that Phoebe bribed the messenger to deliver Tessa's wedding dress to her first and that she sewed a pocket in the sleeve in which she inserted a message. They find part of a note started to Tessa in which she asked Tessa to come to the cottage and brini the "di—." They also find an old note Jayson wrote Phoebe telling her of the death of her husband, Frederick Carson, a prospector in British Columbia. Jayson admits writing the note. Carson, he claims, was prospecting there with himself and Tom Devlin. Plaice says he was with Mrs. Kimbark at the time of Phoebe's murder. But before police can question Mrs. Kimbark she kills herself. Bart arrives the day of the murder. Phoebe had wired him to come. His wire in answer to his mother's was sent to the Devlin home first by mistake. Tessa is awakened by some one in her room. Beatrice, the maid, reports to police that she suspicions Plaice and gives them Tessa's diamond engagement ring she found under a chair. Police think the "di—" in Phoebe's letter means diamond and think Plaice is really Frederick Carson. When they tell him this he denies it but seems upset. They go to question Tom and learn he has gone out to meet Plaice even tho it is a stormy night.

INSTALMENT XXXII.
DESPERATE MAN.

The assurance of a moment before was seeping from Inspector Steelman. It was true what Mrs. Devlin said. Being out on a night like this was dangerous. There were a lot of casualties in that '38 hurricane.

An ugly question flashed thru his mind. If Thomas Devlin were a casualty tonight, would it or would it not be a fortunate thing for Jayson Plaice? He started from his chair and then sank back again, realizing the futility of any impulsive foray into the raging night.

But the ugly question persisted and amplified itself. If Thomas Devlin were a casualty, would it be by accident or design? Hardly by design. Masterson was on the job. Masterson was there in the boathouse at the end of the pier, the nearest spot from which Plaice could have telephoned.

Perhaps that's where Devlin went to meet him. Perhaps they were there now under Masterson's watchful eye. He'd give Masterson a ring.

In the ante-room off the foyer he dialed the number of the boathouse. There was a little silence and then a reassuring click and Masterson's voice.

"Yeah. I'm here. He hasn't stirred."

"You mean Plaice is in the boathouse now?"

"No, no. I mean he hasn't stirred off the yacht. Your boat was the last one that put off from the Falcon. I've just been sitting around . . ."

But Steelman wasn't listening. His mind was racing. There was no telephone connection on the yacht. If Plaice had telephoned Devlin he must have come ashore.

But Masterson had just said no boats had put off from the yacht. Plaice must have known, or at least suspected, that he was being tailed, and that the tail would be watching in the boathouse. He must have slipped over the rail in the darkness and swum a quarter of a mile to a point on the other side of the bay away from the pier!

And he must have been a desperate man, because none but a desperate man would risk the churning, boiling waters on a night like this.

Steelman swore and snapped curt orders to Masterson at the other end of the wire. He slammed the receiver back into its cradle and reached for his clothes, still sodden and heavy. He kicked off slippers, flung the bathrobe into a heap, struggled into clammy trousers and coat.

"Nunn, you stay here. Call headquarters if anything turns up. I'm going after Devlin."

"Going where?"

"I don't know. Maybe one of those little waterfront eating places on the west side of the bay. That's probably where Plaice telephoned from. Mastesson's going to work that end, trying to trace Plaice. I'm going after Devlin. Maybe we'll meet."

He reached for the bell summoning Walter.

"Bring around the smallest, lightest car you have. And quick."

Walter goggled slightly. "But it's very dangerous, sir, a night like this. The chauffeur—"

"I don't want the chauffeur. I'm taking it myself."

"Yes, sir."

But there was a delay. Walter appeared a few minutes later. "Mr. Devlin took the roadster and Mr. Boomer's coupe is laid up for repairs. There's only the big limousine. It's a very large car and on a night like this—"

"Have it brought around front."

"Yes, sir."

Steelman dialed headquarters again, barked additional orders. Yancy to replace Masterson at the boathouse. Billings and Keeley to be on tap, in case either he or Masterson or Nunn called in.

"Anthing else doing?"

"Yeah. This storm's playing havoc. Half the wires are down. The town's a mess of uprooted trees, and the river by the power house is rising fast. We got three dead and there are a lot in the hospitals. Municipal hospital's commandeered all the doctors for miles a—"

The voice snapped off and the lights went out at the same instant.

There was a little scream, a frightened rustling from the drawing room.

"It's all right, Mrs. Devlin," Steelman shouted as he hurried past the drawing room door. "Wires are down. Light candles, if you've got—"

The rest of the sentence was drowned in the howl of the storm as Steelman opened the front door and groped his way toward the big car waiting for him.

Kate McLaughlin sat in the semigloom of guttering candles, and put another log on the open fire. She crushed the newspaper she had been reading and threw it into the blaze, and watched the flames lick the headlines, still crying the black horror that had crashed down upon them two nights ago.

MILLIONAIRE HEIRESS
GRILLED BY POLICE
IN CARSON SLAYING

She watched the pages buckle and curl in the fire. No use having them around when Bart came in.

Bart! The name was like a leaden weight on her desolate heart. If he were only broken and crushed, that she could understand. But it was far more than just that.

He was like a man withdrawn into some inner anguish, imprisoned by an iron shell in its consuming flame. And she, Kate, could only sear and tear her flesh as she battled impotently to get thru to him.

He hardly spoke. All the grim details that are the aftermath of tragedy she had coped with alone. She had made all the arrangements for the simple rites of the cremation two days hence. She had cooked their food and cleaned the house and spared him the poignant pain of packing away those few personal belongings in the little yellow bedroom that he would not enter.

And all the while she had been fighting, groping, trying to find him, to follow him into whatever inferno of grief walled him in. And it had been no use.

She looked at her watch. Ten o'clock. He'd gone out two hours before. She paced the length of the living room, back and forth, struggling with her thoughts while wind lashed rain against the windows and creaked and shivered the stout little cottage.

For the hundredth time she went back over the weeks—no, the months. Months ago it had started. When that funny old fellow had sold them the house. No, not right then. Pheeb had been her usual self then, sweet and steady and quietly gay and filled with eager plans about the cottage.

But just a little later there had come a change almost over night. But what night? Kate's mind paused, trying to dredge up from memory each small detail of the past she was trying to reconstruct.

What had they been doing 10 months ago? What had been happening then? For one thing they'd been working like 60 on those gowns for the French actress, and getting ready their collection for the Quatre Arts, and . . .

The Quatre Arts! About that time, it seemed. And Pheeb had been—queer. Still the same, but strange as if there was something on her mind, some gnawing indecision. But she had been very firm about the cottage—and illogical. She'd made her, Kate, put it up for resale.

And then it must have been about that time that Phoebe had had her first meeting with Tessa Devlin. First and only, as far as Kate knew—if you rubbed out the horror of two nights ago. Tessa Devlin had come to the shop with her stepmother, and Phoebe had started to design clothes for her.

Was it then that some decision seemed to have come to her inner conflict, some stabilizing of purpose? Kate couldn't remember. She only knew that after a while, whatever had been troubling Phoebe had seemed to recede, to sink in and become submerged and overlaid with the daily routine of living. But it hadn't disappeared entirely.

And then Bart had made that sudden decision to take the job in Colorado, and he had gone away, and all the months since then had been heavy and laden. Not with the old gnawing indecision, but rather as if an absence of choice had laid an irrevocable burden on Phoebe's heart.

And upon Bart's too? Again Kate wasn't sure. She had read his letters to his mother. Dutiful letters about his job, the new hospital where he was working, interesting cases. Full of details. But not full of Bart.

Bart wasn't in them. Not the old Bart of gayety and humor and eager challenge to life. But a Bart who seemed to be striving to pile a mountain of work over some ugly, gaping hole where once his spirit had flourished.

Rita Takes Peek at Gifts; Inside of House Burns, Too

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 21. (AP).—Rita McLaughlin, 9 years old, was curious about her Christmas presents. So while her parents were away yesterday she went to the closet where the family gifts were hidden. The closet was so dark that she couldn't see a thing, and she lighted a match. The presents and the interior of the house burned. Rita was not injured.

WORKERS RESIST PLANT REHIRING CULT MEMBERS

Tell Committee They Will Quit Jobs.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 21 (AP).—A member of the Jehovah's Witnesses told the President's fair employment practice committee today he would gladly die for his country altho he would not salute the flag, and Clarksburg, W. Va., glass workers said they'd walk out if forced to work alongside members of the religious sect.

The committee on Nov. 23 ordered seven discharged members of the Jehovah's Witnesses to be reinstated at the Clarksburg plant of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass company, but suspended the order to take additional testimony at the request of plant workers.

Employés of the plant told the committee that one Jehovah's Witness remained seated with his hat on when the national anthem was played after President Roosevelt's speech Dec. 8, 1941. This, they testified, created a disturbance that threatened production and led to dismissal of all seven sect members in the plant before Christmas of 1941.

Proselyting Is Charged.

The other discharged employés, it was testified, had "carried their preaching into the plant," selling literature and "criticizing the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and our religious beliefs."

Leland Hazard, counsel for the company, commented during the daylong hearing that "they [Jehovah's Witnesses] ask tolerance for intolerance."

Spokesmen for the company and the unions involved said the issue—because of its personal nature—transcended the unions' pact with President Roosevelt not to strike during the war. They asserted plant production, 45 per cent of which is for the war, would be stopped if the seven men were reinstated.

Regarded as Unpatriotic.

The seven heard their fellow workers testify that the Jehovah's Witnesses were regarded as "unpatriotic" because they stayed away from a flag raising ceremony at the plant on Dec. 18, 1941. The committee was told that only one sect member, Clyde T. Seders, refused to doff his hat or rise during the playing of the "Star Spangled Banner" on the radio Dec. 8.

Only one of the sect testified. He is Paul G. Schmidt of Clarksburg, who said he could not buy war bonds because he had not worked "since the war."

Schmidt testified he was almost carried away with a surge of patriotism and pride after the President's request for a declaration of war Dec. 8, 1941—a speech which was heard in the plant on a radio set he brought into the factory himself — but he "realized my first duty was to God and to refrain from participating in the affairs of the world."

Induct David S. Klafter as Cook County Architect

David Saul Klafter was inducted by the Cook county board yesterday as county architect. He succeeds Eric E. Hall, who died recently after long service in the post. Klafter, 56 years old, has been an architect in Chicago since 1911. He has served on several city commissions entrusted with civil betterments.

Friend of the Yanks' Kin

BY SALLY JOY BROWN

[This department will answer questions covering problems related to the social welfare of relatives of service men, both in the column and by mail, if stamped, addressed envelopes are sent with inquiries.]

L. M. writes: "A friend of mine, whose fiancé is a private and is now overseas, has received a card from Washington stating that she is eligible for an allowance as a class 'A' dependent. She wonders what should be done about it, since she does not want to have her fiancé reprimanded."

ANSWER: It would be advisable for your friend to write to the department from which she received the notice stating that there has been an error. Class "A" dependents are either wives or children, and persons who accept family allowances under false pretenses are subject to fine or imprisonment, or both. The dependent, if she has been classed as a wife, will be expected to produce proof of marriage, and if she falsifies evidence to that effect, she will be liable to a fine of not more than $5,000 or imprisonment, or both. Whether the man's statement was made deliberately or by mistake, your friend should rectify this matter as soon as possible.

Mrs. P. M. writes: "In August I had a letter from my son, who is now in a foreign country, stating that he had purchased a bond and that the money was being deducted from his pay. He asked that we watch for the bonds and keep them for him. However, up to this date, we have never received any of the bonds, and I am anxious to know to whom we should write for further information."

ANSWER: Your letter is similar to many which we have received and the chief of finance of the war department has explained that there need be no cause for concern regarding the delivery of paid for bonds. The delay is due to the fact that more than 3,000,000 individual deductions are now being made on war department pay rolls each month and every care is being taken to safeguard the participants in the pay reservations plan. There are many steps to be taken in processing accounts coming from all parts of the world, and while they are necessary in order to eliminate the possibility of error, they require the expenditure of time and effort. From many stations, a considerable period of time must elapse before a pay roll reaches Washington for administrative examination. Efforts are being made to hasten delivery, but inasmuch as bonds are dated the first day of the month in which the payment completing purchase of the bond is made, no interest is lost by delay in delivery.

Mrs. L. D. writes: "I have discovered my husband is a bigamist. At the time he filled out his questionnaire, I learned that he has three living wives. I have also learned that there are four children involved. I have been living with him in what I thought was legal marriage for the last three years. Can you tell me which one of the wives is entitled to the family allowance?"

ANSWER: Only legal wives are eligible for the family allowance under the service men's dependents bill. If your husband's first marriage was legal, and he has never been divorced, it would seem to me that the other two marriages were illegal and not binding. However, without knowing more of the facts of the case, it is difficult to advise you, and I would suggest that you seek legal assistance from the Soldiers' and Sailors' Legal aid, 120 South Dearborn street. That agency can advise you.

JUDGE MATCHETT, ASSAULT VICTIM, RETURNS TO WORK

Judge David F. Matchett of the Appellate court returned to the bench yesterday after an almost continuous absence since last June when he was assaulted by hoodlums near his home at 6133 Ellis avenue. He is 75 years old. Judge Matchett said he was "feeling fine, altho a little weak." Since the assault he was injured in an automobile accident and suffered an illness that forced him to spend some time in Presbyterian hospital.

SMALLPOX CASES HELD TO RECORD LOW DURING YEAR

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 21 (AP).—Approximately 60 cases of smallpox have been reported in Illinois in 1942, about 40 fewer than in 1941 and a record low for the state.

No significant drop in the number of diphtheria cases from the 1941 total of 940 is expected, Dr. Roland R. Cross, director of the state health department, said, altho prevalence of the disease downstate has been reduced substantially.

Dr. Cross said he found small comfort in the smallpox record and that it suggests many persons who have not been vaccinated recently may fall prey to the smallpox virus.

MORE THAN 11,000 INDIANS ENTER MILITARY UNITS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 21 (AP).—More than 11,000 of the nation's 400,000 Indians have entered the military units, the interior department's Indian service reported today.

Even greater numbers have left the reservations for war work and the result has been a shortage of man power on the reservation, Commissioner John Collier said.

He said Indian women have learned to drive tractors and trucks, repair heavy automotive equipment, work in laundries and power plants, and assist in the cattle and sheep round-ups.

WLB PREPARES TO MEDIATE IN 'L' PAY DISPUTE

Will Decide on Panel or Individual.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 21.—The "new case" committee of the national war labor board will meet tomorrow to decide whether to send a mediator or a panel of mediators to Chicago to hear the dispute between elevated lines employés and the Chicago Rapid Transit company, a spokesman said tonight.

The mediator, or the panel, will have a complete report from the three man department of labor conciliation service panel, which attempted to settle the dispute last week, and will "pick up" where the conciliation service panel left off.

Will Report to WLB.

The WLB panel will compile a complete history of the case, the spokesman for the board reported. After it has heard all arguments of both the Rapid Transit company and the union representatives, it will make its report along with certain recommendations to the board in Washington. In the past WLB usually has followed rather closely the recommendations of its panels.

Since the primary demand of the elevated employés is higher wages, the WLB spokesman said the panel or mediator probably would match the wages elevated railroad men are now receiving against wages received by persons doing similar jobs in the Chicago area.

In the past the panels usually have been instructed to apply the "little steel" formula, which provides for a 15 per cent increase in wages over Jan. 1, 1941 levels to meet the rise in the cost of living, to disputes over wage increases. This is not mandatory, however.

WLB's decision on a mediator or a mediation panel will be telegraphed to the parties to the dispute.

UNION PRESIDENT CALLED.

William F. Levander, president of division 308 of the Elevated Employés union, said yesterday he has been summoned to meet today with Dr. Robert K. Burns, regional director of the war labor board, apparently to lay the groundwork for a mediator or panel of mediators which will probably be sent to Chicago to hear the wage dispute between the employés and the Chicago Rapid Transit company.

Levander said that it will be necessary for him to have some definite word of the war labor board's intentions to take back to his membership before a meeting on Dec. 29, in order to prevent a walkout.

Hungarians Told They'll Fight in Western Europe

Christmas Spirit

Lois Wallner, soprano, featured on the Northerns' concert every Tuesday evening at 9:30 o'clock over W-G-N, is getting her Christmas tree ready for holiday celebration.

TRIBUNE CAROLS AND TREE USHER IN YULE GLORY

Daily Programs Will Go On Till Christmas.

The glad songs of Christmas swept along Michigan avenue and the lake front at twilight yesterday as the 48 foot TRIBUNE Christmas tree in Nathan Hale court burst into lighted bloom and the first of a series of carol programs poured from amplifiers on Tribune Tower.

As the 40 girl members of the St. Mary's High School Glee club sent the clarion call of "Adeste Fideles" soaring high into frosty skies, the wide bands of red, white, and blue lights on the tree were lit. Floodlights illumined the American flag on top of Tribune Tower and THE TRIBUNE service flag in front of the tower.

Spectator Marvels at Sight.

A tiny old lady, hovering in one of the doorways off Nathan Hale court, marveled at the tree: "The branches ripple just like the flag 'way up there."

The glee club, trained by Sister M. Matilda, B. V. M., and directed by Edwin Kemp of the Chicago Conservatory, caroled a half hour program of the traditional Christmas songs of many lands. There were lyric tales of the shaggy ponies of the Russian steppes, the gay swing of the starched skirts worn by Swedish Christmas dancers, and of Christmas in Poland, France, Bohemia, Austria, and Mexico, as well as the traditional tunes sung the world over.

Daily Program Until Christmas.

Len Salvo, organist, and Harold Turner, pianist, joined in the rollicking presentation of "Jingle Bells" that opened and closed the program.

Similar programs will be presented at 5:30 p. m. each evening until Christmas. For the 11th consecutive season, they are being broadcast by W-G-N and they are being carried by W-G-N's frequency modulation station, W59C, for the second consecutive year.

Because of the use of small bulbs on the tree, total cost of lighting is only 30 cents a night.

CHOIR TO OFFER CAROL PROGRAM ON W-G-N TODAY

The Edgewater Evangelical Mission Covenant church choir, under the direction of Bert Carlson, will present a half hour of Christmas carols on W-G-N, W59C, and the Mutual network from 5:30 to 6 p. m. today.

Soloists on the program will be Miss Eileen Bowman and Miss Alice Williams, sopranos, and Harry Clausen, tenor. Len Salvo at the organ and Harold Turner, pianist, will provide musical accompaniment. The complete program:

Theme: Jingle Bells.
1. [a] When the Sun Had Sunk to Rest .... Knight
[b] Now Is the Time.......Lambenstein
[c] As Lately We Watched.........Black
Miss Alice Williams, soprano.
[d] Lullaby on Christmas Eve...... .... Christiansen
Miss Eileen Bowman, soprano.
Edgewater Evangelical Mission Covenant church choir.
[e] Panis Angelicus ....Franck
Len Salvo, organ.
2. [a] Carol of the Bells.........Leontovich
[b] Shepherd's Christmas Song..Reimann
Harry Clausen, tenor.
[c] The Shepherds' Story.......Dickinson
Male Octet.
[d] Lo, How a Rose Ere Blooming .... Praetorius
Male Octet.
[e] Ave Maria ....Schubert
Len Salvo, organ.

This year, as in the past, the Christmas carols are being heard by shoppers and homeward bound workers thru amplifiers erected around the W-G-N studios and Tribune Tower.

BLIND RADIO TEACHER OPENS WORK FOR ARMY

Byron H. Webb, 23 years old, 3333 Cullom avenue, yesterday taught his first classes as a blind radio instructor at the American Television Laboratories, Inc., 433 East Erie street. Because of his sightlessness and his knowledge of radio, Webb is said to be uniquely qualified to teach the army signal corps' soldier students who are trained at the laboratories to service radio sets in complete darkness.

A licensed amateur wireless operator, Webb applied at the school for a job as code instructor last week after being graduated from De Paul university, where he was an honor student. School officials decided Webb would be more valuable in showing the soldiers how to repair radios when you can't see them, a frequent problem in the battle zone.

Woman Appointed to Head New Federal Grand Jury

Mrs. Elizabeth Baker, 145 Ravine Forest drive, Lake Bluff, was appointed forewoman of the December federal grand jury yesterday by Judge John P. Barnes. She is the wife of Russell Baker, a lawyer. The new jury is made up of 13 men and 10 women. In his instructions, Judge Barnes said that the jurors' duties are more important than ever because of the war.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Theresa Hay, 4838 North Oakley avenue.]

THE QUESTION.

What is the most unusual telephone call you have ever received?

WHERE ASKED:

Michigan avenue and Washington street.

THE ANSWERS:

Therese Schweihs, student, 3020 Normal avenue—When I lifted the receiver the other party said, "Did they give George the electric chair?" My father's name is George. When I told the caller I didn't understand him he told me he was trying to call the county jail.

Marvin De Koven, student, 900 Argyle street—I was quite surprised to get a call from a girl I didn't even know. After she told me her name she asked me if I'd like to take her to a night club the next week. The procedure was quite unusual in my life, but I accepted and had a good time.

Lucille Newman, student, 6761 North Sheridan road—One of the least expected calls I ever received was after I lost my purse. There was no form of identification in it, but a stranger called and said he had found the purse and in it an absence excuse signed only with my father's last name.

Ann Smith, student, 7729 Jeffery avenue—Three different nights in succession a boy from school called me. As soon as I'd answer he'd start singing some appropriate conversational song. On the third night he stopped to introduce himself over the phone. After that he didn't sound quite so mysterious.

Aline Genesen, secretary, 1112 East 45th street—A young man called and said it was so nice to talk to me again. He told me many things that I realized weren't meant for me. My cousin didn't like it so much when she learned he had mistaken my voice for hers.

Helen Collins, typist, 5926 Nickerson avenue—It was the first of April and I answered the phone in the middle of the night. The man said the city water works wanted me to check all the faucets in the house. I did and belatedly recognized my uncle's voice.

Employes of The Tribune Share 27th Yule Bonus

All employés of The Tribune company received Christmas bonuses yesterday. The amount given each was determined on a percentage rate based upon individual years of service. The distribution was made to members of the editorial, advertising, circulation, and auditing departments, the organized trades, building staff, the W-G-N staff, and workers at the Ontario Paper company. Approximately 3,200 persons shared in the bonus, which was the 27th paid by THE TRIBUNE.

INVITE PARENTS OF MEN ABROAD TO W-G-N SHOW

Marion Claire Will Sing Christmas Night.

Parents of army and navy men serving overseas are to make up the audience of the special program to be presented from W-G-N's main studio from 9 to 10 p. m. Christmas night, next Friday. Requests for tickets may be telephoned to W-G-N, Superior 0100, station executives announced yesterday, or eligible mothers and fathers may address letters to the W-G-N ticket department, 441 North Michigan avenue. Requests will be honored in the order received. Approximately 600 parents can be accommodated.

Marion Claire and Attilio Baggiore will sing Christmas carols and the W-G-N Symphony orchestra will present original music by Kenneth Churchill. Gov. Dwight Green, speaking from Springfield, will give his Christmas message. A drama of Christmas night in London, written by Fran Coughlin, will be presented.

Leading representatives of religious faiths will give brief messages. Those to be heard are: Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf, resident bishop of the Methodist area; Bishop Bernard J. Sheil, senior auxiliary bishop of the Chicago archdiocese, and Dr. Charles L. Shulman, president of the Chicago Rabbinical association.

A highlight of Command Performance, the request program shortwaved to soldiers and sailors abroad, which is to be broadcast over American networks for the first time Christmas eve, will be a verbal duel to end all such duels between Jack Benny and Fred Allen. W-G-N-Mutual and the three other major chains will carry this all-star program from 10 to 11 p. m.

The big show also will have Bob Hope, Bing Crosby, Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy, Red Skelton, Kay Kyser, Ginny Simms, Dorothy Lamour, Cary Grant, and numerous others.

ACT TO PERMIT WOMEN AT BARS THRUOUT COUNTY

The Cook county board yesterday acted to amend the county's liquor ordinance to permit women to sit at bars if they are escorted by men. The city council previously had completed a similar action.

The resolution, introduced by Commissioner William Busse, applied to all unincorporated areas in the county. The commissioners promised the amendment would be published in time to allow women to sit at bars by Christmas eve.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

Caryl Casselberry Is Betrothed to Lt. Erskine Phelps Wilder

BY JUDITH CASS.

THAT Christmas is a romantic time is without doubt, for news of a romantic nature is of special interest today. Mr. and Mrs. Edgerton A. Throckmorten of Dundee are announcing the engagement of Mrs. Throckmorton's daughter, Miss Caryl Casselberry, to Lt. Erskine Phelps Wilder Jr. of the army air corps, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilder of Winnetka.

The wedding is expected to take place in January, and it is hoped that "Sandy" Wilder, as the bridegroom-to-be always is called, will be able to come from Walla Walla, Wash., so that the ceremony may be held here. Miss Casselberry, whose father is William E. Casselberry Jr. of Bent Creek ranch, Asheville, N. C., returned last week from Washington, D. C., where she has had a job for two months. Returning with her was her younger sister, Hope, who attends the Greenwood school, from which Caryl was graduated. She was introduced to society at a tea last summer at home given by Mrs. Trockmorton and her mother, Mrs. Richardson Dunham, and during the Christmas holidays Miss Casselberry's grandfather, Robert J. Dunham, gave a tea-dance at the Casino for his oldest granddaughter.

Lt. Wilder is a graduate of the New Trier High school and attended Cornell. He enlisted in the army two years ago.

Announce Engagement of Janet Richardson.

The Hadwin Houghton Richardsons and the Ralph E. Churches of Evanston have several additional reasons for celebrating the Christmas holidays this year. At a luncheon yesterday for Debutantes Madeleine Sheridan and Barbara Corning, the Richardsons announced the engagement of their only child, Janet, to Ensign Ralph E. Church Jr. Last night Mr. and Mrs. Richardson gave a family dinner and theater party to celebrate the senior Churches' 24th wedding anniversary.

Ensign Church arrived on Sunday to spend the holidays from the postgraduate school at Annapolis, Md. After his graduation last June from the engineering school at Princeton university, he was stationed temporarily with the navy in Boston. His fiancée, a graduate of the Roycemore school, is a fine arts student at the Art institute. The Church family will have a complete reunion this Christmas, as their younger son, William, will be at home from Princeton. His sister, Marjory, is a student at Roycemore. Mr. Church is congressman elect for the 10th district.

Harriet Dexter Case's Marriage Is Revealed.

Surprising news is contained in the announcement from Mr. and Mrs. Gaylord Case of Wilmette of the marriage last Saturday of their daughter, Harriet Dexter, to Merritt Paul Starr, son of Maj. and Mrs. Paul Starr, U. S. A. The ceremony took place in the evening in the Case home with the families and a few close friends present.

Maj. and Mrs. Starr, who now are living in San Antonio, Tex., where he is head of the medical division at Kelly field, returned north for the ceremony. They are former Winnetkans. The bride is president of the senior class at Bryn Mawr college, to which she will return after a southern wedding trip. Her only attendant was Miss Sally Matteson of Cambridge, Mass., who is president of the undergraduate association at Bryn Mawr.

John Rankin of Virginia, a naval aircraft pilot, was best man for Mr. Starr. The bridegroom will return to Northwestern university's medical school when he and his bride come back from the south.

Ensign and Mrs. Scott Parents of a Daughter.

The Frederick H. Scotts became grandparents again on Dec. 18 when a daughter, Gwendolen, was born at the Medical center in New York to Ensign and Mrs. Edward H. Scott. The baby, who has a little brother, Teddy, was named for her maternal grandmother, Mrs. John M. Hanford of New York. Ensign Scott hasn't yet seen his daughter. He is stationed at Norfolk.

Lt. Stuyvesant Peabody Jr. will be leaving tomorrow after a short visit with his wife and two little daughters, 2 year old Nina and baby Anita. He came from Camp Hulen, Tex., to greet his newest child, born on Saturday in the Wesley Memorial hospital and named for her Grandmother Peabody. Young Mrs. Peabody is the former Virginia Preston, daughter of the Howard P. Prestons.

Mr. and Mrs. Igor de Lissovoy [Lillian Logan Sellers] announce the birth of a son, Peter Igor, on Dec. 17. The baby is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Sandford Sellers.

Party Whirl Continues for Teen Age Group.

The Christmas whirl of parties for the teen age group continues today with the annual Saddle and Cycle party, a dinner-dance. Because of gasoline rationing, the party is being held at the Woman's Athletic club instead of at the Saddle. Mrs. Herbert Stuart Stone is chairman of the party, with Mrs. Stuart Templeton, Mrs. Dexter Cummings, Mrs. Darrow Fulton, Mrs. Thomas I. Underwood, Mrs. Walter P. Paepcke, and Mrs. Henry Bartholomay serving on the committee.

The Christmas party for sophomores along the north shore, called the Sophomore assembly, will be held tonight at the Indian Hill club. Mr. and Mrs. Guy Kiddoo and Mr. and Mrs. Percy Greene will act as hosts.

Lt. Comm. and Mrs. John H. Grace Jr. gave a tea yesterday in Washington, D. C., for their daughter, Katherine, a Smith student, who will be coming to Chicago next month for a visit with Mrs. Matthew Becker. While she is here her grandmother, the senior Mrs. Grace, will entertain at luncheon on Jan. 9 and Mrs. Becker will have one on the 29th. Mrs. James S. Knowlson was among those assisting at the tea yesterday. The Graces formerly lived in Chicago.

Sample-Law Wedding Taking Place Tonight.

For her marriage tonight to Joseph Sample, Miss Patricia Law will wear an exquisite rose-pointe wedding veil which was part of the bridal ensemble of his mother, Mrs. John Glenn Sample, and Mrs. Sample's mother. The elder daughter of the junior Robert O. Laws and young Mr. Sample will be married at 8:30 o'clock in the Kenilworth home of Mrs. Law Sr. Miss Law's other grandmother, Mrs. David M. Oberman; her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore R. Oberman, and her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Hobbs, are here from Jefferson City, Mo., for the wedding. Other visitors from out of town are Mrs. Sample's brother, Robert Scanlon of San Francisco, Cal., and Jack Ordway. Mr. Sample and his bride will spend two weeks in Florida before returning to New Haven, Conn., where he will finish his classes at Yale university.

The debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Hoskins, Yvonne, literally will be banked with orchids when she makes her debut at a tea-dance on Thursday at the Racquet club. Some Colombian friends of Mr. and Mrs. Hoskins, the Julio Guerlains, are sending three dozen orchids in as many different shades by air mail from their home, and Miss Hoskins, her mother, and subdebutante sister, Jamee, will receive before this orchid screen.

The junior auxiliary of the Children's Memorial hospital will make the rounds this morning decorating Christmas trees in the hospital's corridors. Mrs. Anthony Ryerson, chairman of the auxiliary, is directing the trimming, with the aid of Mrs. Roy L. Flannery, Miss Mary Seymour Adams, and other members. On Christmas eve Santa Claus will distribute the Christmas stockings which the auxiliary has filled with small toys and games.

Urges Women in Home Join in Nursing Aid

Women in the home have been laggard in shouldering the wartime responsibility to the community in the nursing field, Mrs. Arthur H. Spiegel, chairman of the Volunteer Nurses' Aid corps of the Chicago Red Cross chapter, said yesterday in a talk before the service chairmen and district and club presidents from the northern region of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs.

The meeting, at federation headquarters here, was called by Mrs. William T. Bruckner, general federation director and war service department chairman of the state federation. Its purpose was to organize a campaign in Illinois clubs to recruit student nurses, to raise money for nursing scholarships, to urge retired registered nurses to return to service as instructors, and to enroll women in nurses' aid training and Red Cross home nursing courses.

With far less time at their disposal, employed women have enrolled in the ratio of two or three to one housewife for the Red Cross Volunteer Nurses' Aid corps, taking their training at night classes and serving in hospitals after their regular working hours and on their free days, Mrs. Spiegel told the gathering.

"The woman sincere in her desire to do her part in the national emergency can find no more important job than that of the nurse's aid," Mrs. Speigel asserted. "The volunteer nurses' aids are a disciplined corps; their training is exacting, requiring 85 hours of intensive preparatory training, first in the classroom, later in the hospital ward.

"The need is urgent. We must recognize as ours this responsibility of caring for the civilian sick."

It is the woman having free daytime hours who is most wanted in the corps, Mrs. Spiegel emphasized. The employed woman, she said, is usually available for hospital service only at night after her regular working hours, but it is during the day, when the work in the hospital is heaviest, that aids are most needed. The service is open to women from 18 to 50 years old, and older women will be accepted if they can obtain certificates from their physicians stating they are physically able to do the work.

The volunteer nurses' aid corps serving in metropolitan Chicago now numbers 1,170, and there are some 500 women in training.

It was decided at the meeting to place the nursing service campaign in the clubs under the direction of Dr. Adelaide Doolittle Hoeffel, chairman of the Illinois federation's public health and child hygiene department. Mrs. Bruckner said that the recruiting of student nurses would be turned over to the junior club women as their special war service project.

Women in War Work

By Kate Massee

Women workers at the Red Cross' surgical dressing center in the Potter Palmer mansion, 1350 Lake Shore drive, thought they might reflect the holiday spirit by erecting a tiny table Christmas tree, with cellophane wrapped surgical dressings on it. The idea was proposed and augmented, and now a 15 foot tree stands in the center of the home, a symbol of all nations. The 20 nationality groups who meet regularly at the center to make dressings for allied armies the world over contributed decorations native to their countries at Christmas time.

Thus, a Chinese dragon crawls thru the branches. Sweden's peasants, in paper miniature, reflect that country's holiday period. Norway's flag and colorful paper chains are conspicuous. Russia is represented by a doll. Hungarian candy chains have been strung thru the pine fronds. Workers of Irish ancestry have hung green garbed dolls. The French flag, a French peasant, and the French symbol of friendship represents the workers from France. Switzerland, where the Red Cross originated, is depicted by the nation's symbol, a bear, and the Red Cross flag. The United States is represented by strings of cranberries and popcorn and candy canes.

Service stars glisten on the tree, too, in tribute to workers' relatives in the service. Workers at the center, headed by Mrs. Joseph Driscoll, have made more than 1,000,000 surgical dressings since last August, when the center was opened.

Fifteen members of the Women's Advertising club will spend Christmas morning cooking pancakes and sausages for service men, instead of staying home, as most women will be doing. They'll be on hand at 9 o'clock at the U. S. O. center at 131 South Wabash avenue, and will not only serve piping hot breakfasts until noon but will provide gifts for the 200 guests expected. Miss Gay Evans is chairman of the breakfast committee, and Miss Karen Fladoes is president of the club.

Coast guardsmen, members of the Chicago harbor detail, turned the tables on Mrs. Edward J. Kelly and her aids at the service men's center yesterday. For the last several months, the men have been regular guests at the centers, where Mrs. Kelly is one of the chief workers. Yesterday she and a few of her aids were luncheon guests of the 250 coast guardsmen at their new barracks, 90 Streator drive, off Navy pier. Chief Commissary Steward Roy Hutchinson was in charge of the luncheon.

Twenty-two young women from Chicago and surrounding towns left last night for Smith college at Northampton, Mass., where they will enroll as officer candidates in the WAVES. Upon completion of a three month training period they will be eligible for commissions and ordered to stations within the continental United States.

War has created new opportunities for women, and many of them are in the merchandising industry. A just completed survey of job opportunities in this field shows that there are 244 various types of jobs available. The survey, an 83 page report, is being published for distribution in all Illinois schools, colleges, and universities, according to Mrs. Anne V. Zinser, chairman of the women's executive committee of the Illinois office of public instruction.

The merchandising committee which assembled the information consisted of employment and personnel directors from various department stores. The report lists the educational qualifications for each position and a description of each job. The most frequently demanded requirement is a high school education or its equivalent. A second requisite is good health, since many of the jobs entail walking, standing, handling merchandise, and regular attendance. Altho any girl with ambition and ability can achieve top positions, the industry prefers college graduates, the report says.

The merchandising survey is the seventh in a series of 26 which will cover all women's jobs in various fields. It will be available to schools shortly according to Dr. John A. Wieland, superintendent of the Illinois office of public instruction.

Woman's Orchestra Group to Present 'Toy Symphony'

Entering into the spirit of Christmas, 20 members of the Woman's Symphony orchestra of Chicago will set aside their full size trumpets, fiddles, and flutes to play Haydn's "Toy Symphony" on toy instruments for their colleagues of the Organized Women Musicians this evening at 175 West Washington street. Caroline Solfronk will be the conductor. On the program also will be a brass choir playing Christmas carols, with Lillian Poenisch directing.

Alumni of Beta Theta Pi to Entertain at Luncheon

Active fraternity members home for the holidays will be guests of the alumni of Beta Theta Pi in the Chicago area at a traditional undergraduate luncheon tomorrow noon in the Palmer House clubroom. William M. Springer of Evanston will play Santa Claus and distribute prize packages, and C. H. Warsington of Winnetka will be toastmaster. Francis P. Linneman is president of the alumni chapter.

Colleges Plan Credit Grants to Service Men

Iowa City, Ia., Dec. 21 [Special].—A plan for granting proportionate college credit for educational achievements by men and women in military service was announced today by President Virgil M. Hancher of the University of Iowa, acting spokesman for eight midwest institutions which have adopted the program.

The action has been taken by the University of Iowa, University of Chicago, University of Illinois, Indiana university, University of Minnesota, Iowa State college, Michigan State college, and Ohio State university.

Other schools in the midwest are preparing to adopt the program, President Hancher said.

Under the plan, persons who have studied such subjects as mathematics, physics, meteorology, etc., while in the army or navy will be given special examinations if they desire academic credits for the work.

Upon successful completion of these tests, a transcript of credits will be sent to any college on request, much the same as credit transcripts are transferred from one school to another.

A limited amount of directly applicable, credit, approximately half a semester, will be granted for the 13 weeks of training in physical education, military training, and hygiene, President Hancher said.

"Experimentation in procedure consistent with this policy is now in progress," he asserted. "Government agencies are developing technical means of supplying the basic information and service records which the colleges will need to make the plan effective."

Unusual Gifts Still to Be Had in Profusion

Christmas lists are getting shop worn now but not so the array of yuletide articles on display in Chicago stores to help shoppers with their last minute purchases. There are still plenty of unusual gifts that look as if a great deal of time and thought had been put into their selection.

Jewelry, which is very fashionable this season, is one of the most sparkling gift suggestions. One stunning clip, whose sharp prongs convert it into a pin when desired, is a gilded, sterling silver heart framed in synthetic amethysts or emeralds. Very smart these days to wear on your sleeve just above the cuff. Another beautiful pin is a handmade sterling silver plume with a graceful, curved tip, fashioned by one of Chicago's own silversmiths. Earrings of all kinds run the gantlet from sweetness to sophistication. Sterling silver sets in floral designs, Indian rain drops or bright, flashing arrows are most attractive.

Some one will have an exciting time unwrapping a handsome, gold rimmed electric clock set in a glass frame, about 4 inches square, or a time secretary which consists of a memo pad with a clock embedded in the leather cover. Leather cigaret servers will look well under the Christmas tree and on that big butter and egg man's desk.

Music also will soothe your worries over the tag end Christmas shopping. Good gift ideas are record albums. Two of the newest published for the holiday season are Beethoven's "Fourth Piano Concerto," played by Artur Schnabel with the Chicago Symphony orchestra directed by the late Frederick Stock, and Franz Schubert's "Trio No. 1 in B Flat Major," performed by Artur Rubinstein, Jascha Heifetz and the late Emanuel Feuermann.

Decorative for a lady's boudoir are whimsical, china roosters with roses for feathers or a large, glass picture frame for that service man's picture. One frame is 10 by 10 inches with beveled edges. Another has a rounded rim of green, gold and blue marble glass. An overnight bag of airplane luggage fitted with sundry toilet articles would make an outstanding gift for any young woman.

For that very young little miss there is a charming, muff doll to carry when especially dressed up. The doll's wide, plush skirt is the snug little muff.

For boys, games are good ideas. One fascinating game for the age level of a youngster, any where from 7 to 70, is a pinball game with a battle ground board for added interest. Shooting galleries with darts for bullets are fun for a young boy.

Shopping should not be a problem, altho it is late, with so many ingenious items from which to choose. It should be done immediately, however, and not wait until "'tis the night before Christmas."

Blind Service Aids to Give Christmas Party This Evening

The Blind Service association will entertain some 800 guests, the blind and their families, at its annual Christmas party this evening in the fifth floor auditorium of the Medical and Dental Arts building, 185 North Wabash avenue.

Mothers of families will receive bags of groceries and there will be personal gifts for the men and toys, candy, and nuts for the children. Professional musicians will sing and play for the guests, and the association's volunteers will serve refreshments.

Heading the committee for the party is Mrs. Nathan Goldblatt, vice president of the organization, with Miss Henrietta Goldman, scholarship chairman, assisting. Mrs. Godfried Bernstein, who started the service for the blind 18 years ago in her home, continues as the president. Ninety-eight per cent of the association's work is done by trained volunteers.

What Sort of Christmas.

A week or so ago we passed on to the discriminating public a few sample plots drummed up by the office of war information for the use of writers of true confession, love, and adventure stories. The response was remarkable. From all sides have come cries of "More! More!," hungry, eager cries which we have not the heart to ignore. So being today tinged with the charitable and share-your-best spirit of Christmas, we are offering a few more suggestions from the OWI magazine division.

The OWI has thought up many rare and exotic settings for these stories. One which it suggests is Washington, footnoting the idea with a 5,000 word treatise on the delights of housing, food, recreation, crime, and immorality in that city. The suggested treatment for Washington is ". . . the inspiring viewpoint that here are gathered boys and girls from the four corners of the earth . . . [with] the chance to ride in the same elevator with, to meet in the corridors, the outstanding personalities of our times."

If this goes into your personal hmmmmmmmmm department, and you'd really prefer to read about the emanation from Washington of something other than romance, the OWI reminds us that there is always an opportunity for adventure in the OCD. We quote:

"Poor gal in love with rich young officer is terrified of his dowager mother whom she has never met. Officer in camp, girl tries to forget him, throws herself into work, finds herself working side by side with mother. Opportunity here to describe work and its value. Mother, willing but unused to work, finds it difficult to adjust, is helped by girl and the two become fond of each other, still ignorant of each other's identity. Letters arrive in same mail to both, officer is ordered overseas. Girl, thinking self alone, permits self to break down. Mother walks in on her, sees letter, says nothing but helps girl to brace up. Officer, who has wangled short leave to say good-by, walks in on them. Clinch!"

"Girl . . . permits self to break down?" Is that conduct becoming to a heroine of 1942?

Now we come to a topic which the OWI calls "Transportation, Everybody's Problem." It seems incredible that the OWI should feel the public at this stage of the game must be told what a problem transportation is, but the OWI goes beyond that and advances the ultimatum that it must be made adventurous and romantic as well, saying ". . . car sharing, with its new intimacy, furnishes intricate possibilities for plot . . ."

"Only in emergency will your heroes speed from now on," the OWI says confidently. "And when they do, there will be some reference to what it is doing to their rubber." We like that. We love it. So, obviously, does the OWI, for it suggests a plot to go with it:

"The young man down the block, hitherto ignorant of our heroine's existence, will now drive her or be driven by her, and the meeting thus brought about by patriotism may well lead to romance. Or, shall we say, the girl ignores the restrictions imposed by the new régime and her apparent selfishness repels an inarticulate lover. Some dramatic crisis awakens her to her error, and the course of true love runs smoothly again—on a share-your-car basis."

But not, for the time being, in those 17 eastern states which have no gasoline.

But the plot we really cherish, and the one that makes today's treatise timely, begins: "What sort of Christmas this year?"

"It's still time to make December issues," the OWI continues persuasively. "How about stories of Christmas eve? The lonely girl, the lonely soldier, stir well and pour."

Sorry, pals. We wrote that one last year.

Open letter to that man with the beard. "Dear Santa. Please keep them pulp magazines out of my stocking this year. Out of my hair, too."

Good Morning!

And now we find 'em counterfeiting war savings stamps!

This mildly interesting opus handles the affairs of one P. Cadwallader Jones, a public prosecutor in love with a newspaper woman.

In the fashion which is becoming so popular in our movies, Terry insists on mixing in on P. C.'s cases—and so we find the pair loving and battling their way thru a maze of bewildering incident to the solution of the mystery concerned with the murder of one Paul Panois, a French émigré etcher whose body falls out of a trunk at an auction sale.

The deceased's pretty daughter, just arrived from France, is present to complicate matters. . . . The action is variously backgrounded by a dairy farm, a fashionable dress salon, and the apartments of participants.

Virginia Grey and John Hubbard are routine in routine rôles. Supporting parts are well handled, with special mention to Miles Mander and Lloyd Corrigan as victim and perpetrator of a plot to cheat Uncle Sam.

Direction simmers along. Nothing in the pot ever really comes to the boiling point.

See you soon.

The Stage

By Cecil Smith

This morning at 10 o'clock the ticket sale for "This Is the Army," the Irving Berlin soldier musical show opening on Jan. 4, begins at the Civic theater. Do not go to the regular Civic Opera house boxoffice unless you want to purchase tickets for the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo. The boxoffice of the Civic theater, at Wacker drive and Washington street, at the north end of the big Civic Opera building, has been turned over to the army for the ticket sale for the soldier show in order to avoid confusion and overcrowding at the Civic Opera house proper. No mail orders or telephone requests will be filled. If you want tickets for this great patriotic entertainment you can get them only by standing in line with the rest of the public.

Not to be outdone by "This Is the Army," the men stationed at Glenview naval reserve air base are presenting their own revue this week. The "glamor girls" in the cast are all members of the base personnel. Known as "Tailspin Follies of 1943," the show was staged for the first time last night before an audience of enlisted men. Tonight officers and flying cadets, along with a few invited guests, will attend. The final performance tomorrow evening again will be restricted to enlisted men.

Speaking of revues, the Chicago Repertory group will present one called "43zapoppin" on New Year's eve at Forester's theater, 1016 North Dearborn street. Among the contributors of material are four former group members now in the army—Privates Sonny Vale, Lester Pine, Marvin David, and Win Stracke. The repertory group has spent the last year giving special presentations for civilian morale under the auspices of the office of civilian defense.

Samson Raphaelson pulled a fast one, it now transpires, when he attended the Actors' Company of Chicago party in his honor last week. When asked what he had been doing in Hollywood he launched upon a detailed description of his work on the moving picture transcription of "The Miracle," as if to indicate that this undertaking had occupied all his time. No sooner had he reached New York, however, than he let an important cat out of the bag. He has been writing another play which now rests in half completed condition. Within a month or two he hopes to finish it. It will be "a less serious comedy than 'Jason'" and it deals with "average Americans, not critics or playwrights."

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 21.—Metro is trying to lure its own Laraine Day back to the lot. Now that she has had her first acting break opposite Cary Grant, RKO has two more good parts for her, and Brian Donlevy wants her for his lead at Paramount in "Hostages." At Metro she was Dr. Kildare's sweetheart. . . . When Eddie Bracken was offered his choice between co-starring with Bob Hope in "Let's Face It" or doing the second lead in "Dr. Wassell," he chose "Wassell." Now Paramount has decided he should do both. So "Let's Face It" rolls shortly and the other has been postponed until March. And Eddie's trying to blow himself up to a six footer, he's that proud of the whole business.

Laraine Day.

He Wanted News.

When Linda Darnell was handing out tons of presents, donated at the marine base in San Diego, one of the boys said, "Remember me? I'm Lana Turner's brother-in-law. I want to know just how sick Lana really is." . . . Two of our foreign stars slugged it out on the set the other day—Maria Montez and Sabu. Sure, the lady won—don't they always? . . . Norma Shearer's husband is now Ensign Marty Arrouge. They, together with Adrian and Janet, have been quietly learning the Samba at Arthur Murray's. Adrian calls Arthur "the dancer to a maiden's prayer." . . . That beauty expert, Gloria Bristol, moves her famous salon to Beverly after Jan. 1. . . . The soldiers at the Beverly U. S. O. are in for lots of fun. Helene Reynolds in red silk tights and ermine coat and hat will be their Santa Claus.

Plans All Set.

Al Jolson's going to make his return to the screen in "Stage Door Canteen." Jimmy Monaco has whipped up a new song called "America's Boy," but what do you bet Al ends up singing "Mammy"? . . . Lee Trent, that beautiful hunk of cowboy, invited Barbara Stanwyck to luncheon—called for her on a tandem bicycle 'cause he doesn't own a car. Barbara, good sport that she is, went. . . . After Paul Small's marriage to Estelle Taylor, he'll form a new variety show called "The Big Time," which will star Jimmy Durante and his old partners, Clayton and Jackson. It opens in San Francisco in February, and instead of calling it three-a-day, it will be known as "day swing and graveyard shift." . . . Greta Keller and David Bacon take the plunge Dec. 27 at the Chapman Park chapel. Wedding reception later at his home.

On the Job.

Ilona Massey was lunching at the Brown Derby with former Tennis Champion Frank Shields, who's in the army. He tells me Ilona has been visiting all the out of way camps and entertaining the soldiers. . . . That young and handsome Ali M. Ipar is here to produce pictures. Already Robert Sinclair has written an original story for him. He put up $5,500 so the "Chocolate Soldier" could open. His father is the richest and most important political figure in all of Turkey. Don't crowd, girls. Let him breathe. . . . The dress rehearsal of the "Chocolate Soldier," with Florence George and Charlie Purcell, will be given entirely for the boys from the service Christmas Eve.

How It's Done.

Billy Wilder, whose "The Major and the Minor" was such a hit, wants Bob Hope and Bing Crosby for his next. It's interesting how he chose Ann Baxter for "Five Graves to Cairo." He saw her in a night club and said, "That's the girl for the part. Too bad she isn't an actress." His companion told him she was, introduced them; Billy arranged a test, then borrowed her from 20th Century.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1942: By Ely Culbertson.]

Partners should exchange whatever information is necessary to the selection of the best contract, but no more than that! Far too often, the average player mentions a "new suit" that can have no possible interest for any one except the enemy. This error is particularly prevalent when the bidder is already sure in his own mind that he wants to play at three no trump but announces one or two suits en route, so to speak.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 club	Pass	2 no trump	Pass
3 clubs	Pass	3 diamonds	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

South's three diamond bid was entirely pointless. With North bidding clubs, and only clubs, South could be certain that no final contract would be better than three no trump, unless North chose to take that bid out to more clubs.

In this case the three diamond bid warned West away from his natural diamond opening. As between a spade and a heart opening, West properly chose the former. A short suit opening might strike partner's suit, but there was little to be gained by leading from a jack and three small hearts.

If declarer had known that the long spade suit was in the hand without an entry he could have fulfilled his contract by going up with the ace. Not knowing, he made the more logical play of finessing. East won and, his entryless condition making a spade continuation futile, shifted to a diamond. Altho the diamonds finessed successfully, West was able to establish two diamond tricks for his side before he lost control of the club suit. Thus the contract went down one.

Had South made the correct bid of three no trump over three clubs, West probably would have led a diamond and the contract would have become a laydown.

In ancient times the wassail bowl presided at all holiday festivals. Wassail [pronounced was'-sel] meant literally "health to you." Drinking the hot spiced wine and ale was a toast to the health of one's friends.

Even today the wassail bowl is brought out at Christmas. The beverage may be the hot spiced wine and ale of tradition, or something milder, say, cider, with baked apples in it. The apples are an old English tradition. Perhaps you'd rather float lemon or orange slices in your Christmas wassail. That's all right too. Get out the punch bowl and cups, in any event. Have your friends in on Christmas eve, Christmas afternoon, or any convenient time until after New Year's and serve them something warm, spicy, and fragrant.

The olden wassail was heated with a red hot poker from the fireplace, and the apples in it were roasted over the open fire. Here's a modern version, with sliced, baked apples.

Wine and Cider Wassail.

[Serves 10 to 12.]

6 cups California port, muscatel, tokay, or angelica wine
1 quart sweet cider
1 cup water
2 dozen whole cloves
3 inch sticks of cinnamon
2 lemons, cut in slices
4 apples, sliced and baked with some of the wine

Boil spices and lemon slices in the water for 5 minutes. Add cider and wine and heat thoroly, but do not boil. Serve in preheated punch bowl or large earthenware bowl. Float lemon slices and baked apples in the beverage. If you can't obtain whole cloves and cinnamon use powdered spices in this beverage. And if you do use whole spices, retrieve them for later use in something else. They're scarce, these days, and the wassail won't take all of their pungency, by any means.

If your coffee ration will stretch this far you might like to serve spiced coffolate [coffee and cocoa or chocolate] from a punch bowl. This drink is made by combining equal parts of coffee and cocoa or chocolate beverage, and adding a little cinnamon and nutmeg for accent. The original version had whipped cream floating upon its surface. There's no whipping cream now, of course, but if you feel extravagant you can let your coffee cream stand 24 hours and remove the top for whipping. Or you can whip chilled evaporated milk.

Molasses or honey may be used to sweeten this combination drink for each gives unusual flavor. The molasses is particularly nice.

Hot cider sweetened with honey or brown sugar and seasoned with spices is an excellent toast to Christmas or the New Year. Orange juice or pineapple juice may be added, and sliced oranges and lemons may be floated in the bowl.

Mulled grape juice is another possibility. Heat the grape juice with cinnamon, cloves, and allspice, and accent it with lemon flavor.

Mulled Wine with Rum.

[1½ quarts. Serve in wine glasses or punch cups.]

1 quart port wine
½ pint rum
1 pint water
1 stick cinnamon
1 tablespoon whole allspice
1 tablespoon sugar
5 whole cloves

Place spices in a bag and add to water and sugar. Simmer for 15 minutes. Pour wine and rum into the hot water. Stir gently. Do not let mixture boil. Remove spice bag and serve wine quite warm, not hot.

These drinks will probably take the place of many an eggnog this year. The quantities of whipping cream for eggnog are out, of course, and for many families this extravagant use of eggs is out of the question.

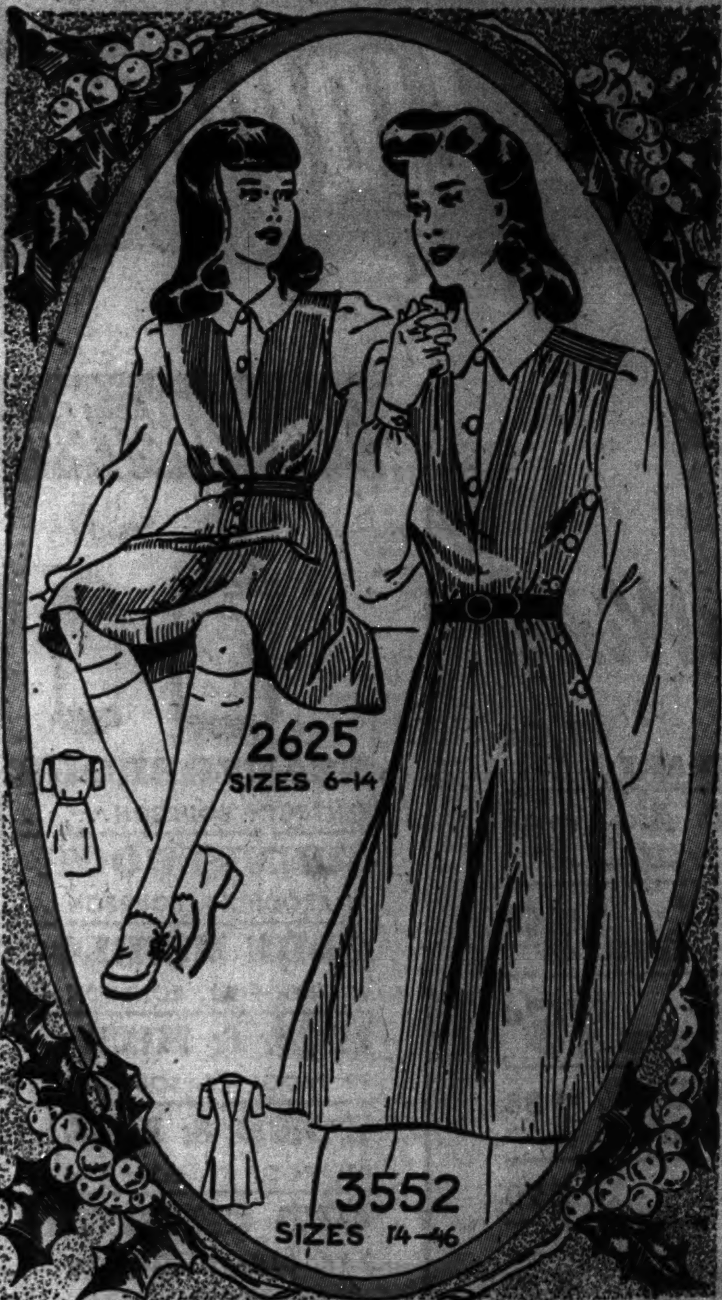
"Twin" Dress Fashions



MOTHER AND DAUGHTER FROCKS.

One of the fashion whims which caught on, and continues to maintain popularity, is the mother and daughter "twin" dress idea. Today's two patterns make almost identical frocks for mother and daughter, or big and little sisters. They are jumper frocks with trim tailored blouses.

Style No. 2625 is designed for sizes 6, 8, 10, 12, and 14. Size 8 requires, for jumper, 1¾ yards of 35 inch material with 3½ yards of binding.

Style No. 3552 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 and 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, and 46 inch bust measurements. Size 36 requires, for jumper, 2¾ yards of 35 inch material; for blouse, 2⅛ yards.

Each pattern costs 10 cents, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost (coin preferred—wrap it carefully), for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT: Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired and write your name and address plainly. The Clotilde pattern book costs 15 cents, 10 cents if ordered with a pattern.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY.

Use Your Imagination.

"Coming down on the I. C. this morning two friends of mine were talking," writes Peggy. "One of them has a far better position and salary than most girls have, yet she complains continually of the dullness of her job, her failure to advance as rapidly as she wishes, and the disturbing fact that people do not seem to like her as well as they like other girls in the office.

"The second girl, also a white collar girl, draws a smaller salary, yet she gets along well with her coworkers, likes her job, and finds it exciting.

"The second girl remarked that she was writing a story for her little niece—all about the wee people of Ireland, with an Irish background. The first girl—the dissatisfied one—looked a bit scornful and asked 'How can you expect to write about Ireland? You've never been there.' The answer was: 'I can use my imagination, can't I? If I wanted to write a story about heaven, would I have to wait until I passed the pearly gates to imagine what it looked like?'

"And there," concludes Peggy, "to my mind is the crux of the whole situation—lack of imagination on the part of the girl who complains of the dullness of her job.

"Imagination! It's the gift that keeps you from sending out a smudgy letter because no one else will know about it—you imagine how the person receiving it will feel. When the boss comes down in a bad mood a girl with imagination doesn't say 'old grouch!' She imagines all the things that might have transpired and she manages to be twice as diplomatic and soothing during the day. When one of her co-workers tells excitedly of some incident, the girl with imagination is right there—she becomes a good listener and hence, well liked.

"Perhaps I'm wrong in 'imagining' this to be the trouble with many white collar girls, but I feel if more office workers would develop a little imagination they would find office jobs far from dull routine."

Quandary.

Is it the fashion
To say ration?
Or, all over the nation
Are they saying' ration?
M.

Interoffice Communication.

"I've been trying a variation of the 'embarrassed cobbler outside a cemetery wall' spelling test on my friends for years. I've tried it on educators, lawyers, and young college graduates, and not one person has scored 100 per cent. An interesting fact is that the word 'lady's' and 'potato' are most generally misspelled." KAY.

"The girl [mentioned in your column] who feels that the world owes her a living in the form of postage stamps bought by the boss is, perhaps, akin to my neighbor who thinks the world owes her a TRIBUNE [off my doorstep] ever so often."—Just a Mere Woman.

"A white collar girl in a large wholesale firm coins a new word in her letter today," relates Ruth Reichelt Pettis and quotes: "It is the policy of some companies to return orders directly to the customers unstead of forwarding them to the correct address."

And Radio Writer Evelyn Mack writes: "Thought you might like to hear of the kindness of a woman shopper to a salesgirl whose time and attention she occupied for several hours. After finishing several purchases the woman said considerately, "I'm afraid I've kept you 'way past your lunch hour," and tossed a bill on the counter before the girl could answer."

Thru the Looking Glass

There are women who prefer, and who can wear, a perfume that is frankly sophisticated. When it's a choice completely harmonious with their individual style, temperament and general manner, the effect is good; it's an accent note that adds tremendously to their distinction.

For such women there is a fairly new perfume men shoppers should know about. Its realistic makers announce quite blandly that it "is not for the timid," and that's literally true. It simply wouldn't do for the mousy woman who dreads being different more than anything else in the world, and who honestly prefers violets, let's say, to orchids or birds-of-paradise.

This, while it verges on the exotic, just misses it; it's subtle and smart. It's very hard to identify, too, we find; it seems to take on different undertones with different wearers. It's richly elegant in character, the kind of a scent you'd associate with sables and silks and the kind that makes your well worn clothes take on a newness and chic they didn't have before.

When this perfume first came to the American market it enjoyed an immediate success. American women don't ordinarily take to daring, provocative perfumes on the first whiff, but this has had popularity that hasn't flagged. For the woman who makes a habit of being well dressed, well groomed, and well poised, it's a perfect choice.

Its outer box is bright red, its flacon a modernistic little tower of cut crystal, its stopper an audacious black block. All in all, it makes a rich and exciting perfume gift.

Teach Child Significance of Christmas

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Christmas, no matter how gay and full of gifts, has its deep, beautiful, spiritual significance. The story of the birth of Christ, whether in simple narrative for the littlest, or in the exact New Testament words used to describe it, or made graphic in the dramatic form of a play or pageant, or in the making of a crèche, should be brought freshly to all young hearts each Christmas.

To many parents a deepened religious sense comes at this lovely season. And they want to strengthen and instil such a feeling in their children. For these parents we are going to reprint today some of the prayers and graces from our collection.

Morning and Evening Prayers.

Jesus, Gentle Sheperd, hear me,
Bless Thy little lamb tonight.

Now I lay me down to rest,
Angels guard my little nest.
Like the wee birds in the tree,
Heavenly Father, care for me.

We thank Thee for Thy loving care
Thru all the happy day,
For watching o'er us while we sleep
And hearing when we pray.

O Jesus, tender Shepherd,
I thank Thee for this day.
For friends and home and loved ones
I kneel just now to pray.

Now I lay me down to sleep,
I know that God His child doth keep.
I trust Him for my daily food,
My life, my health, and all my good.
May I grow stronger day by day
And learn to live the truest way.
All this I ask because I know
Thou art the Love that wills it so.

Now the day is over,
Night is drawing nigh,
Shadows of the evening
Steal across the sky.

So we'll go to sleep without a fear,
For God is watching His children dear.
While the moon comes out, and the stars shine down,
God loves His children in country and town.

Graces.

We thank Thee, Lord, for the world so sweet—
We thank Thee, Lord, for the food we eat—
We thank Thee, Lord, for the birds that sing—
We thank Thee, Lord, for everything.

Father, we thank Thee for Thy love
Shown in such lovely ways;
For food to eat, both plain and sweet,
Accept our grateful praise.

God is great, and God is good,
And we thank Him for our food.

We thank Thee, Father, for the night,
And for the pleasant morning light,
For rest and food and loving care,
And all that makes the world so fair.

We thank Thee for this food,
And this bright new day,
Make us well and strong,
And happy at our play.

Dear Lord Jesus,
Be our guest,
Bless this food
Prepared for us.

It is very nice to think
The world is full of meat and drink,
With little children saying grace
In every Christian kind of place.
—Robert Louis Stevenson.

Note the simple prayers and graces are easy for the smallest child to learn.

TODAY'S $5 PRIZE RECIPE

Pecan Kisses.

[A rich Christmas cookie.]

¼ cup butter
¼ cup vegetable shortening.
2 tablespoons sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup ground pecans
1 cup flour

Cream fat and sugar, add salt and vanilla and work in finely ground pecans. Add flour. Shape into tiny balls. Arrange on cookie sheet and press flat. Save 39¢
(Or more, based on average prices)
It's Easy...Here's How:
KNOX SPREAD
1 envelope Knox Gelatine
¼ cup cold water
1 14½-oz. can evaporated milk
1 lb. butter
1 teaspoonful salt
1. Soften gelatine in ¼ cup cold water.
2. Dissolve thoroughly over hot water.
3. Cut butter into small pieces and heat over hot water until soft enough to beat. But do not melt the butter.
4. Add dissolved gelatine and salt to the milk. Gradually whip milk into butter with a Dover egg beater or electric mixer until milk does not separate.
5. Add coloring if desired.
6. Pack in dish or container and place in refrigerator until hard. Keep in refrigerator when not in use.
NOTE: Fresh milk may be substituted for evaporated milk, in which case use a pint of milk (preferably top half of a quart bottle), and soften gelatine in ¼ cup milk taken from that pint. Patent Applied For

Yes, Dolls Have Their Exciting Fashions, Too

BY REA SEEGER.

Even tho the doll collections don't compare with the lavish and abundant assortments of former years, there are so many exciting dolls that small girls stand around in a delighted daze trying to decide which one they can't live without owning. Starting with the clever "washtub" dolls that are especially designed for the cradle crowd, up to the new, slim, and supersophisticated modern dolls with costumes that rival deb sister's wardrobe, the 1942 collections are well worth all the attention they rate among the girls, small and tall.

New this year are the dolls in nurses' and Red Cross uniforms and the dolls in war workers overalls, telling influence of the worldwide jangling now in process.

On the brighter side of infantile impressionism are the boxes and boxes of clothes, dresses, coats, fur jackets, hats, and knitted doll costumes sold separately or as a wardrobe. This clothing for redressing or revamping favorite dolls of other years has a distinct flavor of conservation. These wardrobes have all the high fashion details of grown up costumes and will be the pride and joy of any small fashion enthusiast.

Twin dolls are still favorites, so are the baby dolls. There are costumed dolls, from the red North American Indians to Dutch, Spanish, Italian, French, German, and the Scandinavian blonde jobs, all blessedly indicative of the internationalism enjoyed by the very young, the unsuspecting and the unpropagandized.

Typical of the American scheme of things is the doll furniture with special emphasis on high colored kitchen sets with huge white icebox, and the great American bathrooms with gleaming white or colored tubs. From an adult point of view, there doesn't seem to be anything missing, altho the supplies are far short of the overflowing abundance of other years.

Final note of some significant trend are the glorified rag or cloth dolls, some of them bigger than the small tots themselves. Their crowning glory of yarn are something to make a hairdresser sit up and take notice. The dresses could be switched to a flesh and blood little girl in time of need, they're so smartly fashioned and carefully designed from gingham dress to ruffled pinafore.

The Housewife

A few years ago a good electric heating pad was a luxury. Now you can buy one that is well made and efficient, that has three degrees of heat, and that is practically fool proof for less than $4. The type we have in mind has a soft, furry cover of cotton chenille which zips on over a rubber cover attached to the pad itself. The electric cord is completely rubberized, too, for about 12 inches above the pad. And the three "speeds" of heat are indicated by little raised dots on the control switch, so you don't have to turn on the light to see.

MERRY CHRISTMAS
So that our boys and girls in the service may have a Christmas like they used to know, at least in part, let's share our festive board with a uniformed guest. Your local U.S.O. or Service Center will arrange for as many service guests as you can accommodate. No matter how commonplace the food, how simple the dinner, it comes out festive when imbued with the Christmas spirit. And here's a menu and some directions for making this Christmas an old-fashioned one.
Old Fashioned Christmas Dinner
CHILLED B-V AND TOMATO JUICE COCKTAIL
WILSON'S CERTIFIED TURKEY with Chestnut Stuffing
CRANBERRY SAUCE
MASHED POTATOES
GIBLET GRAVY
CAULIFLOWER
CHRISTMAS BELL SALAD
HOT ROLLS
PLUM PUDDING
BEVERAGE
These simple directions will help you
You should know by this time how to make a B-V Cocktail. Dissolve ½ level teaspoon of Wilson's B-V in a cup of hot water. Combine with one cup tomato juice. Season to taste. Chill.
MERRY CHRISTMAS FOOD
Tradition has it that we build our Holiday menus around poultry... a pleasure at any time... but this year it's patriotic as well, for your government has designated poultry as one of the meats unrestricted for civilian use. Wilson's Certified Poultry... be it turkey, chicken, duck or goose... is juicy, tender, flavorsome. Order yours today.
EVERYBODY... EVERY PAYDAY 10% for U.S. WAR BONDS
Gravy Hint
Simmer giblets until tender in salted water, add liver to water for last 15 minutes of cooking.
CHESTNUT STUFFING
Boil 1 pound chestnuts about 20 minutes. Remove shells and brown skins while nuts are still hot. To ½ cup turkey fat add ½ cup Clear Brook butter. Add 2 cups chopped celery leaves and stalks, ½ cup chopped onions, cook for a few minutes. Add few sprigs parsley, chopped, 6 cups bread crumbs and chestnuts, well mashed. Season with salt, pepper, and savory seasoning. Stir until mixture is hot. This is sufficient for a 10-pound turkey. (For larger birds allow 1 cup stuffing per pound of turkey.)
Preparation Pointers
Wipe turkey dry inside, season with salt, stuff, don't pack, and truss.
Grease skin well with Bakerite.
Lay bird on pan in rack, on one side, back up, turning when partially done, and when half done turn breast up to finish. Cover bird while baking, with cloth moistened in melted Bakerite.
AND SO... A Merry Christmas... an old-fashioned Christmas... one that will take you back to the gayer times in the presence of sterner realities.

CAMP GRANT BREAKS ILLINOIS STRING, 41-31

11 POINT DRIVE IN MID-GAME DECIDES ISSUE

Loyola Puts Chicago to Rout, 52-30.

Rockford, Ill., Dec. 21 [Special].—The Camp Grant basketball team tonight scored a 41 to 31 victory over Illinois, Western conference champion which previously had run its string of victories to four. The Illini had been generally expected to win by a comfortable margin in view of the whipping they dealt a strong Great Lakes five last Saturday night while Camp Grant was being forced to rally to defeat Lawrence.

In tonight's engagement, which was played in the Camp Grant fieldhouse, the Warriors forged ahead in the latter part of the first period and reached the intermission leading 21 to 16. The Illini never caught up thereafter.

Warriors Draw Away.

The decisive moments of the game occurred while Camp Grant was pulling out of a 16 to 16 tie in the last ten minutes of the first half and following up with a strong drive immediately after the second half began.

Baskets by Joe Krivalsky and Stan Szukala followed by Krivalsky's free throw ran the score from 16 to 16 to 21 to 16. Then as soon as they came out after the intermission Don Blanken, Krivalsky, and Mickey Rottner each sank a field goal to give the Warriors' a commanding advantage of 27 to 16, eleven points having been made by the Camp Grant boys while the Illini were being held scoreless. Thru the rest of the game, the Warriors protected their advantage expertly. At one stage Camp Grant held a 40 to 24 lead. Lineup:

LOYOLA ROUTS CHICAGO

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Loyola university's basketball team grabbed the brass ring last night on Chicago's second time around to start the Maroons on another cycle of defeat. The Ramblers had complete control as they won, 52 to 30, in their own gymnasium to mark up Chicago's 24th consecutive defeat.

On Dec. 6 last year Loyola whipped Chicago for loss No. 1 in this series of 24 losses. The hapless Maroons have not won in 13 months and last night's loss was their fourth of the current campaign. By their easy conquest the Ramblers also set their own season's record at three victories and one defeat.

Loyola had every advantage. The north side lads were faster, taller, better ball handlers, and, above all, they had a compass bearing on the location of the hoop. By fast pitching they worked the ball in close for setup shots and on defense they forced Chicago to try from far out. These tosses were hit or miss efforts and the record shows most were failures.

Loyola Takes 10 to 1 Lead.

Loyola worked the ball thru Chicago's indifferent man to man defense immediately and Bill Durkin got the first Rambler field goal from under the backboard. Capt. Jack Stanton duplicated the maneuver before George Krakowa scored a penalty point for the Maroons on Durkin's foul. Loyola went on steadily to a 10 to 1 lead and used this leverage to maintain a superiority thruout the first half.

Five of Loyola's first six field goals were scored from under the backboard. Krakowka, Ed Nelson, and Bob Oakley sparked a Chicago rally that pulled up within four points at 14 to 10. But after a Loyola time out the Ramblers took charge again and held the Maroons to one more field goal. Loyola led at half time, 23 to 12.

Ramblers Increase Edge.

Loyola's varsity was squarely on the beam in the second period and ran its total to 37 points while Dave Zimmerman was getting the Maroons' sole field goal. With 10 minutes remaining of the one sided contest, Loyola led, 41 to 16, and Coach Hicks Connelly substituted a second five.

Armond Lilien, Chicago reserve guard, got five points against the reserves. Harold Ellman, Oakley, and Nelson also hit the bullseye. With Loyola in front, 48 to 30, the Rambler regulars returned for the last three minutes. Durkin and Bob Tietz scored from under the backboard to complete the 52 to 30 rout.

OPENING DAY CROWD AT TROPICAL PARK BETS $232,251

HANDLE IS ONLY $20,000 BELOW FIGURE FOR '41

Attendance Nearly 50 Per Cent Off.

Miami, Fla., Dec. 21 (AP).—The big bettors found a way to get to Tropical Park today and sent Florida's racing season off to a flying start.

Gasoline rationing and other wartime handicaps hurt attendance—5,111 persons saw the races against a total of 9,381 on opening day last year—but the track prospered at the parimutuel machines. Wagering of $232,251 almost touched the 1941 mark of $252,847.

Tropical Park has no regular public transportation service, but that didn't hold back race fans with money in their pockets and a yen to beat the ponies.

They doubled up in private cars—parking lot attendants said almost every automobile brought a load—found seats in about 150 for hire vehicles, or caught a bus to the nearest point and hitch-hiked two miles to the track.

Longshots Dominate Program.

It was a civilian crowd, only a sprinkling of the uniforms reflecting the fact that the Miami area has been turned into an army and navy training center.

Longshots dominated the eight race program, run over a fast track.

Outsiders even took both ends of the two section Inaugural handicap, kicking dust into the faces of ranking sprinters.

Max Wexler's Dispose—a horse which showed great promise as a 3 year old but fell upon bad times—showed the way home to 10 other six furlong stars in the first section, and repaid his backers at the rate of $20.70 for $2.

An even longer shot, E. K. Bryson's Marksman, whipped the favorites in the second section, returning $33.80.

Shows Old Form.

Dispose, winner of the 1940 Flamingo stakes at Hialeah Park here, showed a flash of his oldtime form. Hustled into the lead at the quarter mile pole by Jockey Ken McCombs, Dispose held the advantage the rest of the way. He finished the three-quarters of a mile in 1:10 3-5, with a length to spare.

Mrs. Ethel Denemark's Three Clovers ran a steady race to take second by a head, and Vera S. Bragg's highly regarded Blue Pair was third. The place and show prices for Dispose were $11.40 and $8.40. Three Clovers paid $23.90 and $11.30. The favored Joe Ray wound up seventh, and the heavily backed Augury was fourth.

A driving finish gave Marksman his triumph in 1 minute 10 2-5 seconds—two-fifths off Augury's track record. Conn McCreary rated the 3 year old campaigner in second place until the field entered the stretch, then sent him into the lead.

Minee-Mo was three quarters of a length behind, but held a two length advantage over the tiring Overdrawn, the leader most of the way. The place and show prices were $8.50 and $6.90 for Marksman, and $6.50 and $4 for Minee-Mo. Overdrawn returned $5.70 to show.

Adams Wins First Race.

Johnny Adams, the champion jockey of 1942, started his Florida campaign with a victory aboard Drumont in the first race.

Tropical officials were elated over the showing in the inaugural, which opened a Florida winter season of 96 racing days—46 of them beginning Jan. 13 at fashionable Hialeah Park across town.

They were hopeful that the nationwide boom in racing would reach into Miami, and decided to go ahead with their scheduled meeting in the face of such difficulties as the suburban location of the track, the gasoline situation and the limited tourist season expected here.

Mack Sees Sure but Rough Road for 1943 Baseball

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 21 (AP).—Connie Mack, who will celebrate his 80th birthday on Wednesday, said tonight he believes major league baseball will be played as usual next summer.

"But," he warned, "we don't know what we will run into. We have lost a lot of men and we don't know about the transportation situation. We are hoping for the best."

Mack added, "If they can have sports in England, Russia, and even Germany in these dark days, I think we can have them here."

"But we'll have to cut down on many things and get accustomed to doing without a lot of luxuries that sprang up during the last 20 years. We won't travel in three private railroad cars any more. We'll use one day coach in making even the long jump to the western cities except when we have to make the jump from Philadelphia direct to St. Louis. Then we'll use a sleeper."

Will It Be Worth the Price?

No sight is more abhorrent to mankind
Than human flesh once fallen to decay,
And yet we sometimes find a man so blind
That he will give his very soul away
To wed a pretty girl who lacks all sense
Of common virtue and morality—
How strange that passion should be so intense
That it should mold a man's eternity!

If he could look ahead into the years
And see those lips which kindle his desire
Become a nest for worms, perhaps his fears
Would make him pause a moment and inquire:
When all this beauty in corruption lies
Will it be worth the price of Paradise? T. E. B.

CUBS, SOX FAVOR HOT SPRINGS AS PRACTICE BASE

Pirates and Browns May Follow Suit.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The little playlet entitled "Where Do We Train," words and music by the White Sox, Cubs, Pirates, and Browns, apparently moved a bit farther out of the woods yesterday.

With their California jaunt practically abandoned even tho no positive orders have been received from Washington about mileage rationing, officials of these four clubs were reported to be on the verge of an agreement whereby they'd move in en masse on Hot Springs, Ark.—if the government doesn't object to even that much travel.

If the four clubs are inclined to be secretive on the subject there is an excuse—they, and the other majors also don't know what the government officials will consider coöperation—as recently outlined in a letter from Washington.

It's a Favorite Spot.

The idea of these four teams pitching their tents in Hot Springs, which has served as a camp for many major and minor league clubs, didn't come up overnight. It has been discussed informally among the four clubs since the day early last month that the curtailment letter arrived from Joseph B. Eastman, director of ODT. Subsequently Eastman informed Clark Griffith, president of the Washington club, that "for military reasons," the baseball people had best give up plans for training in Florida, Texas, or California.

Original plans of the Cubs, Sox, Pirates, and Browns called for them to play a series of games on the Pacific coast and later to split up for the homeward journey, the Sox pairing with the Pirates and the Cubs with the Browns. So that these same games can be played, except in a different spot or spots, the four clubs hope to train together. Hot Springs, boasting ample hotel and ball park accommodations, answers the purpose.

May Delay Start of Season.

It is probable that the majors as a whole, without waiting on the definite ruling promised by the ODT office early in February, will shortly announce they have voluntarily eliminated the fancy frills customary in training trips of recent springs. It wouldn't surprise anybody to have them reveal that all the clubs, the bulk of which were scheduled to wander off to Florida next March, had picked sites easily reached.

Another possibility is that with weather becoming a factor because of camps closer to the snow belt, the season's schedule might be revised. The chart already adopted calls for the 1943 openings on April 13. Many of these places wouldn't be suitable, even with a weather break, prior to the second week of March, necessitating late starts. To provide the athletes with ample time in which to shake off their winter laziness, the season's start might be delayed as much as two weeks.

Would Provide for Emergency.

A later opening date also would provide for an emergency, such as a last minute government order that the boys had best stay right at home, or go no farther than a few miles.

James T. Gallagher, Cubs' general manager, had this possibility in mind when he gum shoed down to French Lick, Ind., over the week-end for a glimpse at the accommodations there.

It could happen that a trip any farther than the Indiana resort would be banned, in which event the athletes could hike and drink the waters there for a 10 day period and then return to their own park to complete their conditioning during the period, which, under the present schedule,

They Listened—And Went On to Victory!

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Members of the De La Salle High school basketball team hear words of advice from Coach Joe (Red) Gleason (right), which they followed to the letter in final game of St. George tournament last night. De La Salle scored a 37 to 30 victory over St. Philip to take the prep tourney title. Left to right (kneeling): Bob Dermody, John Kerris, Jack Allen, and Joe Schultz. Standing (left to right): Bill McMabola, Bob O'Donnell, Bob Delaney, Eugene O'Keefe, George Shinnick, and Coach Gleason.

DE LA SALLE IS 37 TO 30 WINNER OVER ST. PHILIP

Jack Kerris last night was the mainstay of the De La Salle quintet as it defeated St. Philip, 37 to 30, to gain the championship of the St. George tournament, wartime Chicagoland's biggest schoolboy basketball meet. The consolation match between St. George and Catholic High of Joliet went to the Joliet youngsters, 40 to 39, on a basket scored in the last 12 seconds of play.

Thru the efforts of Kerris, a lithe, comparatively fast young man who stands 6 feet 4 inches, the southsiders gained their upset triumph. He held together a team that threatened to fall apart at several stages and dominated play with impressive use of his physical advantage.

Makes Tournament Team.

Kerris was named center on an all-tournament team that included Ernie DiBenedetto, the St. Philip sparkplug, and Jack Mullaney of St. George at forwards; and Joe Schulz of De La Salle and Bert Dolan of Loyola at the guards. Bill Sticklen, one half of the Joliet brother forward combination, was named the most valuable player.

The St. Philip attack was slow in starting as De La Salle dominated play for the first period.

The second quarter wasn't two minutes old, however, before the powerful St. Philip offensive began to make itself felt. Cox, on a field goal, and Calkins, on a basket and a free throw, pushed the west siders ahead, 8 to 7.

St. Philip Speeds Up.

St. Philip started the second half in whirlwind fashion. Playing a firewagon brand of ball that riddled the De La Salle defense, Di Benedetto, Cox, and Tom Condon fired in baskets from close in while Schulz was making a lone De La Salle score, to give St. Philip an eight point lead, 20 to 12.

It was De La Salle's turn in the final period, as the southsiders made it 31 to 24 on three consecutive field goals by Allen, Schulz, and Kerris. Once rolling, the southside team continued to go ahead. With one minute and 15 seconds left, it held a 35 to 30 advantage.

Purdue Beats Washington U., 43 to 42; Badgers Win, 48 to 37

Lafayette, Ind., Dec. 21 [Special].—Floyd [Rudy] Lawson's free throw in the closing seconds enabled Purdue to come from behind tonight to defeat Washington university of St. Louis, 43 to 42. It marked the third victory in five starts for the Boilermaker basketball team and the second loss in three games for Washington.

Up until Lawson's free throw it appeared that Washington's tight-knit zone defense was to be the undoing of the Boilermakers. With the exception of two short periods midway in the second half, when the Boilermakers took momentary leads, Washington had led.

BADGERS STOP SOONERS

Madison, Wis., Dec. 21 [Special].—Wisconsin put on a last half scoring spree for 31 points to win, 48 to 37, here tonight over the University of Oklahoma. Nearly 10,000 watched the hard fought contest that found the Sooners tiring badly in the final ten minutes.

Johnny Kotz, held scoreless in the first half by Bob McCurdy's guarding, broke loose in the second period to score 14 points and pace the Badgers. Bob Sullivan, Wisconsin's other forward, scored 13. Big Gerald Tucker was high scorer for the night with five baskets and five free throws.

With Kotz held without a point thruout the period, the Badgers trailed the Sooners at half time, 19 to 17.

Kotz tied the game quickly in the second half and the score was tied five times before the Badgers raced out in front on two baskets by Sullivan and four more by Kotz plus his two free tosses. Lineup:

Loyola academy of the Catholic league and Sullivan of the City league divided a basketball double header yesterday, with Loyola taking the senior game, 29 to 27, and Sullivan winning the junior contest, 42 to 31. Loyola led, 20 to 13, at the intermission in the senior game, but had to stop a determined Sullivan rally in the last half to gain the two point decision. Bob Polan made 17 points for the winners.

Irv Kopelson made 17 points and Morry Weiss 14 for the Tuley juniors as that team beat Manley, 48 to 36, on the latter's floor.

Weber Wins Two.

Weber invaded the Schurz gymnasium and took home two victories, the juniors winning, 39 to 26, and the seniors, 31 to 15. Joe Depka made 14 points for the Weber juniors before he was injured in the third quarter and removed from the game.

Gage Park and Parker seniors split 101 points just as evenly as possible in their game at Parker, the visitors winning, 51 to 50. Parker won the junior engagement, 30 to 23.

CENTRAL BEATS MICHIGAN CITY; GOES INTO LEAD

Michigan City, Ind., Dec. 21 [Special].—South Bend Central went into the lead in the eastern division basketball race of the Northern Indiana conference by defeating Michigan City, 54 to 28, before 3,000 spectators in the auditorium here tonight. Paced by Bill Gagadzynski and Jim Powers, who scored 15 points each, Central was never seriously threatened, leading, 48 to 16 at one time in the third period. It was Central's third straight conference victory against no defeats and Michigan City's first loss in conference play.

Crane Defeats Harrison for 8th Straight

The Crane Tech senior basketball team gained its eighth straight victory yesterday, taking a 39 to 36 verdict over Harrison on the Crane court. Crane held a 21 to 19 lead at the end of the first half, but Harrison was in the battle all the way and tied the score at 36 all late in the fourth quarter. Then a free throw by Fred Fleeman and a field goal by Babe Kowalewski gave Crane its winning margin. Kowalewski made 14 points and Red Weber registered 13 for Crane, but scoring honors went to Marvin Block of Harrison, whose total was 19.

Austin came from behind in the last four minutes to beat the Amundsen High seniors, 30 to 27, at Austin. Trailing, 25 to 21, halfway thru the final period, Austin won when Ed Wright and Bill Mann made a couple of field goals each to gain a safe lead. Amundsen won the junior game, 16 to 11.

Van Steuben Wins.

Led by Al Berlin, who scored 16 points, the Von Steuben seniors beat Marshall, 33 to 29, on the losers' floor. The Wells seniors defeated Roosevelt 39 to 29, in a game in which only two personal fouls were charged against the winners, who were playing at home.

Du Sable's senior team won its eighth practice game of the season, rolling up a 47 to 16 victory over Englewood in the latter's gymnasium. Leon Donegan made 13 points for the winners. Englewood won the junior game, 31 to 28.

NIHSC FIVES TO PLAY IN FOUR GAMES TONIGHT

South Bend, Ind., Dec. 21 [Special].—A program of four games tomorrow night including two conference battles, constitutes the final major night's play for eastern division basketball teams in the Northern Indiana High School conference until after the Christmas holidays.

The results of the conference games will not directly effect the eastern division standings so far as leadership is concerned as none of the four teams now figure in the upper bracket. One game involves Mishawaka at Nappanee, and the other sends Goshen against North Side at Fort Wayne.

All four teams facing conference play have been defeated, with Fort Wayne and Goshen virtually out of further title consideration due to three and two losses, respectively. Elkhart will entertain Greensburg, and La Porte will be host to Rensselaer in nonconference games.

REASONER AND GOMEZ DRAW IN MARIGOLD BOUT

Al Reasoner, promising lightweight prospect from Hines, Ill., held Alvin Gomez to a draw in an exciting eight round bout in Marigold Gardens last night. Referee Davey Miller voted 42 to 38 for Gomez, but Judge Harry Busscher scored 42 to 38 for Reasoner, while Dr. G. W. Christoph called the match a deadlock.

Clayton Worlds, former City Golden Gloves heavyweight winner, hammered out a victory over James Fitzjames of Canton, O., in an eight round semi-windup. Fitzjames was down three times in the seventh.

Fitzjames weighed 175 pounds; Worlds, 194½. Attendance was 1,081 and gross receipts were $1,449.

Zack Robinson, local middleweight, beat Bishop Murphy in five rounds.

Four round preliminary matches were won by Earl Paul, Indianapolis 134 pounder, and Louis Hewitt, lightweight, also of Indianapolis. The former conquered Sammy Scully, and Hewitt defeated Johnny Kruger. Kruger is from Danville, Ill.

Tito Taylor, south side boxer, yesterday was matched to meet Jimmy Reeves of Cleveland in an eight round bout in Marigold Gardens next Monday. Mike Sopko, Indiana Harbor middleweight, is paired with Jack Hill of Bloomington, Ill., in an additional eight round event on the card.

Taylor also is matched to meet Johnny O'Brien, Calumet City middleweight, in an eight rounder in Milwaukee New Year's afternoon.

Cleveland Hockey Team Loans 2 Men to Buffalo

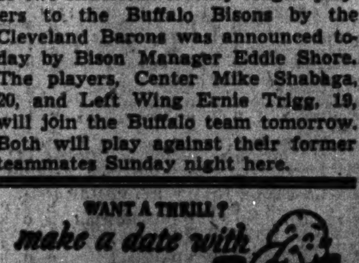
Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 21 (AP).—The loan of two American Hockey league players to the Buffalo Bisons by the Cleveland Barons was announced today by Bison Manager Eddie Shore. The players, Center Mike Shabaga, 20, and Left Wing Ernie Trigg, 19, will join the Buffalo team tomorrow. Both will play against their former teammates Sunday night here.

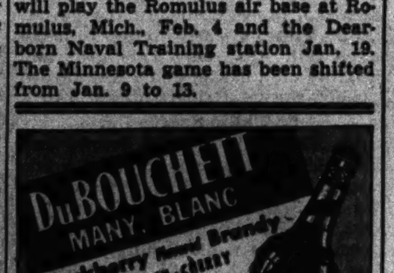
MICHIGAN STATE MAKES CHANGES IN BASKET CARD

East Lansing, Mich., Dec. 21 (AP).—Four changes in the Michigan State college basketball schedule were announced today by Athletic Director Ralph H. Young. The change gives State nine home games and seven on the road, instead of eight and eight.

Because the Iowa naval cadets have decided not to play intercollegiate basketball this winter, Young said, two games scheduled with the Seahawks have been canceled and two games with Great Lakes Naval Training station listed. The Spartans will meet the Bluejackets at their base Jan. 9 and here Feb. 11.

A game with Indiana in December having been canceled, the Spartans will play the Romulus air base at Romulus, Mich., Feb. 4 and the Dearborn Naval Training station Jan. 19. The Minnesota game has been shifted from Jan. 9 to 13.





NAVY PIER PLANS HEAVY WINTER TRACK SCHEDULE

Sailor Runners Work Out in New Gym.

Navy Pier, rapidly establishing itself as the most track-minded military base, has chalked up another first in promotion of the cinder sport. First station to adopt cross-country last fall, the Pier also is first to organize a complete indoor track team and already 75 candidates are working out nightly in preparation for an ambitious winter schedule highlighted by track meets with Notre Dame, Drake, Marquette, and other outstanding midwest squads.

All that's lacking is the cinders as Chief Petty Officer John Flynn, coach of the Aero-Macs, puts the squad thru its paces in Navy Pier's new gymnasium. The gym, tho having eight basketball courts and facilities for most indoor sports, is not laid out for track. But the distance runners practice on the flat, unbanked surface, where some compensation is afforded by the fact that there are only six laps to the mile.

Like Long Straightaways.

The gymnasium is much to the liking of the sprinters and hurdlers, with long straightaways available. It is possible to run the 120 yard high hurdles on a straightaway. Coach Flynn, former Rutgers ace, says that he knows of no other indoor track in the country where this is possible.

Because of Navy pier's staggered school program, in which men come and go each week, there is a constant turnover of athletes and it is difficult to make predictions, but right now there are several standout trackmen who should stay around long enough to perform in the Aero-Macs' winter indoor meets. A triple threat around whom Coach Flynn plans to build his squad is George Canfield who, like so many other track sensations, hails from California. Canfield, a San Francisco high school product, should garner his share of points in the 440 yard dash, the pole vault and the hurdles. He has done the 440 in 49.5; has vaulted 13 feet 3 inches, and run the 220 yard low hurdles in 24.6.

Hatfield Leads Sprinters.

Emil Hatfield of Sherman, Tex., a consistent 10 second man in the 100 yard dash, appears the best of the present crop of sprinters. He will be supported by Emerson Yenzer of Denver, Colo., Morry Kunkle of Little Rock, Ark., and John Rosenkranz of Oshkosh, Wis.

Other outstanding hurdlers besides Canfield are George Lewis of Macomb, Ill., who won the Illinois conference high hurdle title in 1940 and 1941 while competing at Macomb, and Joe Wood of Knoxville, Tenn., who was Tennessee high school champ in the highs back in 1939.

The middle distances should be well taken care of by Chuck Kramer, a Chicago lad who won the Wisconsin State High school half mile championship while running for Aquinas Central at La Crosse, Clyde Medkief of Shamrock, Tex., and Tom Chouinard of Middletown, Conn.

His Gift.

At Christmas time most mothers will Receive yule gifts galore,
Sheer hose, bright books, a dress or gloves,
The kind she will adore.

Some will give Moms a lovely pin,
Others will send her sweets,
Until her brimming heart will thrill
With happy, thankful beats.

But somewhere one lone mother waits
Without a tree this year;
No gifts, no laughter in her house,
She does not share yule cheer.

And yet her eyes flaunt happiness,
She holds within clenched fists
The last few lines he wrote to her
Before "reported missed."

There is no diamond, large or bright,
That could replace her gift tonight!

LOGAN RETURNS; FOUR HOOSIERS FAIL IN EXAMS

Blemker, Mangin Ruled Off Basket Squad.

Bloomington, Ind., Dec. 21 [Special].—First semester final examinations today had eliminated four members of the Indiana university basketball squad, but at the same time added the name of John Logan, of Richmond, Ind., senior forward, to the scholastically eligible roster.

Logan, a regular on the Hoosier five last year—the man who sparked Indiana to its victory over champion Illinois—missed the first three games because of an incompleted course.

Two Are Outstanding.

Failing to hurdle the scholastic barrier were Roy Kilby of Muncie, junior forward, who won a major letter last year, and Sophomores Jack Blemker, Huntingburg; Leroy [Hooks] Mangin of Washington, and Robert Young of Fort Wayne.

Blemker, a six foot three inch 195 pound defensive ace, and Mangin were outstanding prospects. Mangin was the star forward on the Washington, Ind., state high school championship quintet two years ago. He holds the individual tournament scoring mark, with 69 points in the final four games of the 1940 event.

Pick 11 For Kentucky Game.

Coach Branch McCracken tonight named 11 players to make the trip to Louisville, Ky., where Indiana meets Kentucky's Wildcats Wednesday night. The Hoosiers will leave tomorrow noon, arriving in time for a workout tomorrow night in the armory. Making the trip will be Ralph Hamilton, Warren Lewis, Billy McGinnis, James Smith, and Logan, forwards; Ed Denton, Ward Williams, and Bob Hines, centers, and Capt. Irvin Swanson, Robert Cowan, and Dick Wittenbraker, guards.

THE ARISTOCRAT OF BONDS

HAWKS, PUZZLED BY BRUIN GOAL, PREPARE FOR TRIP

To Face Canadiens, Wings on Road.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

There was a degree of grumbling among the Blackhawks anent the quality of the goal which Referee King Clancy awarded the Boston Bruins to give them a 4 to 4 tie with the Hawks in Sunday night's game in Chicago Stadium. But the boys are smart and know that yelping at referees is not a profitable enterprise so they turned wholeheartedly to practice for their impending road trip. They will play the Canadiens in Montreal Christmas night, and Detroit in Detroit Sunday night in one of their few Sunday night absences from the stadium.

It was just as well that the Hawks didn't try too hard to figure out what kept them from handing the Bruins their second defeat in 16 games and their first in nine matches. The thing was pretty much gummed up all around, even to the awarding of the alleged spurious goal.

Cowley, Then Boll.

It was announced over the public address system that Bill Cowley, the league's leading scorer, had been awarded the tying goal after some one had kicked the puck into the cage. Runners conveyed the information to the press row that Cowley had been awarded the goal. Then, after the game, official score sheets revealed the goal had been awarded to Buzz Boll, who was near the scene when the puck, apparently smothered under Goalie Bert Gardiner, somehow popped into the cage. Other Hawks contended that not only was there no way of knowing who made the goal if any, but that it was made on a dead puck and that the play never should have arisen anyhow, inasmuch as Boll was offside when Cowley carried the rubber across the Hawk blue line.

Cowley, even without the fuzzy counter, led the weekly scoring tabulation announced yesterday. Cowley was runner up a week earlier to the then leading Bentley brothers, Doug and Max, of the Hawks. Doug and Max each had 23 points, Cowley 22.

Has 32 Points Now.

The new figures show Cowley with 32 points—11 goals and 21 assists, while Doug and Max, tied with 25 points, are in a four way tie for sixth. Boll, by the way, is one of the two gents tied with the Bentleys.

Here is the dope on the leaders:

	Goals.	Assists.	Pts.
Cowley, Boston	11	21	32
Syl Apps, Toronto	16	15	31
Lorne Carr, Toronto	14	13	27
Bill Taylor, Toronto	9	18	27
Mel Hill, Toronto	11	15	26
Gaye Stewart, Toronto	17	8	25
D. Bentley, Chicago	13	12	25
Boll, Boston	12	13	25
M. Bentley, Chicago	10	15	25

Red Hamill of the Hawks is third in actual goals, with 15, but is 18th on the list, having only four assists.

The Toronto club, beaten four out of five by the Hawks, but turned back by virtually nobody else, has made 100 goals in 20 games.

would see the regular season in full swing.

DODGERS QUIT FLORIDA

Brooklyn, N. Y., Dec. 21 (AP).—The Brooklyn Dodgers decided today not to train in Florida next spring, but Branch Rickey, the club's new head man, couldn't say just where the team would go to get ready for the 1943 campaign.

Announcing the decision of the Dodgers not to do their spring preparedness work in Florida, and adding that the same applies to the Montreal farm team, Rickey said, "I am convinced it is the duty of our club not to train at any point where its movements might possibly add to transportation problems now confronting the director of transportation."

"Florida," he pointed out, "is now largely an armed camp. The needs of the forces there in housing and transportation are tremendous and are taxing existing facilities to the limit.

Has Any One a Nice Location?

"High government officials have expressed themselves as favoring continuance of professional baseball in the interests of public morale. But its continuance must conform in all cases to the nation's war effort.

"The city manager and the chamber of commerce of West Palm Beach fully approved our decision. The same, I am sure, applies to Lake Worth, where the Montreal club was to train.

"I do not know where our club will train in 1943," Rickey concluded, indicating the Dodgers are still shopping around in their efforts to find a spot that will provide the least trouble in housing and transportation. Altho Rickey did not say just where the Brooklyns are looking, there was a hint that the club may not go to any southeastern state, because of the problems involved.

MAY TRAIN IN NEW ORLEANS.

New Orleans, La., Dec. 21 (AP).—Belief exists here that the Brooklyn Dodgers and their International league farm club, the Montreal Royals, may switch their 1943 training camp to New Orleans, joining the New Orleans Pelicans of the Southern association, with whom they are arranging a working agreement.

The Pelicans have been a farm of the St. Louis Cardinals, but this arrangement was terminated when Branch Rickey went to Brooklyn. Charles Hurth, Pelican manager is a nephew of Rickey's by marriage.

California Autograph Hunters Discover Sinkwich

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

No sooner had Frankie Sinkwich, Georgia's all-America half back, set foot in Pasadena, Cal., yesterday than he was besieged by juvenile autograph seekers. Frankie is putting his signature on Clyde Wakelee's football. Georgia will meet U. C. L. A. in the Rose bowl on New Year's day.

Georgia Tech May Not Be Up in Air for Texas

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 21 (AP).—And what is Bill Alexander, the old pigskin prestidigitator, cooking up for Texas when Georgia Tech meets the Longhorns in Dallas' Cotton bowl?

Nothing, says Alex, with disarming candor—and if he is telling less than he knows, Texas will have to find out about it on New Year's day.

Hint of Running Game.

Observers see a hint of added emphasis on Tech's running game, with Eddie Prokop hitting the line often in practice instead of sticking closely to his aerial assignments. Other passers there are, on Tech's talent-burdened squad, including Southpaw Clint Castleberry, Bobby Sheldon, Jimmy Luck, and Pat McHugh—but all season it was Prokop who was rushed into the game when chips-down passing was needed.

Yet Alex insists there's nothing to it, as far as the cotton bowl is concerned.

"We're just going to play football," he says, "just like we've been doing every Saturday. I don't know what we'll do until we see what Texas has in the way of defense."

Ground Plays Successful.

At that, perhaps Tech's reputation for football razzle-dazzle has obscured its superior ground operations. Against 10 opponents in regular season play, the Yellowjackets gained 2,138 yards by rushing, and yielded 1,466. Passes, with 67 completions in 171 tries, gained just 979 yards while opponents connected with 61 out of 166 for 808. Tech, incidentally, was the only college team all season which was able to score thru Alabama's great line.

Tech's football squad will leave Atlanta for Dallas in different groups Dec. 25 and 26, arriving there by Dec. 28.

HYDE PARK TEAM WINS FIRST GAME IN HOLIDAY MEET

Three games opened the invitational holiday basketball tournament last night at the Hyde Park Y. M. C. A. The Hyde Park Bears defeated Morgan Park Junior college, 49 to 50, in the opening game. Other scores were Ramblers A. C., 40; Studebaker B's, 36, and Hyde Park Columbias, 47; Northern Trust, 20.

Isbell Joins All-Stars for Game with Redskins

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 21 (AP).—Cecil Isbell, star passer for the Green Bay Packers, today joined the National league football all-stars at the invitation of Coach Hunk Anderson. He will play against the world champion Washington Redskins in the Pro bowl merchant marine benefit game at Shibe park Sunday.

Notre Dame and Stanford Players Patch Up Quarrel

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 21 (AP).—Eastern and western football stars, who will be opposing each other New Year's day in the east-west charity game, met today—and Notre Dame and Stanford players patched up past differences.

It was the annual luncheon of the game sponsoring Shriners' organization to introduce the 44 players. The 22 man eastern squad arrived just in time for the luncheon. The western outfit checked in yesterday.

Two Notre Dame players, Bob Dove, end, and Harry Wright, guard, huddled with three Stanford team members on the western squad, Ed Stamm and Bruno Banducci, tackles, and All-America guard, Chuck Taylor.

The boys shook hands and agreed there were no hard feelings. Stamm, student body president of Stanford as well as a standout player, was quoted recently as saying the Notre Dame team played "dirty football" in its game with Stanford. Stamm's charges followed the repercussions of the vigorous Notre Dame-Southern California game in Los Anglese a few weeks ago.

Dove of Notre Dame attributed the hard play in the Stanford game to the difference between the slow whistle used in the east with the fast one prevailing in the west.

The two squads took their first workouts this afternoon.

C. & G. BOWLERS HIT 3,331 SERIES; LEAGUE RECORD

The Chapin & Gore bowlers set up a new season's standard for the North End Traveling league last night when they rolled up a total of 3,331 to win three games from the Pogues at the Faetz & Son recreation center. Leo Faetz led the winners with a 714 series, while Rudy Roedecker had 705. Paul Marian of the Keeleys was the night's high individual with a 725 total including a 288 game. Scores:

Low Grades Take Shaw Off Ohio State Quintet

Columbus, O., Dec. 21 (AP).—Harold G. Olsen, Ohio State university baskeball coach, said tonight that Robert Shaw, Buckeye center, had been ruled ineligible to play because of low grades. Shaw, a junior and football end, scored 19 points against Ohio Wesleyan and 20 against Great Lakes in games this season.

Bowl-Bound Georgia Team Gets to Coast

Pasadena, Cal., Dec. 21 (AP).—Smiling and confident, but train weary, 43 University of Georgia Bulldogs arrived today for their New Year's day football game in the Rose bowl with the University of California at Los Angeles.

Their coach, Wallace Butts, said the Georgians were somewhat stale after four days of travel. Since their equipment did not arrive on the same train, they were unable to have an immediate workout.

Plan Two Workouts Daily.

Beginning tomorrow, he said, they'll have two stiff workouts daily for three days "and then we'll see how they are."

He said he would "have to drive the boys hard" because they have had only one scrimmage since they beat Georgia Tech 34 to 0. Final examinations prevented scrimmage before the Bulldogs departed.

Butts said Frankie Sinkwich, the team's All-American passing and ball-carrying ace, had injured an ankle. It's still swollen and blue, but he expected it to be in good shape by New Year's.

Speed vs. Weight.

How about Georgia's chances against U. C. L. A., Pacific Coast conference champions?

"Howell Hollis, who scouted U. C. L. A.'s last two games for us, told us U. C. L. A. is big, powerful and will be awfully hard to handle," Butts replied. He said his players will try to offset U. C. L. A.'s considerable weight advantage with speed.

BLUE AND GRAY ELEVENS DRILL HARD FOR GAME

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 21 (AP).—Football players, assembled here for the annual north-south game Dec. 26, hit their stride today in their first all-out practice.

Following two light workouts Saturday and two more Sunday, the Blue northern squad and the southern Grays turned today to the fundamentals of blocking and tackling.

Walter McDonald, Tulane, appeared as a new arrival in the Gray back field today. The Green Wave's outstanding blocker and pass receiver was called into action after sponsors announced that Jack Jenkins of Vanderbilt, originally scheduled to fill the spot, was unable to reach Montgomery in time for practice.

YANKEES' HALO ASKEW; VOTED NO. 1 SPORT FLOP

Triumph Over Dodgers in Stretch Run.

New York, Dec. 21 (AP).—The New York Yankees had to come roaring down the stretch to beat out Brooklyn's bewildering and bewildered Dodgers for the honor, but it is now official—the Yanks are the biggest sports disappointment of 1942.

By a narrow but convincing vote, the nation's sports writers decided today that the fold-up of the American league champions in the world series constituted a bigger flop than the success the boys from the Gowanus had in blowing a ten game lead and losing the National league pennant. So, by a margin of 90 points to 76½ for the Dodgers, the sports writers balloting in the annual Associated Press poll on the "honor" awarded the yearly prize of a pair of ice coated ear muffs to the Yanks.

Some Get Special Mention.

This biggest disappointment poll is the one in which the boys in the writing fraternity around the country annually go all out on the originality and the barbs. As a result, back of the Yankees and Dodgers in this year's balloting, there were special mentions of varying degrees of emphasis for such individuals as Jim Gallagher, the general manager of the Chicago Cubs; Larry MacPhail, late of the Brooklyn Dodgers; Buck Newsom, a quiet, reserved baseball character of whom you may have heard, and even a vote for Gene Tunney.

Lou Nova came in for some support for the laurels. So did Jimmy Bivins, for his victorious, but not quite breathtaking, debut in Madison Square Garden a few weeks back. Not that it applies to sports, but German Field Marshal Rommel also had a backer.

Altogether, 88 writers voted. The Yanks drew 25 first place votes, compared to 18 for Brooklyn. These 25 palms, along with six seconds and three thirds gave the Yankees their total of 90 points, on the basis of three points for a first place selection, two for a second and one for a third. The Dodgers had nine second place mentions and 4½ for third.

Joe Gordon Is an Easy Third.

Metropolitan New York not only ran one-two on the list with the Yanks and Dodgers, but Pa Knickerbocker wound up with an even redder face when Joe Gordon's world series play easily won third spot on the list of disappointments. The Yanks' star second sacker, who "couldnt buy a loud foul" in the series with the Cardinals, drew nine first place nominations as No. 1 disappointment and polled 51 points altogether. Another woeful world series performance of note was that of Mort Cooper, the Cards' right hander, who couldn't whip the Yanks in two tries. He drew 19 points to tie for sixth place on the list.

Between Gordon and Cooper, the writers had a lot of trouble deciding whether Northwestern university's hard work in losing nine of ten football games or Minnesota's sub-par season after being touted to gallop over the gridiron world again, constituted the chief football disappointment. When the ballots were all counted, the Wildcats won out over the Gophers for fourth place with 38 points to 33.

Louis-Conn Cancellation Listed.

Secretary Stimson no doubt will be interested to learn that the cancellation of the return heavyweight championship match between Joe Louis and Billy Conn was eighth on the list with 18½ points. Leaders in poll:

	1st place votes.	Pts.
N. Y. Yankees in world series	25	90
Brooklyn Dodgers	18	76½
Joe Gordon in world series	9	51
Northwestern football	6	38

DIETL JOINS CAST OF SONJA HENIE SKATING SHOW

Sonja Henie's 1943 Hollywood Ice Revue, which opens in the Stadium Christmas night, has added an eccentric skater for the Chicago, New York, and Detroit performances. He is Fritz Dietl, who joined the troupe yesterday. Dietl had announced his retirement from revue and exhibition skating to teach at Sun Valley, Idaho. The resort, however, has closed.

Dietl, whose specialty is skating on stilts and who also is a partner for Freddy Trenkler in a comedy routine, is no newcomer to Chicago. He first appeared in the Stadium with the European Ice Revue, then returned with the New York show "It Happens on Ice."

Last year he was featured with Miss Henie. This year, in addition to stilt skating, Dietl will be presented in other routines with Trenkler and Leo Freisinger.

FOOTBALL FANS WANT SPORT TO GO ON THRU WAR

They're Willing to Walk to Games, Even.

Twenty-five thousand fans took time off to fill out questionnaires indicating 96 per cent of them want college football continued for the duration, John L. Griffith, commissioner of athletics of the Western conference, announced yesterday.

Griffith said more than 100,000 spectators at 20 major college games were handed the questions and one-fourth of them returned filled in blanks.

"In overwhelming numbers the fans expressed their willingness to use public conveyances and even walk to see the athletes in action," Griffith said.

Sports Stimulate Players.

"A number of fans stressed the fact that youngsters witnessing such competitive sports are stimulated into participating themselves, when otherwise they might not be inspired to engage in athletics."

Ninety-eight per cent of those participating in the pool said football bolsters national morale and helps boys to be better soldiers. The same percentage declared that football revenue justifies the game's continuance since it supports other athletic endeavors.

95 Per Cent Will Walk.

Ninety-seven per cent said all college students should participate in physical fitness programs and 95 per cent argued they would use public conveyances, or walk if necessary, to get to games next fall.

The survey indicated 60 per cent of the fans traveled to games this fall by automobile, 13 per cent by urban public conveyances, 11 per cent by train, and 16 per cent by walking.

Among games where the poll was aken were Northwestern-Notre Dame, Illinois-Great Lakes, Pennsylvania-Cornell, Ohio State-Iowa Seahawks, Southern California-U. C. L. A., Iowa-Michigan, Tennessee-Vanderbilt, Indiana-Purdue, Missouri-Kansas, Indiana-Wisconsin, Kansas State-Nebraska, Wisconsin-Minnesota, Texas-Texas A & M, and Texas Christian-Southern Methodist.

The survey, Griffith said, was conducted by Athletic Institute, Inc., of which he is president.

Cancel Trenton Fight Card; There's Only $120 in Till

Trenton, N. J., Dec. 21 (AP).—There was only $120 in the till so the management canceled the scheduled fight card tonight in the Arena and returned the money to the few customers. Johnny Hutchinson, 137 pounds, of Philadelphia and Bobby Gunter, 134½, of New York had been slated to go eight rounds in the windup bout.

Service Center Gets $300 from Headpin Tourney

Chicago bowlers who have taken part in the headpin tournament being conducted in recreation centers of the city contributed more than $300 toward the service men's bowling center in the Auditorium theater during the first two weeks of December, according to Math Luecker, secretary of the Bowling Proprietors' association of Greater Chicago. Upward of 3,000 bowlers participated during the first two weeks of December, paying 35 cents per game of which 10 cents went into the service center fund and 10 cents into the prize fund.

Thirty prizes, each of which is $3 in war stamps, were mailed yesterday to 20 men and 10 women who bowled during the first two weeks. Results of last week's play are expected in before the close of this week. Winners of the stamp prizes were drawn. At the end of the tournament, which closes Dec. 31, winners of prizes based on scores will be determined.

By winning three games from the Wightmans, the Sundeen Brothers five took second place in the Bryn Mawr Major league. They displaced the Edens, who dropped two to Englewood Electric. Jerry Steinwig's 645 was high solo count. . . . Greene's Restaurant dropped 2,937 pins to shut out the league leading Triangle Liquors in the Beverly Major. Grisham Decorators took third place by blanking the Dr. Kroms. Joe Fliger won individual honors with a 673 series. . . . Wallace Coals, who repelled the threat of the Fritzl Scheffs by taking two from the Scheffs last week, will face more trouble in their battle for the Samuelson Major league lead tomorrow night when they meet the Mee & Ramme five. Other matches:

Old Pogues vs. Waggoner Service; Bergehoff vs. John's Grill; Fritzl Scheffs vs. Dette Realtors.

Ed Guilman rolled 691, the season's high series, in the Hyde Park Major league as National Bank of Hyde Park won the odd game from Du-Bouchett. Isbell's shut out the Dave Eichners by rolling a 2,927 series. . . . The Joseph L. Gills captured the weekly Sunday sweepstakes by firing a 3,158 series including an 1,186 game at Legion Alleys. Ad Carlson racked up a 732 individual series. Ambrosias and Monarchs, with 3,108 and 3,103, respectively, rolled second and third high series.

PROFIT CASHING CANCELS EARLY GAINS BY STOCKS

Tax Selling Acts as Brake on Some Issues.

New York, Dec. 21 (AP)—More profits were cashed today on last week's stock market rally and leading issues were irregular thruout.

Gains of fractions to a point or so were fairly well distributed at the opening but these were reduced or canceled in the final hour, and losses were plentiful at the close.

Tax selling, while relatively small, served as a brake on some stocks. There was a disposition to lighten commitments on the thought that a correction might follow the recent upswing to new tops since October a year ago.

Stock Average Unchanged.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was unchanged at 41.3 for the third time in a row. Continued liveliness of low priced performers put volume at 771,176 shares compared with 1,088,284 Friday, altho there were frequent slowdowns.

Northern Pacific was the most active, up ⅝ at 8½, in reflection of the $1 dividend, first since 1932, declared late Saturday.

Among stocks registering new peaks for the year or longer were Pepsi-Cola, J. I. Case, Union Carbide and Westinghouse Electric.

CHICAGO STOCKS MIXED.

Prices were irregular again yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange on turnover of 27,000 shares. Of 123 issues traded 50 advanced, 40 declined, and 33 were unchanged. New 1942 highs were reached by Chrysler, Deere & Co., Goodyear, International Harvester, and United Airlines.

BOND LIST UNEVEN

New York, Dec. 21 (AP).—The bond market developed numerous individual firm spots today but the general corporate list was hesitant and divided between small gains and losses at the close.

Heavy demand developed early for various obligations of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad following announcement the company had invited tenders for 18 separate issues due all the way from 1949 to the end of this century.

Total sales of $9,002,000, compared with $10,734,900 Friday.

Cotton futures yesterday rose to the best levels in four months, closing at 10 to 65 cents a bale higher. Traders attributed the advance to aggressive trade and commission house buying on expectations of a more liberal farm price policy next year. Wool tops futures closed 0.7 cent lower. Trading was quiet.

ALUMINUM WAR EXPANSION NETS BILLION POUNDS

Shoot at Twice This Amount in 1943.

Roy A. Hunt.

How the aluminum industry in the United States has expanded production swiftly to feed the metal hungry aircraft plants and other war factories was told yesterday by Roy A. Hunt, president of Aluminum Company of America.

In a review of the industry for 1942, Hunt reported these developments:

1. During the year the United States produced more than 1 billion pounds of aluminum, more than all of Nazi controled Europe, and probably eight times Japan's output.

Expansion Program Nears End.

2. Aluminum company's 250 million dollar expansion is nearing completion, and when the plants it is building for the government are completed and the 1943 peak is reached, America's privately owned and government financed production capacity will be 2 billion 100 million pounds a year, 63 per cent more than world output of 1938, before the war began.

3. Aluminum company's output of aluminum forgings is 25 times as large as it was before the war, castings production is 11 times larger, and output of tubing and extruded shapes has been multiplied nine times.

4. One aluminum sheet mill is producing in a month 1⅛ times as much high strength alloy sheet, the kind used in aircraft, as the entire nation used in a year before the war. The mill, a new one, can roll sheet 50 times as fast as any mill could produce two years ago. Two more such mills, one in the midwest and one in the northwest, are nearing completion.

Too Busy to Brag of Job.

"The world has been told the story of America's miracles of war production, but industry has been too busy producing to publicize the efficiency with which the job is being done," Hunt said.

"With millions of our ablest men in the war and many more to go, the intelligent use of man-hours becomes one of the first patriotic duties of a manufacturer."

Hunt declared that as industry learns to meet the challenge to be efficient in wartime, it "automatically prepares itself for a successful continuation of the American system in a highly competitive post-war economy."

Aluminum company is optimistic about the post-war era, he said.

"Years of doing without create an enormous demand for the products of industry after the war, and years of saving in war bonds will provide the money with which to buy these products," said Hunt.

Aluminum Geography Changed.

War has changed the geography of the aluminum industry, so that it is no longer concentrated largely in the east, he added. In peace time, aluminum plants were located near sources of hydro-electric power and the fabricating plants were mostly found near peace time markets. Now, however, aircraft plants have sprung up in the west, and inexpensive power is available there, Hunt observed, adding:

"One of the largest sheet mills in the world soon will be turning out aluminum sheet, the 'skin' for bombers, near the shores of Lake Michigan. An extrusion plant is taking shape in the southwest. New ore and metal producing plants are nearing completion in the south central region."

Aluminum company has built or is building, without profit, 21 major plant projects for the government, and will operate them under lease. Hunt said some of the plants have been put in operation this year, and that all will be in production in 1943.

Reviews Price Reductions.

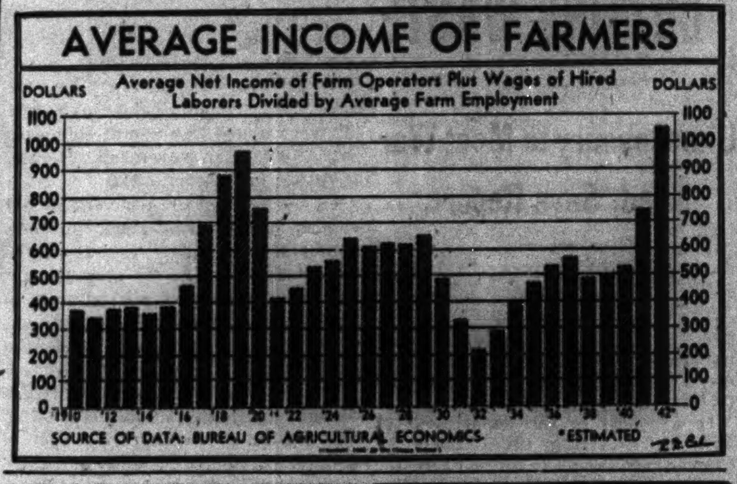
He also reviewed reduction in the price of aluminum from 20 cents a pound before the war. Four cuts put the price down to 15 cents, and recently it has been quoted at 14 cents.

Rapid expansion created a management problem, with such personnel spread "very thin," Hunt said, but many salesmen soon became capable plant managers and coördinators of material, equipment and supplies.

Standardization of buildings and machinery was credited with speeding constructing new plants, 72 large buildings being constructed from a single set of shop drawings in one case.

Development by engineers and scientists of lighter alloys and new processes of forging is cutting the weight and increasing the speed of warplanes, said Hunt. New processes permit use of low grade bauxite ores, helping safeguard the nation against a shortage.

"When the war is over," said Hunt, "we will be able to return to a peacetime economy in which the metal again will take its place in the many civilian products for which it is suited."



Strike Slows Goodyear Gun Plant Output

Jackson, Mich., Dec. 21 (AP).—A strike of several hundred union members employed at the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company today hampered production in the company's gun plant here, which operated with only a fraction of its normal force.

Company officials and leaders of the United Rubber Workers [CIO] local union conferred in an attempt to settle the dispute which centered in arrangements for Sunday work at the plant.

Caused by Cut in Force.

A notice posted by the company Friday, announcing that only 75 per cent of the Sunday shift was to report, set off the dispute. Local union members at a meeting decided the entire force should be given Sunday work, or none would work, and directed unionists to remain away from the plant.

A company spokesman said Friday's notice was intended to avoid payment of double time for a large number of new employés being trained for work in the plant.

Strike Hits Armor Output.

Cleveland, O., Dec. 21 (AP).—A strike by CIO unionists tonight curtailed production of armor plate at the Cleveland plant of Republic Steel corporation, Vice President C. M. White of Republic said in an appeal for intervention by the war labor board.

White asserted the strike was called by the grievance committee of local 2265, CIO United Steelworkers of America, and affected operations of Republic's huge continuous strip mill. He attributed the strike to a dispute over work schedules and double time rates.

Eureka Workers Return.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 21 (AP).—Strikers were called back to their jobs of making war material at the Eureka Vacuum Cleaner company plant today after a 5 a. m. agreement between representatives of the company and the Mechanics Educational Society of America, independent union. The strike closed the plant Saturday.

STOUT, INVENTOR, AND LAB ENGAGED BY CONSOLIDATED

San Diego, Cal., Dec. 21 (AP).—T. M. Girdler, chairman of the board of the Consolidated Aircraft corporation, announced today William B. Stout, Detroit inventor and engineer who developed the first all-metal commercial airplane, and the services of the Stout Engineering laboratories at Dearborn, Mich., had been engaged by the corporation.

Details were not disclosed, but the announcement said the Stout organization would continue its creative research work in improving aircraft and allied products and in developing new product ideas.

The Stout laboratories will become the Stout Research Division of Consolidated. The Consolidated company builds "Liberator" bombers and "Catalina" and "Coronado" flying boats.

EXPORTS DURING FIRST 11 MONTHS 56 PCT. HIGHER THAN YEAR AGO

Washington, D. C., Dec. 21 (AP).—The value of exports for the first 11 months of this year rose to more than 7 billion dollars, an increase of 56 per cent above the first 11 months of 1941, the census bureau reported today.

The total value of exports thru November was $7,018,564,000, including lend-lease goods, the bureau said, as compared with $4,494,408,000 in the period last year. November exports were $785,092,000, surpassing the previous 1942 monthly high of $766,036,000 established in September.

The value of general imports of merchandise during the first 11 months of this year was off 20 per cent from the 1941 total and imports for consumption were off 17 per cent. General imports in November amounted to $167,543,000, the lowest monthly total of the year.

OPERATIONS OF 4 TRUCK CONCERNS WILL BE MERGED

Four transportation companies operating in the midwest were granted authority yesterday by the office of defense transportation in Washington to coördinate their over-the-road operations.

The companies are Burlington Transportation company, Chicago; American Freight lines, Peoria; Merchants Motor Freight, Inc., St. Paul, Minn., and Dohrn Transfer company, Rock Island. Routes affected are between Chicago and Peoria; Des Moines, Ia., and Omaha, Neb.; Des Moines and St. Louis; Chicago and Rock Island; Moline and East Moline, and between Rock Island and points between Kewanee and Peoria.

ODT said that the companies acted voluntarily, that the arrangement will save about 1½ million tire miles annually without reducing service, and that it will make more trucks available for hauling civilian goods. Deliveries will be consolidated.

NO. 1 WAR JOB IS PRODUCTION, SAYS GOV. GREEN

Joliet, Ill., Dec. 21 [Special].—Gov. Green today told employés of the Kankakee ordnance works they are engaged in America's main job in the war—production. He was the principal speaker at presentation of the joint army-navy "E" award for high achievement in production.

Col. T. C. Gerber, army field director of ammunition plants, presented the "E" flag to Philip S. Cushing, works manager. Lt. Comm. P. J. Griffin, naval inspector of ordnance, presented "E" pins to Donald L. Puckett, chairman of the plant war production drive committee, who accepted for the employés.

Elmes Machine Company Sold to Steel Foundries

The Charles F. Elmes Engineering works, 91 year old maker of hydraulic machinery, 230 North Morgan street, was bought yesterday by American Steel Foundries for an undisclosed consideration.

PEOPLE AND EVENTS

Patrick D. Fox, vice president of the Borden company, who started work with the concern 46 years ago in Chicago as a milk wagon driver, will retire this month. He formerly was president of the International Association of Milk Dealers and of the New York Milk Conference board. He was a founder of the Milk Research council, director of the Greater New York Safety council and a member of the American Arbitration association. He is a resident of West Orange, N. J.

Patrick D. Fox.

Resignation of Claude E. Hamilton Jr., as general counsel of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, and the election of John D. Goodloe to succeed him, was announced yesterday by Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones. Goodloe has served with the RFC, the farm credit administration, the Commodity Credit corporation, and the Defense Supplies corporation since 1933.

Joseph L. Weiner, who recently succeeded Leon Henderson as director of the war production board's division of civilian supply, will speak at the National Retail Furniture association's annual industry dinner in the Palmer House Jan. 5, Roscoe R. Rau, association executive vice president and secretary, announced.

Raymond K. Stritzinger has been elected president of Continental Baking company, succeeding M. Lee Marshall, who held that position for almost a decade in addition to serving as board chairman.

The Central Republic company, Chicago investment firm, announced the election of James M. Pigott and Robert Mason as vice presidents. Pigott was manager of the sales department, and Mason was in the buying department. Both have been with the company since its formation.

WANTED!
Position as Works or Factory Manager
To a technical college training, I have added 25 years of practical experience. In the multiple responsibilities of plant manager I have been successful, notably in material control, machine control, planning for mass and precision production, cost and incentive set-ups, labor relationships.
My experience has been in the fabrication of ferrous and non-ferrous metals and alloys; the assembly of mechanical and electrical products, together with tool and machine design for those products.
While I am familiar with the unusual requirements of war material production, my aim is to qualify for a permanent position shortly after January 15, 1943.

Triple Damage from 9 Firms Asked by Dairy

The Meadowmoor Dairies yesterday filed suit in the federal District court against nine well known companies, charging that they had conspired to fix the price of milk and cheese in Illinois and Wisconsin markets. Meadowmoor asserted that as a result it has lost $84,000 and asked treble damages.

The defendants are Armour & Co., Cudahy Packing company, Swift & Co., Wilson & Co., Kraft Cheese company, National Cheese company, Pabst-Ett corporation, the Wheeler corporation, and the J. S. Hoffman company.

Named in Indictments.

The above defendants were named in indictments along with 96 other corporations and individuals filed in the District court last March on charges of conspiring to fix cheese prices in violation of the anti-trust act. The trial has been ordered for next month.

The suit filed in behalf of Meadowmoor by Attorney Joseph R. Roach charges that the defendants, by fixing a fictitious and higher price for cheese, indirectly fixed a higher price for fluid milk.

Asserts Excess Price Paid.

The plaintiff company said that because of the alleged market manipulation it has been forced to pay a higher price for milk and during the period Sept. 1, 1939, to Sept. 1, 1941, paid $24,000 in excess of a normal price that would prevail in a free market.

The suit alleged that, in addition, the company's market has been destroyed to the extent of $60,000. Under the anti-trust laws the plaintiff may ask for triple damages. The suit has been assigned to Judge Michael L. Igoe.

HEAD OF U. G. I. SILENT ON PLANS OF DISSOLUTION

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 21 (AP).—William W. Bodine, president of the United Gas Improvement company, said today he had "no comment" on published reports that U. G. I. is ready to drop its seven year fight against the public utility holding company act and file a dissolution plan.

At Bodine's office, however, it was said the reports would be discussed at a press conference tomorrow. U. G. I. is the nation's oldest public utility holding company. Ganson Purcell, chairman of the Securities and Exchange commission, said no dissolution plan for U. G. I. had been received.

"Our staff has been carrying on conversations with executives of U. G. I., as it has with officials of many companies," Purcell said, "but I do not know whether U. G. I. has decided to submit a plan."

DEMANDS ACTION ON LONGER WORK WEEK IN MINES

Washington, D. C., Dec. 21 (AP).—Solid Fuels Coördinator Harold L. Ickes today called upon representatives of workers and operators in the bituminous coal mining industries "to settle their controversy and to act at the earliest possible time" to carry out his request to discard the present five day, 35 hour weekly limitation on the hours of work in the mines.

Ickes asserted that "expeditious action" was necessary to assure an adequate supply of soft coal to meet growing war and essential civilian requirements. He sent identical letters to John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, and Ezran Van Horn of Cleveland, chairman of the Appalachian Joint conference, an operators' organization.

DRESS INDUSTRY PROTESTS OPA'S MARK UP CURBS

New York, Dec. 21 (AP).—The New York Dress Institute today protested an OPA regulation restricting mark up on the industry's spring models.

The institute, representing 800 manufacturers in the metropolitan area, said the OPA's regulation 287, issued last Monday, would put them out of business.

The order limits the mark up of dresses to 22 per cent, and if the mark up was already greater, regulations call for a reduction of 10 per cent.

SLAUGHTER DIP CAUSES ALARM ON MEAT YIELD

Cattle, Hog Supplies Below Quotas.

BY ARNOLD ERICKSON.

Another decrease in cattle supplies at all packing centers in the country and a decline in production of pork, lard, lamb, and mutton was regarded with apprehension yesterday as lend-lease and army demands increased. Cattle marketing, which began to dwindle about a month ago, reached a seven month low.

As supplies available to the packers have fallen below the government's goal, part of the diversion was explained in the trade by the big increase reported in the business of thousands of meat locker companies thruout the country.

Packers said they believed some illegal traffic is carried on under cover of such plants, most of them located in farming areas. It was considered next to impossible to police all sales from the refrigerated lockers to determine if ceiling prices have not been violated.

Only 10,000 Cattle Arrive.

Only 10,000 cattle arrived in the Chicago stockyards, the smallest Monday total since May 11. This compared with 15,914 a week earlier. Volume at 20 leading packing centers dropped to 64,000 from 94,000 on Monday last week, and was 11 per cent under a year ago. During the first 21 days this month Chicago received 114,100 cattle, compared with 127,600 in 1941, the smallest December supply in three years.

Small receipts are attributed to abnormally heavy selling of cattle at light weights during the summer and fall as a result of ceiling price actions that discouraged heavier feeding.

Smaller cattle marketing has not come as a surprise to packers, but stockyard interests had few ready explanations of the sudden dip in pork and lard production, which normally increases at this season. In view of the department of agriculture estimate of a record pig crop in 1942, the industry had been expecting continued heavy volume.

Pork and Lard Disappoint.

Actual production of pork and lard in federally inspected packing plants has fallen steadily below the tonnage the government has expected as it increased lend-lease requirements periodically. Federal experts had expected a slaughter of more than 6 million hogs in inspected plants last month. The actual number butchered was a record 5,022,659, but 20 per cent below the estimate. The December total was expected to exceed 7 million head but current volume is running far below this goal.

The Chicago yards yesterday received 27,500 hogs, the smallest Monday total since the middle of November. Eleven major markets handled 117,000, which was 10 per cent less than a week earlier. Only 13,000 sheep and lambs arrived, the smallest for a Monday since October.

Price advances have revived speculation as to possible action on price ceilings for live animals by the office of price administration. Advances in the hog market the last two weeks have been among the largest in many months, to the highest December level in 24 years.

All Prices Advance.

In the last 11 days the average price of hogs has moved up from $13.55 to $14.40 a hundred pounds, representing an increase of $2.15 per head. It was estimated that the 11 day rise added more than 90 million dollars to the value of 1942 spring pigs still on farms.

Lively bidding sent prices up mostly 25 to 30 cents yesterday, bringing top loads up to $14.60 and the average to $14.40.

Advances of 25 cents were general in the market for steers and yearlings, with the general price level above the basis processors consider profitable under the new "dollar and cents" ceilings on wholesale beef. Top steers brought $16.75, while the bulk sold from $14 to $15.75.

Swift & Co. Profit for Year Slumps Despite Record Output

John Holmes.

Swift & Co., first of the "big four" packers to report the results of a hectic fiscal year in packing brought on by price ceilings and efforts to meet the vast war demands for meat, yesterday disclosed a reduction in profits notwithstanding the largest production in history.

Net income for the fiscal year ended Oct. 31 was $16,972,721, equal to $2.83 a share, compared with $17,808,725, or $3.01 a share in the preceding fiscal year, which contained 53 weeks. The earnings were realized on gross sales of $1,409,405,770, which were 38 per cent larger than in the preceding accounting period.

Tax Bill Treble Year Ago.

The company, whose world wide operations are directed from Chicago, set aside $26,452,984 to meet federal income and excess profits taxes, more than triple the $7,971,687 of the preceding year.

John Holmes, president, told stockholders that heavy losses were incurred in the operation of the company's fresh beef and pork business in the latter part of the fiscal year. These were offset by profits in other divisions. He expressed the hope the recent change in ceiling prices for beef and pork, which establish uniform basic ceilings for all packers, will be helpful "in reëstablishing moderate profits" on fresh beef and pork.

"Competition forced us to pay more for cattle and hogs than we could realize under our ceiling price limitations for the fresh meat and by-products from this live stock," Holmes said.

Losses Continue Longer.

"In the past, when normal competitive trading conditions prevailed, periods of excessive losses in the fresh meat sections have been of relatively short duration," Holmes asserted. "In recent months losses have continued for a longer period than usual because demand continued to exceed supply without the corrective effect of a price 'brake' on demand due, of course, to the imposition of ceiling prices."

Commenting on volume increases brought about by military and lend-lease demands, he said that whereas Swift in 1941 was equipped to produce less than 2 million pounds of canned meat a week, it is now able to turn out more than 8 million pounds weekly.

In tonnage of meat and other food products produced during the fiscal year Swift's total was 6.8 per cent higher than in the preceding year and at a new peak, Holmes said.

COOK COUNTY CAPITAL STOCK ASSESSMENTS OF CORPORATIONS CUT

The 1942 capital stock assessment on 4,000 corporations in Cook county totals $48,174,820, compared with the 1941 total of $48,434,324, the Illinois state tax commission announced yesterday. Capital stock valuation is an appraisal of the intangible value of a business, and is based on asset appraisals, earnings, and prices of bonds and stocks.

Comparative assessment figures on Chicago utilities are:

Rule Federal Tax on Coal May Go on Consumer's Bill

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 21 (AP).—A new federal tax of 4 cents per net ton on all grades of coal and coke may be added as a separate item to consumers' bills, in addition to present ceiling prices, the Illinois OPA office ruled today.

ILLINOIS FIGHTS IDLENESS AMID WORKER DEARTH

Criticize U. S. Policy as Neglectful.

Illinois has protested against the federal policy under which idle workers in "nonessential" industries have been denied federal help in getting jobs in nonwar industries, and steps have been taken to work out a solution to the problem early in 1943, Samuel Bernstein, commissioner of placement and unemployment compensation in the Illinois department of labor, said yesterday.

In an address at a meeting at the Sherman hotel sponsored by the Chicago Association of Commerce, Bernstein said:

"The unemployment compensation division made known its concern to Washington authorities about the [large] compensation claims load in Illinois at a time when industry, in the main, was crying for workers," Bernstein said.

Plan to Improve Situation.

"Since then, plans have been developed for referral during January and the first half of February of all claimants to the employment service for what we call spot placement, that is, to attempt to find a job for such claimants immediately.

"Beginning Feb. 13 it is proposed that detailed questionnaires will be filled out by all benefit claimants to determine why they are unemployed. This survey, if plans are carried out, will cover a period of a month from Feb. 13 and will be nationwide. It is hoped our claims load will be materially reduced."

Bernstein said that ever since July the unemployment compensation division has been "plagued" with complaints from employers and workers in the nonwar industries that they were not being serviced by the United States employment service.

Explanation Demanded.

"At Gov. Green's request," said Bernstein, "the Illinois department of labor demanded an explanation from federal authorities, who replied that the employment service had to curtail activities with respect to nonessential industries because it had to give first attention to industries more directly related to the war effort. It was further contended that sufficient funds had not been made available to the service."

Bernstein said the work of establishing merit ratings for employers is being pushed by his division, and that test runs have been made which indicate that the new rates for 1943

Four Wartime Estate Suggestions
EACH of these four suggestions is worth checking at once to see if it applies to your own situation:
1. If you have less time to manage your own investments: Establish a Supervised Agency Account to receive recommendations from our experienced trust organization on changes in your investments which seem desirable—or create a trust with an experienced bank as trustee.
2. If your estate arrangements are affected by recent changes in living costs, taxes, and other conditions resulting from the war: Re-plan your will in the light of wartime facts.
3. If you have established revocable trusts for the protection of your dependents, but have not considered the effect of present economic conditions: Review the provisions in detail with competent advisers.
4. If you have named as executor or trustee under your will an individual who may be unavailable, inexperienced, or busy with other affairs when the time comes for him to act: Name a corporate executor or trustee such as The First National Bank of Chicago.
The experience of this bank is available in bringing your estate plans up to date. You and your lawyer are invited to discuss your present-day problems with an officer of our Trust Department.

WHEAT FUTURES DECLINE AFTER ATTAINING HIGHS

Corn Prices Uneven, with Oats and Rye Lower.

Wheat futures broke about 1½ cents a bushel on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday to close lower after moderate buying earlier had lifted the December and July deliveries to new seasonal highs and enabled May to equal its year's peak. The market declined on selling that apparently was hedging and profit taking, while a drop of 2 cents at Minneapolis also had a depressing influence. The active mill buying of last week was absent.

At the close wheat was off ⅞ to 1¼ cent. Other grains also were unsettled, with corn up ⅛ cent in the December delivery, but down ⅝ to ½ cent in the other contracts; rye off ½ to 1 cent, and oats, ⅛ to ⅜ cent. Soy beans were unchanged to ⅛ cent lower.

Watch Marketing Closely.

Wheat traders watched closely the volume of country marketings since prices are well above the loan level. At its high for the day December wheat sold at $1.37⅛, or ⅝ cent a bushel above the loan basis.

The weakness at Minneapolis, where coöperatives were reported selling cash wheat, tended to create the belief among operators in Chicago that country sales are increasing. It was also reported that farmers are selling grain more freely in the southwest.

The Chicago cash wheat market showed little change, with grain still tightly held by producers and prices at peaks for five years and longer.

Drops From Highs.

Corn futures were strong early, December and May selling at their top prices since mid-August and July and September at new seasonal highs. Profit selling and the weakness of wheat caused the market to drop nearly a cent from its best prices.

Old cash corn sold up to 93¼ cents a bushel, highest since 1937, and the choice qualities continued firm.

Commission house buying supported rye at the opening, but scattered selling on the advance weakened the market. Oats were firm with corn early, but met with local and commission house selling. Demand for cash oats was less active, while only a fair shipping demand was reported.

WINTER WHEAT PLANTING FALLS UNDER YEAR AGO

Washington, D. C., Dec. 21 (AP).—The department of agriculture today estimated that 37,482,000 acres had been planted for the 1943 winter wheat crop and probably would produce 624,504,000 bushels.

The acreage is 2 per cent less than the total of 38,339,000 a year ago and the production forecast is 11 per cent less than the large 1942 crop of 703,253,000 bushels.

Growing conditions were reported favorable in most sections, altho there was too much rain in Pennsylvania and a deficiency in Illinois, Washington, and Oregon.

The indicated yield was estimated at 16.7 bushels an acre, less than last year's 18.3 bushels but above the average of 11.8 bushels.

ILLINOIS FIGHTS IDLENESS AMID WORKER DEARTH

U.S. Policy Criticized as Neglectful.

will be ready in time to enable employers to know their individual rates before they file returns for the first quarter of 1943.

Under the merit plan an employer who has a small labor turnover and few layoffs will pay a lower rate of contribution to the compensation fund than one with a less favorable record.

According to the test runs, if the merit plan had been in effect when the tests were made, 6,925 Illinois employers, or 16 per cent of the total, would have been entitled to a rate of 0.5 per cent of pay rolls, 4,261 to a rate of 1 per cent, 2,799 to 1½ per cent, 1,921 to 2 per cent, 1,321 to 2½ per cent, 21,407 to 2.7 per cent, 855 to 3 per cent, and 3,853 to a rate of 3.6 per cent, the maximum when the plan goes into effect.

Bernstein expressed concern over the potential liability against the unemployment compensation trust fund which he said is developing and will put a "tremendous" strain on the fund when the war is over.

Illinois Leads Other States.

J. T. Meek, secretary of the Illinois Federation of Retail associations, said retailers at the meeting voiced satisfaction over Bernstein's disclosure that Illinois probably will have the merit ratings ready on time. Meek said Illinois will be one of a few states that will have completed the large amount of preliminary work required. Most retailers, he added, will qualify for a contribution rate of 1 to 1½ per cent.

At present an employer pays the state a contribution equal to 2.7 per cent of his pay roll and pays the federal fund 0.3 per cent, with no distinction between employers on the basis of low or high labor turnover.

CHICAGO CHAPTER OF SKAL CLUB IS HEADED BY WALL

Thomas J. Wall, general agent of the Canadian Pacific Railway company, was elected president of the Chicago chapter of the Skal Club of North America, it was announced yesterday. The club, limited to a membership of 60, is an organization of executives of steamship, air and rail lines, and affiliated businesses.

W. Franklin Crum, manager of the Cunard-White Star Line, was named vice president; F. G. Scott, general agent of the Northern Pacific railway, secretary, and Harry T. Harlow, general passenger agent of the Erie railroad, treasurer.

New executive committee members are A. D. Martin, passenger traffic manager of the Rock Island railroad; W. F. Fox, of the American Express company; George Hatch of United Air Lines, and A. P. Van der Burch of the Holland American Line.

Ceiling Data Not Received So Poultry Can't Be Priced

The Chicago poultry board announced prices for live birds arriving here over the week-end could not be established yesterday because recently revised ceiling regulations had not been received from Washington, D. C. The board hoped to resume regular market quotations today. Most live poultry has been quoted at ceiling levels.

DOW CHEMICAL.

What are some of the principal products of Dow Chemical company? A report on recent operations will be appreciated.—F. G. H.

Answer: From large saline deposits in Michigan, this company obtains bromine, chlorine, magnesium, and caustic soda. The largest producer of bromine in the United States, Dow Chemical prior to 1941 was the sole domestic source for magnesium. Since 1941, however, the company has granted licenses to large corporations to produce magnesium metals needed for war materials.

Dow Chemical manufactures from the chemicals extracted from salt solutions more than 300 products, including plastics, phenol, pharmaceutical chemicals, aniline dyes, and synthetic rubber.

Almost all chemicals produced are essential in the manufacture of munitions and other war materials. The company is operating several government owned plants built recently to increase the output of essential chemicals.

Dow Chemical was incorporated in 1897 in Michigan as successor to the Dow Process company. Main plant is in Midland, Mich., and others are in Texas and California. Capitalization at the end of 1941 consisted of 1,248,706 shares of no par common stock outstanding, and 60,000 shares of 5 per cent cumulative $100 par preferred. Funded debt was 13½ million dollars.

A record of financial results for recent fiscal years ended May 31 follows:

	Sales.	Net income.	Per share [Com.]
1942	$78,359,997	$9,221,486	$7.14
1941	46,907,950	7,770,547	6.58
1940	37,743,574	7,159,167	6.65
1939	26,762,282	4,178,485	3.76
1938	24,871,196	3,895,268	3.91

Profit in the quarter ended Aug. 31, 1942, totaled $2,147,705, equal to $1.66 per share of common stock, compared with $2,104,282, or $1.79 a share, for the corresponding period of 1941.

Dividends paid on the common shares in recent calendar years were $2.85 in 1937 and $3 in each year from 1938 thru 1941. Listed on the New York Stock exchange, the shares ranged from 79½ to 171 from 1937 thru 1941.

ACCUMULATIONS.

How much are accumulations on the $1.50 preference stock of Central Illinois Securities corporation?—V. N.

Answer: After payment of a 50 cent dividend on the issue on Dec. 28, arrears will amount to $6.12½ a share.

FOREST YIELDS UNDERMINED BY CUTTING WASTE

Unnecessary to Meet War Need, Says Report.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 21 (AP).—The United States forest service declared today that the future productivity of the nation's forests is being undermined by destructive cutting to meet wartime needs for wood and forestry materials.

In a report to the department of agriculture Acting Chief Earle H. Clapp urged action to protect forestry resources for the sake of future generations.

Needs Can Be Met.

"Developments in the first year of the war," he said, "bring into focus the inadequacy of the nation's present forestry effort and the threat to the security of rural people thruout our forest regions which is inherent in the current situation."

While agreeing that it is necessary to supply war requirements for lumber, the forestry chief said that needs could be met if the forestry industry followed recommended cutting and restoration practices.

"Our tolerance of destructive liquidation over the years means that we no longer have abundant saw timber supplies accessible thruout the country," said Clapp.

Depend on Pacific Coast.

"We now have to search out isolated remnants of timber for specialty uses. For timber of high quality we have to depend altogether too heavily on the remaining virgin stands on the Pacific coast. This involves long and costly hauls to industrial centers at a time when transportation facilities are already severely taxed."

Asserting that wood would be needed to rebuild the post-war world, Clapp said:

"We do not want to find, after the war is over, that we ourselves have unnecessarily impaired or destroyed one of the basic resources of the land we have been fighting to protect."

B. & O. INVITES TENDERS ON 18 BONDS, NOTES

New York, Dec. 21 (AP).—The Baltimore and Ohio railroad has asked for tenders on 18 different bonds and notes of its own lines and those of affiliates, the invitation to remain open until Jan. 16.

Those desiring to sell their obligations must state the selling price. The securities chosen for the tender invitations have maturities ranging all the way from 1949 to 2000.

Roy B. White, president, said the purpose of issuing the invitation was to give all security holders an opportunity to share in the record wartime earnings of the company by selling their securities.

January Potatoes, Onions Slump to Seasonal Lows

January potato futures broke 5 cents to a seasonal low of $2.99 a 100 pounds on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday and January onions declined 6 cents to $1.52 a 50 pound sack. Both final prices were lows. The declines were attributed to large local supplies and selling caused by the OPA order modifying differentials for grades and sizes and providing a new pricing systems for country shippers. Butter and egg futures were inactive at ceiling levels.

Superb Packing Company Buys Levi & Co., Inc., Plant

The Superb Packing company, Inc., yesterday bought the 4 story plant of David Levi & Co., Inc., at the southwest corner of Pershing road and Emerald avenue, for $210,000. Superb will operate it as a beef packing plant under the management of Maurice Freund, former vice president of David Levi & Co., which has been dissolved.

Eastern Grocery Chain Buys Midwest Packer

Lincoln, Neb., Dec. 21 (AP).—Sale of the Lincoln Packing company to the American Stores company of Philadelphia, which operates grocery and meat markets in the middle Atlantic states, was announced today. The sale price was not given. The purchasers will conduct the packing company business under its present name.

BUILDING IN ILLINOIS SLUMPS 56 PER CENT DURING LAST MONTH

Building of all types in Illinois cities during November was 56.8 per cent below the corresponding month last year and 4.1 per cent below October, 1942. Permits valued at $3,846,152 were issued last month compared with $8,894,098 in November, 1941, and $4,010,926 in October, 1942.

An increase of 186 per cent in November permit valuations for new nonresidential construction above October was shown in the monthly survey by the Illinois department of labor, but decreases of 24 per cent were made in both new residential building and alterations.

The total number of permits issued during the first 11 months of 1942 was 26,735, at an estimated cost of $67,579,337, compared with 37,079 permits at an estimated cost of $134,093,959 in the corresponding period last year.

WORK IS STARTED ON EASTERN LEG OF OIL PIPE LINE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 21 (AP).—Despite cold weather, construction of the 857 mile eastward leg of the 24 inch war emergency oil pipe line from Norris City, Ill., to refineries at New York and Philadelphia began today on the main line section west of Phoenixville Junction, Pa.

Petroleum Administrator Harold L. Ickes announced that the first of the veteran pipe line crews on whom he said he was counting for "record construction" welded the first pipe this morning.

Deputy Administrator Ralph K. Davies said more than 160 miles of pipe line for the eastward leg had been delivered to distribution points along the right of way, and that delivery of crude and fuel oils to eastern terminals would begin by midsummer if pumping and terminal equipment could be obtained on schedule.

INDUSTRY OUTPUT RISES SLIGHTLY FOR NOVEMBER

Washington, D. C., Dec. 21 (AP).—The federal reserve board reported today that industrial production in November rose slightly above that of October, the result of a continued growth of output in war industries and a seasonal decline in production of civilian foods.

Distribution of commodities to consumers rose further in November and the first half of December, the board said, and retail food prices continued to advance.

The board attributed a rise in November industrial production on its seasonally adjusted index from 189 to 191 per cent of the 1935-'39 average to a further advance in output of durable goods manufactures.

O'Leary and Son Forge Concern to Change Name

The name of the Arthur J. O'Leary & Son company, one of Chicago's early forge shops, will be changed to the Kelly-O'Leary Steel works effective Jan. 1, William J. Kelly, president, announced yesterday. The business was established as Smith & O'Leary in 1874. Kelly is president of the Machinery and Allied Products institute and a past president of the Economic Club of Chicago.

Jewel Tea Sales Climb 23 Per Cent in 4 Weeks

Sales of the Jewel Tea company in the four weeks ended Dec. 5 totaled $4,671,055, or 23.87 per cent more than in the parallel 1941 weeks, the company announced yesterday from headquarters in Barrington. The volume of business in the first 48 weeks of the year was $48,619,058, an increase of 33.04 per cent above the 1941 period.

NEW PEAK SET BY BUILDING IN THIRD QUARTER

Washington, D. C., Dec. 21 (AP).—Construction reached the highest level in history during the third quarter of this year, the commerce department reported today in estimating the total of 1942 expenditures for new building at 13.5 billion dollars. The nation spent 11 billions for new construction in 1941.

Building of war housing to accommodate the prospective movements of workers into new production areas probably will be fairly sustained, the department said.

Military and naval building more than doubled this year compared with 1941 and factory construction was up 80 per cent, but the building of private homes was cut in half, the department's summary said.

DON'T BORROW
Borrowing is not always the proper solution to a money shortage. But there are times when a loan is both provident and wise. For instance, you might borrow to move into a more economical house, nearer to work . . . to pay cash for medical and dental attention before your favorite doctor is called into the armed forces . . . to buy winter fuel and clothing . . . to clean up past due charge accounts and other bills . . . to buy tools, to pay union dues, or to take special courses for a new job on war production . . . and for many other purposes equally worthy. Loans $10 to $300. "While you wait" service to those who phone ahead or come prepared to present proper identification and evidence of employment.

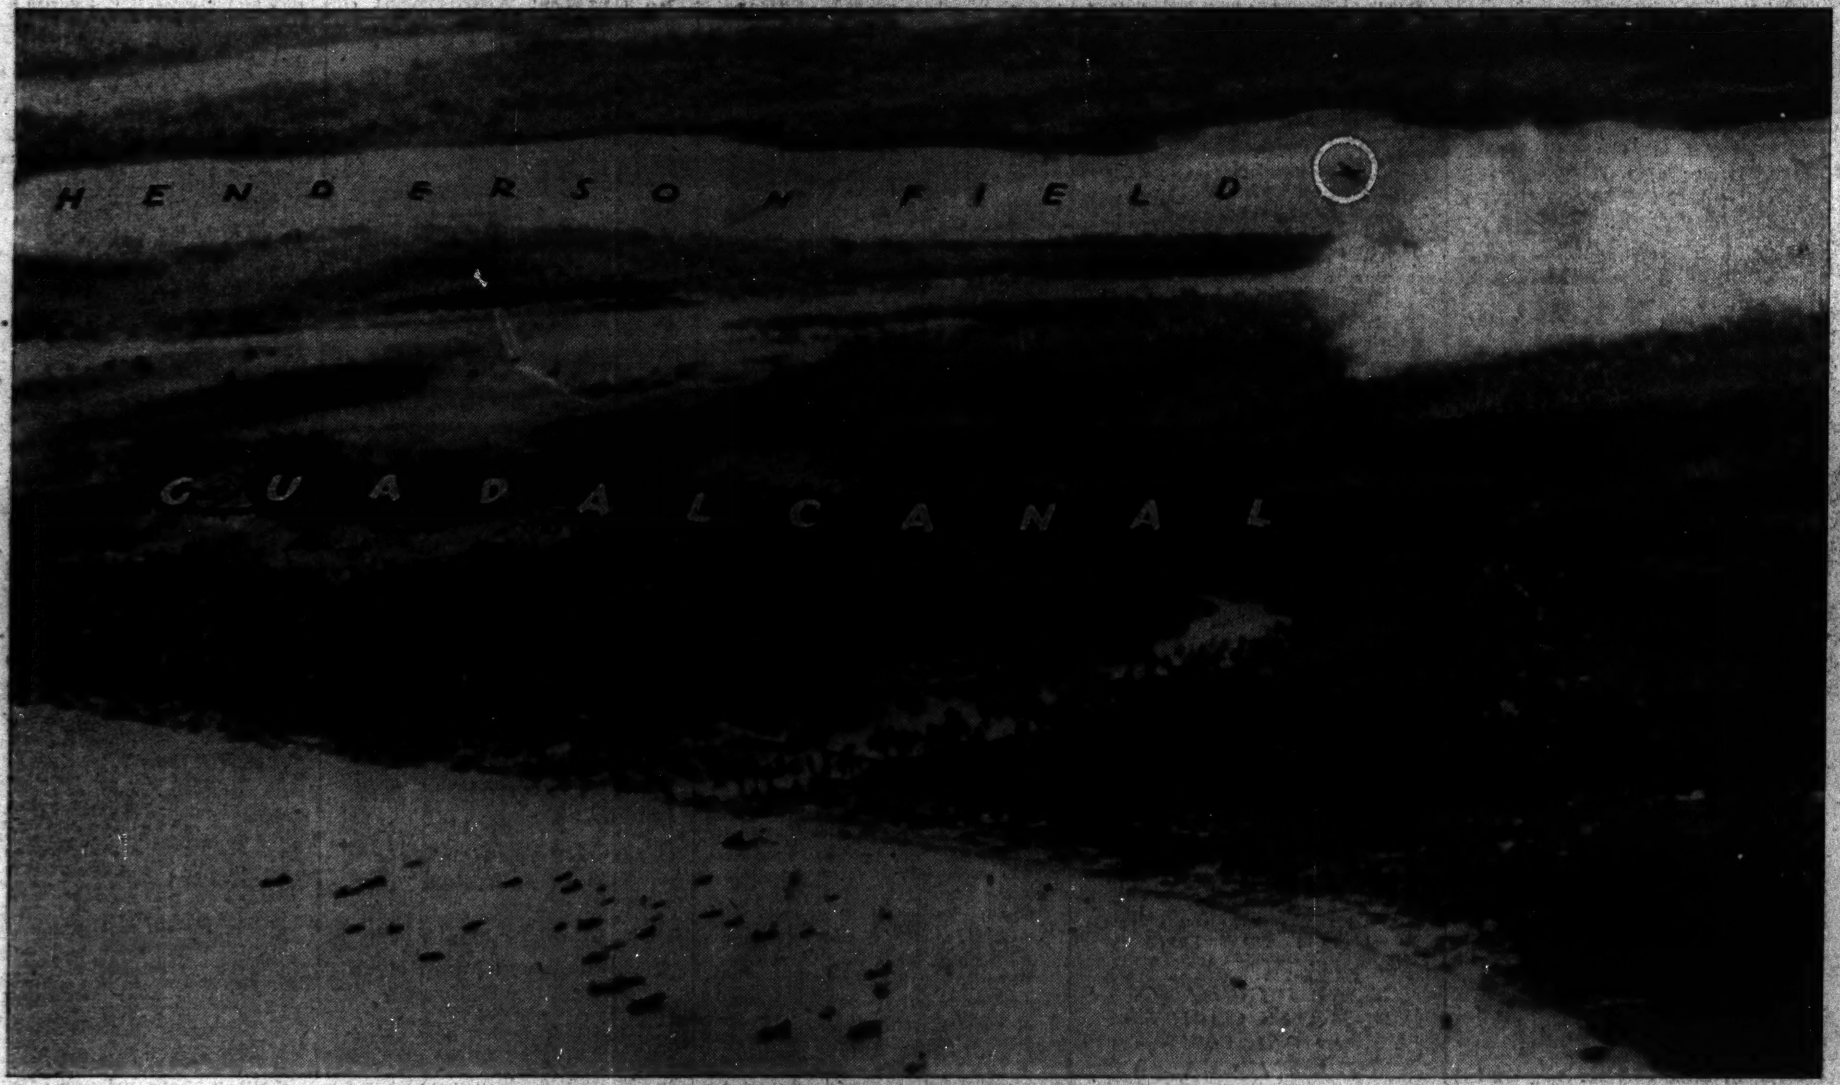
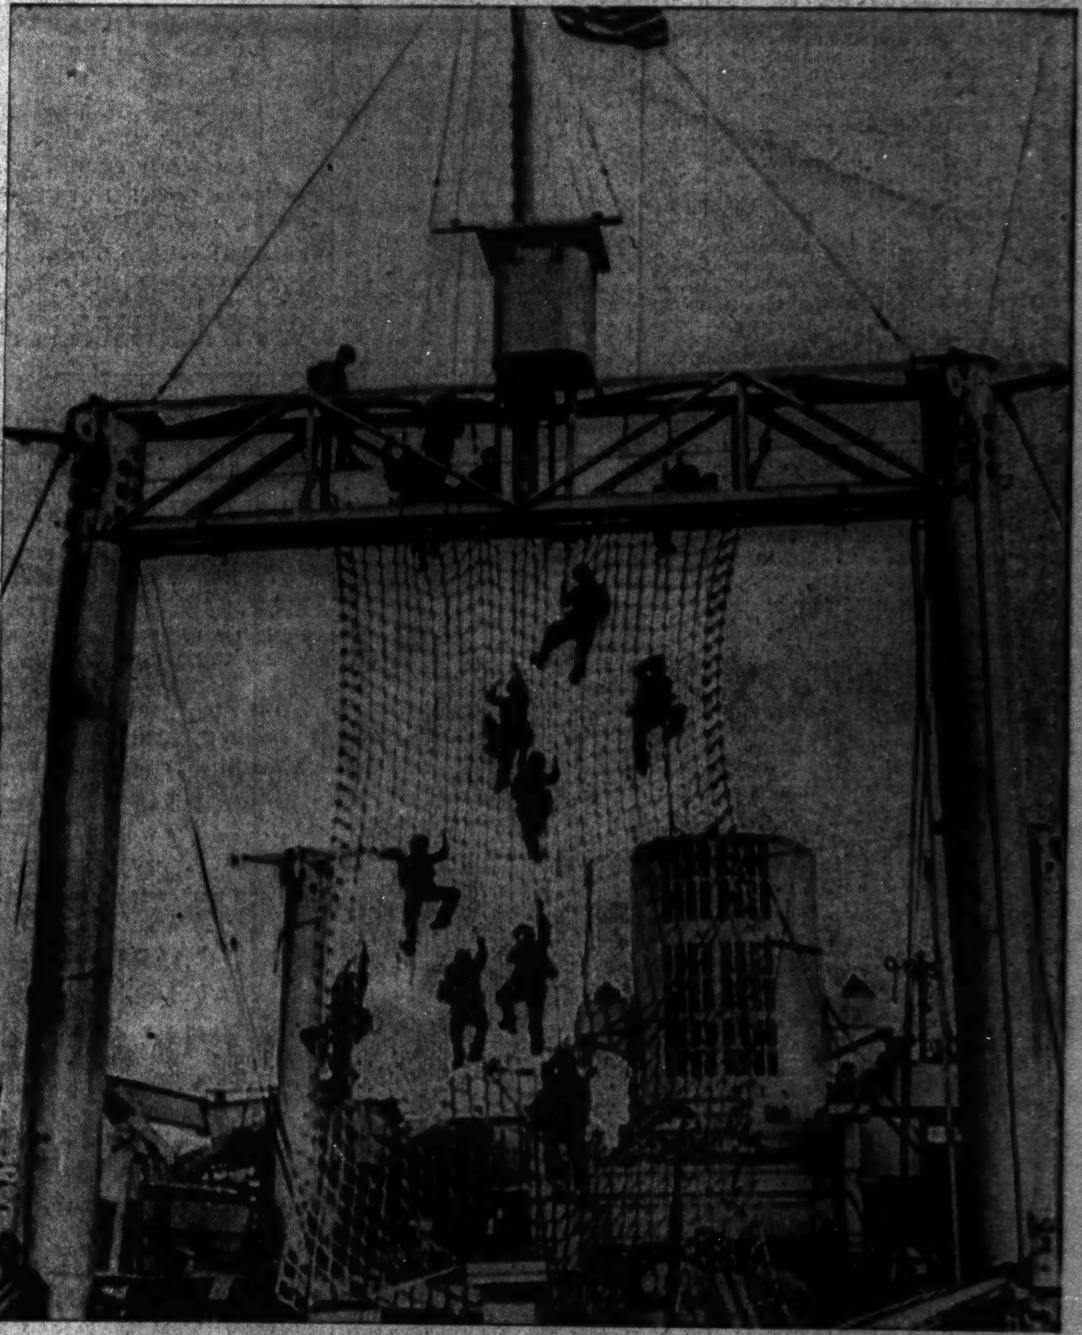
Roger Faherty Is G. O. P. Choice for Mayoral Candidate—Midwesterners Honored in Pacific Battle



[Associated Press Wirephoto from the United States Navy.]

The navy's description says that this is an aerial view of barges, which bore re-enforcements for the United States forces on Guadalcanal Island in the Solomons, lying off that portion of the island called Lunga point. In the circle is a plane. The rising smoke wasn't explained.



[Acme Telephoto.]

Military sources say these are United States troops engaging in disembarkation drill aboard ship "somewhere at sea." The ship's motion is said to add realism and difficulty.
